FELL 75 FEET TO MEET DEATH

THRILLING RESCUES

Two Men Escaped Fate of Companions and Were Saved With Difficulty.

STATION'S WORST AFFAIR

The most distressing accident in the entire course of the construction of the Union station occurred about 4:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when one of the last touches to the work in connection with that big building was being given. Three sheet metal workers were dashed to death on the tracks and ballast 75 feet below the trainshed, and two others hung dangling by their arms until they were rescued with ladders. While scores attracted by the accident gazed at the men suspended above, one of them lost his hold. All held their breath for a second, but cheered as in his fall he grasped with one hand the lowest part of the steel frame and saved his life.

The dead:

WILLIAM NELSON ADAMS, aged 30, married, lived at No. 2527 A street, Philadelphia.

CHARLES CARMAN, aged 32, married, lived at No. 815 North Camac street, Philadelphia.

ISADORE ROSENBERG, aged 25, single, lived at No. 217 Spruce street, Philadelphia.

The two men whose strength and quickness of arm saved their lives are John Ehret and David Moore, both of whom are from Philadelphia. It was Ehret whose hold gave way, but was again regained.

The accident was witnessed by a large number of persons, as it occurred just at the time when many suburbanites were returning from work.

The men were part of a gang of 13 who have been putting in the sheet metal and glass which will form the perpendicular end of the trainshed, below the curving roof, and above the opening through which the trains enter the shed. D. Lipton & Sons are the contractors for the work. All but five of these men had ceased work for the day, and the others were soon to leave when the breaking of the scaffold precipitated them into space. Had the accident occurred a minute or two later they would have fallen in front of a moving train. No. 10 being just about to start from the station. The train was held up by the accident.

BREATHED BUT A FEW MINUTES.

Two of the men were found dead when their bodies were picked up. A third was alive, but he had breathed his last before the rescuers bore his body to the station. All were taken to the morgue, where they were formally identified last evening by their associates. The bodies will be sent back to Philadelphia.

The scaffold from which the men fell is a massive structure stretching more than 100 feet across the face of the train shed. Only one part gave way by the parting of a rope. The scaffold had been constructed under the supervision of W. N. Adams, one of the men killed.

In the excitement that attended the accident all else was for a little while forgotten about the station. The trainmen left their posts, as did the other employes of the railroads. Passengers who were about to leave on trains did not miss their trains because the trainmen also were at the scene of the accident.

RESCUED BY LADDERS.

Hundreds were there to help raise the ladders that rescued the men above from their dangerous position, and others helped to carry the dead men to the station. Physicians were in the crowd and

TAFT PRAISED FOR GOOD WORK

Father Vattmann, a Catholic Priest, Says Administration Is Admirable.

AGLIPAY A RENEGADE

REMEDY IS SUGGESTED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, May 1.—Extracts from the report of Father E. J. Vattmann, chaplain of the Twenty-ninth United States infantry, to the Catholic bishops' assembly in annual convention here last week on the status of the Catholic church in the Philippines were made public today.

Father Vattmann, with the knowledge and consent of the war department and under direction of the church authorities, recently made a careful investigation of Catholic interests in the archipelago. He is unsparing in his praise of Gov. Taft and other members of the Philippine commission for their honesty and impartiality in religious affairs. He comments on the influence of Aglipay, an insurgent priest, and expresses the belief that had an American bishop instead of Mgr. Guidi been appointed to Manila the breach would not have been so wide and it would have been closed quickly. Father Vattmann regards the present feeling toward the friars as most unfortunate.

"To my mind," says Father Vattmann's report, "it is deplorable that certain of our Catholic papers persist in misrepresenting Gov. Taft and his administration. He is a clean and honest man, broad-minded and liberal, with no taint of bigotry in his composition. His attitude towards the church and to Catholic interests in general is simply admirable.

"You may be certain that he thoroughly understands the character and the selfish designs of the renegade Aglipay, and that he has a profound knowledge both of the men and the conditions around him. I repeat, the governor is honest and impartial and we have nothing to fear from him—he can always be trusted to do the right thing.

"Commissioner Wright, Gov. Taft's able coadjutor, is also fair-minded and impartial. He is straightforward in his dealings and there is no evasion or hypocrisy about him. He is an exceptionally good lawyer, an excellent Latin scholar, and is well versed in canon law, of which he has made a specialty. His wife, a most estimable lady, is a devout Catholic.

"Judge Smith, another member of the committee, is a Catholic, and surely our interests would be safe in his hands. Mr. Ferguson, secretary for the Philippines, a former Washingtonian, is another broad-minded man with not a taint of bigotry. In fact, the commission itself and all its members are possessed of the right spirit and we Catholics need fear no injustice at their hands.

"As to the Aglipay heresy—for it may be so called—I am sorry to say it has attained very considerable proportions and bodes danger to the faith of the people. Remember there are 10,000,000 Catholics in the Philippines, about as many as there are in the whole United States.

"I have the impression that had an American archbishop been appointed to Manila the breach would not have been so wide and it would have been quickly closed. Mgr. Guidi has done very well, but I really believe the appointment of an American archbishop would have carried with it more of prestige."

SECRETARY HAY MAKES APOLOGY TO THE RUSSIANS

Expresses Regret That United States Was Misled Into Misconception of Czar's Attitude in the Manchurian Situation.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 1.

Secretary of State Hay has sent to the Russian ambassador for transmission to St. Petersburg a note in which he expresses regret that the United States should have been led into even a temporary misconception or doubt as to Russia's position in Manchuria. He returns the thanks of this government for the frank and satisfactory declaration of Russian principles and adds a line to make the matter of record.

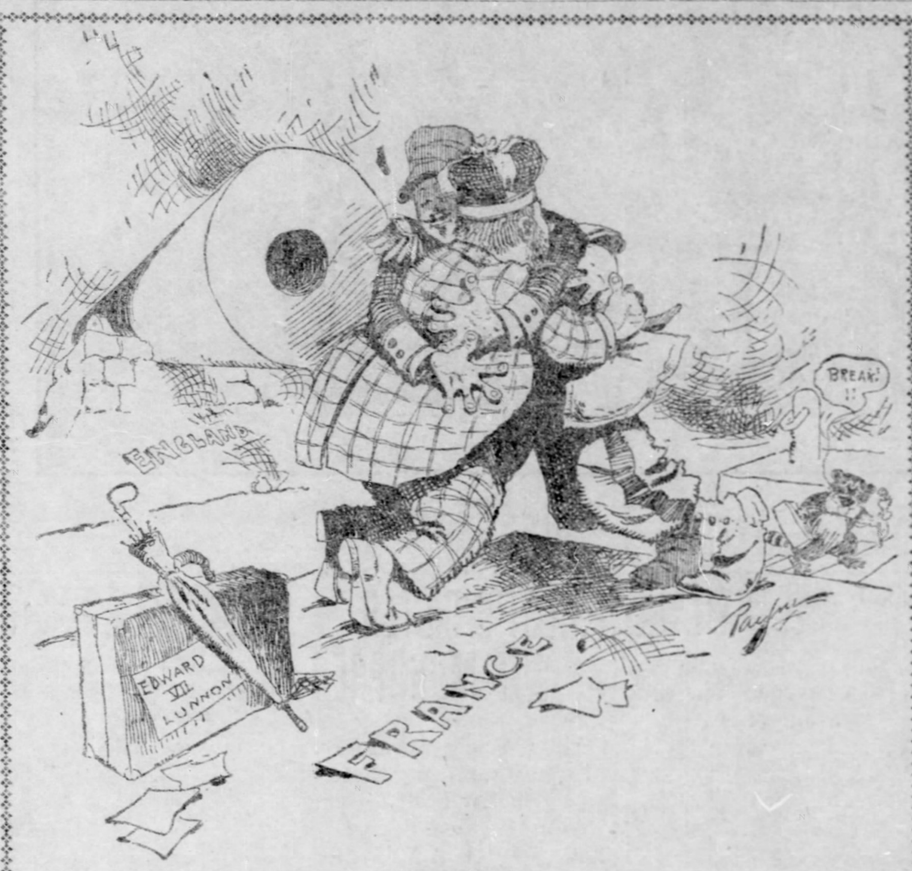
This note is expected to satisfy the good-natured Russians that the United States in joining the Japanese-English hue and cry over the cock-and-bull story from Peking was an error of the head and not the heart, and that we are Russia's trusting friend again.

The story of how the United States was misled in this matter will probably remain a diplomatic secret, although by this time Secretary Hay is in possession of all the facts. Mr. Conger, our minister at Peking, cabled the alleged Russian demands on China to the state department. The Japanese seem to have got a "beat" on the other diplomats at Peking, but peddled it around as a thing too good to keep. Mr. Conger, when asked if he was sure of his facts, is said to have admitted that he obtained them first from the Japanese minister and claims to have verified them by personal investigation. The disclaimer which the Russian government handed Ambassador McCormick at St. Petersburg was cabled to Mr. Conger. It was said at the state department today no answer to this had come from Mr. Conger.

Japan in great excitement promptly followed Mr. Conger's alarming dispatch with a declaration that it was true Russia was seeking to grab Manchuria, and the British foreign office, through Mr. Raikes, the first secretary of embassy here, visited the state department equipped with British declarations to the same effect. Both governments having vital political interests at stake were frantic to have the United States permit itself to be used as a catspaw.

Trusting Mr. Conger, whose remarkable misreading of a cipher dispatch at the time all the powers were about to sign their agreement at Peking in 1901 might have been remembered with profit, Secretary Hay sent a cable dispatch to Peking urging the Chinese government not to sign the alleged Chinese agreement and an inquiry to St. Petersburg for definite information as to two of the clauses in the supposed agreement. This agreement at St. Petersburg was accepted by the Russian government as a virtual declaration on the part of the United States that it believed the information that had been sent from Peking.

The position of Japan continues to deepen the mystery. That empire refuses to believe that Russia means what she says.



THE BIG VISIT.

ENGLAND'S KING LOUDLY CHEERED BY THE FRENCH

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, May 1.—King Edward arrived here this afternoon and was accorded a hearty reception by republican France. His majesty's welcome at the Dauphine railroad station by President Loubet and the chief officers of state and his drive through the avenues, the Bois de Boulogne and the Champs Elysee, presented a succession of brilliant spectacles. Everywhere the populace gave the king an enthusiastic greeting, the demonstrations at the Place d'Etoile and the Place de la Concorde becoming tumultuous. King Edward showed the keenest appreciation of French good will. Only scattered shouts of "Fashoda!" and "Kruger!" were heard and they were lost in the tremendous volume of demonstrative approval.

Vast crowds filled the boulevards from the early hours, people struggling to gain the vantage points along the route to be followed by the royal procession. On the square fronting the railroad station was a surging mass of humanity. A detachment of the First cuirassiers kept back the crowds.

The front of the station was draped with crimson and gold hangings and the interior was transformed into a superb reception room, hung with gobelin tapestry, having crimson and gold furnishings and decorated with flowers and plants. On the balcony was stationed the band of the Republican guard.

AN IMPOSING APPEARANCE.

President Loubet, surrounded by the cabinet ministers, the presidents of the senate and the chamber of deputies, the grand commander of the Legion of Honor, the military and naval dignitaries and the diplomatic corps, presented an imposing appearance.

As the train entered the station the trumpets sounded a royal salute and the band played "God Save the King." King Edward descended from his car and advanced slowly and alone, smiling and saluting. He wore the scarlet uniform of a British field marshal, his chapeau topped by waving red and white plumes and his breast adorned with various insignia, including the cross of the Legion of Honor. President Loubet stepped forward and grasped the king's hands. The meeting between the sovereign and the president was cordial, almost demonstrative. M. Loubet welcomed the king to France and the king expressed his thanks for the splendid manifestation in his honor.

King Edward and the members of his party entered state carriages with gorgeously clad postilions and outriders, and escorted by a regiment of cuirassiers, drove to the British embassy. The route of the procession was through the beautiful avenue Du Bois de Boulogne and the avenue Des Champs Elysees, arched with chestnut trees in full bloom. The lowering clouds, which marked the earlier part of the day, had broken up and the sun came forth.

WALLS OF PEOPLE.

The avenues were lined with solid rank of dragoons, cuirassiers, horse artillery, field batteries and infantry, guns, helmets and other trappings gleaming in the sunlight. Behind these martial walls the people were banked and all the trees windows and balconies and housetops were crowded with spectators. It was estimated that half a million people gathered along the line. At the Arc de Triomphe the scene was majestic, long, shimmering lines of soldiery and a forest of waving banners, with blaring bugles and rolling drums and succeeding bands taking up "God Save the King."

The president and the king were continually acclaimed as they passed through the line of soldiery. Among the [illegible] occasionally discordant shouts [illegible] but the prevailing sentiment [illegible] by friendly. When the co[illegible] the Place de la Concorde, a battery of great guns flashed out a royal salute.

King Edward alighted at the British embassy on the Rue du Faubourg Honore, where apartments had been prepared for him, including a throne room, furnished from the art treasures of the Borghese palace. Above the embassy transformed into a palace, the royal standard of Great Britain was raised. The Rue du Faubourg St. Honore was densely packed and the crowds continuously acclaimed his majesty.

RECEIVED AT THE PALACE.

After a brief rest at the embassy King Edward proceeded with an escort of cuirassiers to the Elysee palace, where he was received by President Loubet. They remained together alone for some time. When the king was on his way to the Elysee the crowds continued their friendly manifestations.

Paris today was given up to elaborate festivities. The boulevards were ablaze with color, arches and artistic devices symbolic of royalty. Many American flags were displayed and the United States consulate was gay with bunting. Street amusements and dancing were proceeding everywhere and the cafes teemed with merrymakers.

Tonight the city of Paris presented a fairylike spectacle. The facade of the opera was aglow with a myriad of lights, the column Vendome was crowned with light and along the boulevards arches supported flaming crowns and other devices welcoming King Edward. The thoroughfares of the city were blocked with a good-natured crowd.

President Loubet proceeded to the British embassy at 8 o'clock and escorted the king through the illuminated streets to the Theatre Francais to witness the production of "L'Autre Danger." The entire theater was occupied by invited guests of the government and the audience was made up of the foremost men and women of France. Upon arriving at the theater King Edward paused in the foyer to chat with Prince Murat and other old friends. The audience rose to its feet as the king and the president entered the presidential box on the right of the proscenium. King Edward wore evening dress and seemed keenly to enjoy the performance.

ERUPTION IN GUATEMALA.

Santa Maria Volcano Threatens Further Destruction of Life and Property.

SAN FRANCISCO, May. 1.—(Special.)—Santa Maria volcano in Guatemala has broken out again, but with what damage is not known. The news was brought to this city today by the steamer San Juan, which left Champerico on the afternoon of April 17, the day the fresh eruption is said to have taken place. Couriers from the interior brought word that a storm of ashes was falling, and that the inhabitants of the surrounding country were panic-stricken, as they were last October when Santa Maria first broke out with a tornado of fire, ashes and pumice stone.

The atmosphere in the direction of the volcano was thick when the San Juan sailed, and nothing further was learned of the occurrence. Following the first great eruption of Santa Maria last year those of the inhabitants who survived abandoned their homes and for months the region about remained a desolate waste. Recently, however, many returned to the old abodes and were endeavoring to bring order out of chaos.

Arrested the Friars.

MARSEILLES, May 1.—The barricaded monastery of the Capucins here was taken by the police, who arrested the friars and their sympathizers within the building.

SAVED WHEN BRAVE GIRLS SENT ALARM

Message Over Red Hot Wire Checked Bad Blaze.

FIRE IN WEST END

"Hello—there's a live wire in the office—its setting fire to everything—the engines are in the city—quick—send in an alarm or the building will be destroyed."

This was the exciting message Miss Margaret McCormick, a plucky telephone girl in the West End station of the Bell company, sent to the chief operator in Pittsburgh at 9 o'clock last night. While she spoke the switchboard before which she sat was wrapped in flames, and the words had scarcely left her lips when the angry blaze filled the room, blinding the operators with biting fumes and smoke. In the meantime a threatening fire was burning downtown and No. 10 engine company of the West End had gone to Fourth avenue.

The West End telephone exchange is on the second floor of the West End Savings Bank building, Wabash avenue and Main street, and the fire threatened to consume the entire structure. Miss McCormick and Miss Nellie Keenan, another operator, appreciated the lack of facilities for fighting the fire since the engine had been called away from its regular station, and forgetting their own danger, at once set to work to prevent the spread of the conflagration. Seizing a fire extinguisher and a bucket of sand, they ran back to the switchboard where the live wire was emitting vivid sparks and communicting the blaze to other parts of the room.

At the risk of their own lives the two girls kept bravely at work. Crowds in the street caught sight of the smoke and ran to the rescue, attaching a hose to a hydrant to secure water to put out the fire. The girls stood at their posts until driven out of the room.

Finally the flames were subdued just as the engine company came thundering along Main street after a long race from the city. The damage will not exceed $500.

TRIES TO SHOW NERVE BEFORE PRESIDENT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

TOPEKA, KAN., May 1.—During the trip to the governor's residence this evening a man named Murphy attempted to get on the president's carriage. He was knocked off by a mounted policeman. He then jumped upon one of the steps with the remark:

"I guess I'll ride here."

One of the secret service men in the carriage, by a well aimed blow, sent him rolling in the gutter.

He was afterward arrested. He was unarmed and did not contemplate any assault on the president, but tried to enter the carriage out of a mere spirit of bravado.

The incident greatly amused the president. One of the president's guards here tonight was Patrolman McIntosh, who was a member of Mr. Roosevelt's command at Santiago. McIntosh was recognized by the president.

State of Siege Proclaimed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 1.—A state of siege has been proclaimed at Salonica and extraordinary military precautions have been ordered everywhere in the empire, as it is anticipated that outrages similar to those perpetrated here yesterday may be attempted at Constantinople and elsewhere.

HARMONY PLACED ON A SIDE-TRACK FOR THE PRESENT

Thomas S. Bigelow Informs Senator Quay That the Citizens Will Not Go Into the Republican Primaries.

Harmony in local politics is again sidetracked for the present. Thomas S. Bigelow yesterday told Senator M. S. Quay that the Citizens would not go into the Republican primaries. This decision will doubtless be adhered to so far as the Quay election is concerned, but it is a long time until September 19. The Citizens are now at the mercy of the Democrats.

Citizens seem to think that Quay was administered a crushing blow yesterday when Bigelow told him that the "reformers" intended to continue as irregulars. They say that Quay needs them worse than they need Quay. If this is true he will probably get them, as he usually secures what he may happen to have use for politically. Being a resourceful man, he will find a method of making them need him. September 19 the county officials are to be nominated, and numerous things can happen in that period. Recorder J. D. O'Neil is authority for the statement that nothing will be done in the county fight until some time in August.

The Democrats will not agree to fusion on a cheap basis this fall. They understand that without them the Citizens cannot hope for success, and the price will be raised. They insist upon two of the best places on the county ticket, and this does not include the jury commissioner, an office they claim as their own. In addition, there will have to be a large number of Democrats given clerkships and the like in the city government.

BIGELOW SEES QUAY.

Bigelow and Quay had another conference yesterday morning at the Allegheny National bank. At the conclusion the Pittsburgher said that he had informed the senator that the Citizens would not participate in the May primaries. He says that this decision includes the September primaries. Quay said that personally he was not very much interested in harmony in the county, but would like to see peace in the interest of the Republican party.

After the announcement by Bigelow, County Treasurer Collingwood and County Controller Cunningham gave out statements in which they declared for a continuance of fusion until the "destruction of the ring is complete." In other words, they want the Democrats to stick with them until they have time to erect a new machine. When the work is complete the Democrats will be shoved aside. Collingwood, in his statement, tells why the Citizens are so anxious for fusion. He admits that in making the 11 appointments in his office he had to disappoint 231 men. This is about the way it has been all through the county and city offices and the Democrats will be badly needed this fall. The Citizens are keeping out of the primaries because they know that they would be defeated. There are hundreds of men who voted with them in November and February who will be regular Republican this fall.

REPUBLICANS NOT WORRIED.

Republicans are not worried because the Citizens refuse to go into the primaries. The organization has gained much strength since the February fight. The Citizens have lost heavily. Even if the Democratic bosses do agree to fuse and they will if they can get enough jobs, there are many Democrats who will not "follow the flag" this fall. While the Democratic bosses have been well cared for in county and city "pap" the rank and file has hardly gotten a taste.

The offices of sheriff, district attorney, prothonotary, jury commissioner and poor director are to be filled this fall. Before agreeing to fusion the Democrats will have to be assured that they can have two of the big offices and the jury commissioner. There is also a disposition to make the Citizens indorse the Democratic state ticket this fall. Such action may be forced on the Citizens for more reasons than one.

There must also be an understanding about the councilmanic election in February. The Democrats will insist that a goodly number of councilmen be given them. They realize their worth to the Citizens and a price commensurate with that worth will be demanded. In case the fusion county ticket wins the Democrats will see that in offices held by Democrats all clerks will be Democrats.

One of the high officials of the city government yesterday admitted that it was the intention to bounce the Democrats. He remarked that the Democrats ought to favor fusion as they had been well cared for. "Every Democrat we appoint," said he, "becomes a machine Democrat, just as in the old days. When it is no longer necessary to fuse, we can weed out the Democrats we are not able to handle."

SMITH HAS BEEN ASKED FOR ANSWER

Name of Former Postmaster General Dragged in Postoffice Scandal.

Today for the first time the name of former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith was brought into the postal investigation. Mr. Smith's name appeared prominently in a statement of S. W. Tulloch, who was for many years cashier of the Washington city postoffice.

The substance of Mr. Tulloch's statement is that the fraudulent practices in the postoffice department have been in operation for several years, and that the coterie of officials engaged in them have been protected by those high in authority. He declared that two years ago he presented to Postmaster General Smith facts proving conclusively the guilt of certain officials, and that Mr. Smith ignored them. When pressed to make an investigation, according to Mr. Tulloch, Mr. Smith treated the charges as frivolous and indefinite. This afternoon Postmaster General Payne addressed a letter to Mr. Smith calling his attention to Mr. Tulloch's statement and requesting him to inform the postoffice department if that part of the statement relating to him was true, and, if so, to furnish all the information he had on the subject. Similar letters were sent to Mr. Merritt, postmaster of Washington; Mr. Tracewell, the controller of the treasury, and Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, who were also mentioned in connection with the alleged frauds.

Mr. Tulloch declares that his duties in the Washington postoffice brought him constantly in contact with the guilty officials, and that, being on friendly terms with Mr. Smith, he warned him that unless he removed certain persons he would leave the position of postmaster general under a cloud. Tulloch adds:

"I doubt if any one, not even those making the investigation, will ever ascertain or realize all the ramifications of a certain coterie of officials, past and present, together with their political backers and participating friends. Very few "good things" have lasted longer, been enjoyed with greater effrontery or been so protected by those high in authority and influence."

Bishop Foster Dead.

NEWTON, MASS., May 1.—Bishop Randolph S. Foster of the Methodist Episcopal church died today, aged 81. Death was due to apoplexy. He was born in Williamsburg, O., received his education at Augusta college, Ky., and was ordained a bishop in 1872. For about three years he was president of the Drew Theological seminary at Paterson, N. J.

NO PRAYER NOR MUSIC OVER ROBSON

ABSENCE OF FLOWERS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Boston, May 1.—Without a vestige of Christianity, Stuart Robson, the actor, who died at New York three days ago, was buried at Cohasset, a summer town 20 miles from here, this afternoon.

There was about as much feeling displayed as would be at the funeral of a pet dog. In accordance with the wish of the deceased there was no religious ceremony of any kind nor any sign of mourning. The remains, in a severely plain coffin, were taken to the little cemetery and speedily placed in a grave alongside the body of his first wife.

After the sod had been quickly thrown upon the coffin box, Augustus Thomas, the playwright, made a few remarks in the nature of reminiscences of the deceased. Not even a prayer nor a mention of the hereafter was made because Robson wished it so.

There were no flowers to adorn the grave, and at the conclusion of the burial the "guests," for they were not numerous, hustled to the railroad station and boarded the train for Boston.

JOE LEITER PREFERS POVERTY TO IDLENESS

Young Chicagoan Says He Has a Valuable Patent for Coking Coal.

"I would rather be a poor man and keep busy solving problems than have plenty of money with nothing to do," said Joseph Leiter, Jr., of Chicago, last night at the Union depot. Leiter gained renown by trying to corner the wheat market a few years ago. He was on his way through the city on the Pennsylvania limited from New York to meet his mother, Lady Curzon, and sister, who have returned from India, where they attended the darbar. Continuing Mr. Leiter said:

"I have just completed a device for coking coal. My father and I purchased a tract of coal land in Franklin county, Ill., of 8,000 acres. This coal is hard to coke because it is without some of its heating qualities. My device, which is covered with several patents, will force the coal to coke. When the coal is placed in the ovens it will be given a blast which will increase the heat from 2,400 to 30,000 degrees."

President's July 4 Program.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., May 1.—President Roosevelt has notified the committee in charge of the celebration of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the town of Huntington on July 4 that he has accepted their invitation to be present and deliver an address.

Y. M. C. A. POTENT FACTOR FOR GOOD

GIVEN SILVER TROWEL

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

TOPEKA, KAN., May 1.—President Roosevelt made two addresses in Topeka tonight; one at the laying of the corner stone of the new railroad Y. M. C. A. building and the other at the Auditorium before the international convention of the railroad Y. M. C. A. Both addresses were heard by immense crowds, and were received with the greatest enthusiasm.

After laying the corner stone for the Y. M. C. A. building the president was conducted to the residence of Gov. Bailey, where he was entertained at dinner. His last address was given at 9:30 o'clock. The crowd was very large, but so excellent were the police regulations that there was little or no confusion.

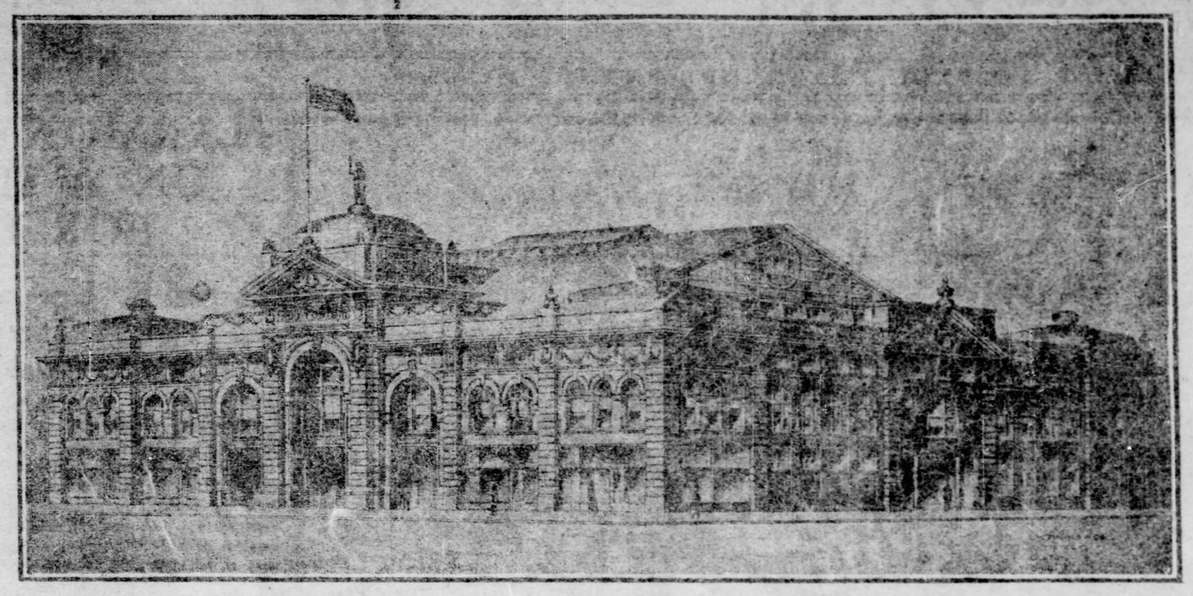
President Roosevelt's train arrived in Topeka an hour late. Over 12,000 people assembled at the site of the new Y. M. C. A. building to welcome him. The delay only served to add to the crowd. At 6:35 the booming of cannon announced the arrival of the president's train north of the river. Soon the train was switched from the Union Pacific to the Santa Fe tracks and run down to the new building. The president was escorted by a local cavalry company and a score of mounted police to a platform, where he made a short address, then laid the corner stone.

General Manager Mudge of the Santa Fe presided at the exercises. He presented the president with a silver trowel, which had been contributed by the road, and with this the president placed the mortar in position.

In his address President Roosevelt expressed his pleasure at being in the "geographical center of the United States." He congratulated the delegates to the Y. M. C. A. convention that they had come to Kansas for their great meeting, and said he hoped that their meeting would be the most profitable ever held. The president characterized the railroad Y. M. C. A. as one of the most potent agencies for good in the country, in that it tended to make better men of the railroad employes, upon whom so much depended.

The ceremonies occupied 20 minutes. Then the president and his party were escorted to their carriages and driven rapidly to the Copeland hotel. Company A of the Kansas National Guard acted as escort. A number of the party stopped at the Copeland, where they were entertained at dinner by the Y. M. C. A. The president was taken to the residence of Gov. Bailey, where he was entertained at dinner. As the party passed the state house a number of old soldiers who were drawn up on the east entrance of the building saluted the president. He returned the salute with dignity. This was arranged by Department Commander Loomis.

NEW AUDITORIUM BEING BUILT AT CANTON, O.



CANTON, O., May 1.—(Special.)—Work has been started on Canton's new $100,000 auditorium, which it is claimed will be one of the finest buildings in northern Ohio. The new structure will be especially fitted for accommodating large gatherings, such as political conventions and conclaves of secret societies. It is the intention of the Canton board of trade, as soon as the building is completed, to make efforts to land several large conventions for this city, including the Republican and Democratic state conventions of 1904. The rear portion of the building will be equipped for a market house.

MANY WORKMEN DEMAND AN EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Building Operations Are Tied Up By Strikes in Nearby Towns.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

MONESSEN, PA., May 1.—(Special)—The Trades Unions of the upper Monongahela valley, embracing the towns of Donora, Monessen, Charleroi, Bellevernon and Fayette City, are out on strike for an 8-hour day at a nine-hour wage schedule. The contractors were notified of this move on the part of the union last January, and declare that they will not under any circumstances meet the demands of the trades union. The branches of trade affected by the strike order are the carpenters, plasterers, lathers, stone masons, brick layers and hod carriers. The brick layers are affected only in as much as the hod carriers being out compels them to suspend work also. About 450 men are affected.

SHARON, PA., May 1.—(Special)—The boiler makers of South Sharon struck today for an eight-hour day and fifty cents an hour. They were receiving 39 cents an hour and working nine hours.

WARREN, O., May 1.—(Special.)—Union carpenters of Warren demanding $3.60 a day for nine hours' work, laid off today. Four contractors have accepted the scale.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 1.—(Special)—Although all of the other building trades unions have settled with the contractors the building which is going on is liable to be tied up on account of the strike of the lathers and hod carriers. All the other workmen were at work this morning. The Moulders' union of the city has made a demand for an increase of 25 per cent, beginning July 1. The minimum price for a nine-hour day is $3.15.

AKRON, O., May 1.—(Special)—Five hundred carpenters laid down their tools here today and inaugurated a strike which promises to tie up building operations for several months. The men demand $3 a day, eight hours to constitute a day. The contractors have refused the demand.

DISREGARD INJUNCTION.

Pennsylvania Railroad Officials Will Be Summoned Into Court at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 1.—(Special.)—Three Pennsylvania railroad officials may be brought into court tomorrow charged with violating an injunction. Judge Tuthill has been asked to issue writs of attachments for Superintendent Benjamin McKeen, Trainmaster John Conreys and Roundhouse Foreman Thomas M. Glenn for violating the injunction secured by Henry R. Bond restraining the railroad from operating trains over the tracks on the east side of Stewart avenue, between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh streets, and maintaining a fence on Bond's property.

A perpetual injunction restraining the road from using the tracks was issued by the circuit court in June, 1902. It was later affirmed by the appellate and supreme courts, the company being allowed 30 days in which to obey the ruling.

The company, it is now charged, still continues to use the tracks. The defendants are said to have been informed of the injunction and are alleged to be acting in direct violation of it.

PITTSBURGHERS IN COPPER MINE PROJECT

HOUGHTON, MICH., May 1.—(Special.)—The Higgins Development Company was organized here today by James R. Dee and local, Chicago, Duluth, Pittsburgh and Bisbee capitalists, to take over the Higgins group of 11 claims adjoining the Copper Queen mine at Bisbee, Ariz. The price paid is $87,000. The claims have long been considered of exceptional value, but have been stubbornly held by the owner, an eccentric miner, for higher figures.

GOVERNOR SIGNS FOCHT BALLOT ACT

CALPIN BILL IS VETOED

Executive Favors Ownership of Waterworks by Cities, but Finds Flaw in Measure — Dauphin County Loses Third Judge.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, HARRISBURG, May 1.

The Focht ballot bill, which changes the form of the official ballot, was signed today by Gov. Pennypacker. The bill was framed by a committee appointed by Senator Quay, as chairman of the Republican state committee, to carry out the party's ballot reform pledges made in the last state campaign.

The change it provides for is the grouping of the candidates for each office under one head in the same column and the placing of a square opposite the name of each party instead of the circle at the head of the column. It will reduce the size of the ballot about two-thirds and give candidates three more days in which to file their election papers in the state department.

A candidate nominated by more than one political party shall have the title of each party after his name, but his name shall not appear on the ballot more than once. The new law requires the voter to fold his ballot and deposit it in the ballot box himself. It goes into effect immediately.

The committee by which the bill was framed was composed of David H. Lane, Philadelphia; ex-Attorney General Elkin, Indiana; Homer Greene, Honesdale; ex-Senator William M. Hertzler, Fort Royal, and George T. Oliver, Pittsburgh.

The bill was introduced by Senator Focht of Union, chairman of the senate elections committee, and passed both the senate and house by nearly a full party vote, Representative McConnell of Lawrence county and one or two others being the only Republicans who voted with the Democrats against it.

The governor vetoed the Calpin bill to provide a means for second-class cities to become the owners of the water works and to authorize them to issue bonds upon the water works so purchased or constructed.

The bill was introduced by Senator Calpin of Lackawanna county, and was intended to enable the city of Scranton to secure its own water. The governor favors such legislation, but is compelled to veto the bill because one of its provisions is in direct conflict with the constitution.

The governor also vetoed the Call bill to prohibit the appointment of deputy constables in Philadelphia on the ground that it would overthrow a system which has been in existence for nearly 70 years and in the main has worked satisfactorily.

The Dauphin county third judge bill was also vetoed. This measure was originally intended to provide a judgeship for ex-Representative George Kunkel of this city, but, while it was pending in the senate, the plans of its promoters were disarranged by the death of Judge John W. Simonton. Kunkel was ineligible to appointment by reason of his being a member of the legislature, and his friends tried to persuade the governor to allow the vacancy to exist until after Kunkel had been nominated and elected. But he refused to agree to this, and, without consulting the Republican leaders, he appointed Judge Jacobs, who has taken no part in politics, but whose great legal ability was well known.

The Republicans called an early county convention and nominated Kunkel by acclamation to succeed Jacobs, indorsed United States District Attorney McCarrel for the third judgeship and urged the approval of the bill creating that office. Senators Quay and Penrose were anxious that McCarrell should be given a place on the bench, and they asked the governor to sign the bill.

He disposed of the matter today by disapproving the bill on the ground that he had grave doubt as to the necessity for it, and that he was opposed in principle to any increase in the number of judges, unless fully satisfied that the public interest in any county was a sufferer from an inadequate judicial force.

The governor has now laid aside his veto ax until Monday, when he will take up the remaining bills left with him by the legislature. He has disposed of all the legislation of general interest, with the exception of the Grady-Salus press "muzzler" and the four miners' bills. The governor went to Philadelphia this afternoon with Private Secretary Wharton on private business, and will return Sunday night.

LARGE AREA SWEPT BY FOREST FIRES

Homes Are Destroyed and Families Compelled to Flee for Their Lives.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LATROBE, PA., May 1.—The most disastrous forest fire in years is sweeping over Chestnut Ridge, covering an area of several miles, and destroying thousands of dollars' worth of timber. The fire started last night in the vicinity of Laughlinstown, which was threatened with destruction. A fierce wind which continued throughout the night fanned the flames into fury, and swept the fire far up the valley, destroying several logging camps and much valuable lumber. The entire force of the Byers-Allen Lumber Company and the adjacent camps fought the fire until morning. Farmers were compelled to start back fires to save their buildings. Several farm houses in the vicinity of Stoystown are reported to have been destroyed. The fire has been burning all day.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA., May 1.—(Special.)—The forest fire which has been raging throughout the greater part of McCalmont township and adjoining townships to the north and east yesterday was not put under control until 5 o'clock this morning. The loss of property will amount to about $20,000. Clark, Kiser & Kipp, whose sawmill is at Cortez, had almost 3,000,000 feet of logs burned, entailing a loss of $10,000. The Keystone kindling wood factory, also located at Cortez and operated in conjunction with the sawmill, lost about $6,000. It required the services of the fire companies from this place and Dubois until 5 o'clock this morning to prevent the entire destruction of the kindling wood factory.

When the fire was raging yesterday, George Shiffy, who lives near Sandy creek, lost every building on his place, together with all his livestock. So rapidly were the family surrounded that they could not escape, but took refuge in the stream, throwing water over each other to allay the heat. Mr. Shiffy, his wife and three children were all badly burned, and when the former came to town this morning for a physician he was suffering from several burns. Many other houses and barns were burned, among them being a residence, barn and blacksmith shop belonging to George Smith, and a large barn belonging to Mrs. John G. North.

CAVE-INS KILLED TWO.

Man and Boy Buried—Little Girl Lost a Foot But Escaped Death.

Three accidents occurred in Carnegie, in which a man and a boy were killed and a little girl lost a foot.

While working in a sewer in Diamond alley, near Third street, about 4 p. m., Andrew Herget of 508 South Main street, was crushed to death and Adam Shade, aged 60 years, and who lives in West End, Carnegie, was badly bruised about the breast. Herget, who was street commissioner of the borough was superintending work on the sewer when several tons of earth caved in from the sides of the sewer, completely covering him and crushing him about the head so badly that death was instantaneous. Shade, who was at work in the sewer, was only partially buried, and began at once to dig himself out. It was two hours before the dead man's body was recovered. Herget was 58 years old, and had lived in the town for over 30 years. He had held the office of street commissioner for five successive years. He was a member of the German Lutheran church of Carnegie. His widow, five sons and one daughter survive.

In Glendale Victor Gluscavics, aged 10 years, was playing with two other Polish children in a cave they had dug in the bank. A heavy fall of dirt from above buried him, and before he could be rescued life was extinct. The other children escaped with slight scratches.

About 4:30 p. m., while Mary, the 11-year-old daughter of Harry Lewis of East Carnegie, was returning from school with some other girls, she ran across the street in front of a car bound for Heidelburg. The car caught her foot and almost severed it from the ankle.

CLOSED WITH A RALLY.

Christian Soldiers Conclude Celebration With Parade and Speeches.

The military association of the Providence Presbyterian church in Liberty street, Allegheny, a branch of the Boys' Brigade of America, last night closed its celebration of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the association with a big rally in Allegheny Carnegie Music hall. The celebration began Monday night at the Providence church and was under the direction of Capt. F. H. Burkhart and Adj. O. E. Grubbs of the association.

The members of the association paraded over the principal streets of Allegheny, accompanied by the Swift mission of the First Presbyterian church, Allegheny. The Rev. William A. Kinter, pastor of the Providence church, offered a prayer at the opening of the rally last night and the Rev. Dr. John Crockar White, rector of St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal church, Pittsburgh, delivered an address on "Boys." Short addresses were made by Maj. M. E. McCombs, of the Swift mission, and Col. George E. Howell, of the Boys' brigade. Butts' chorus and the Keystone state band furnished the music.

PRIEST'S SISTER WAS MURDERED

Popular Young Woman of Lorain, O., Brutally Killed in Her Room.

THE CRIME IS A MYSTERY

Was Asleep at Her Brother's Home When Her Head Was Crushed By a Supposed Burglar.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LORAIN, O., May 1.—Miss Agatha Reichlin, the sister and housekeeper of the Rev. Father Reichlin, pastor of St. Joseph's church, was brutally murdered in the parsonage of the church at an early hour this morning. The police have tried in vain today to secure a clue to the murderer, but up to a late hour tonight have failed to gain any information as to his identity. Blood hounds are being rushed here tonight from Fort Wayne, Ind., and before morning will be put upon the trail of the assassin. The community is wrought up over the awful affair, as the young lady was held in high esteem in the parish.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Miss Reichlin retired for the night. A very pleasant evening had been spent with the Rev. Ferdinand Walser, who took charge of the church while the Rev. Father Reichlin was abroad last year. Cassimer and Martin Reichlin and John Hoffman were in the house and they sang and played until the hour mentioned. Father Walser and Cassimer remained in the house over night, occupying their accustomed rooms.

The Rev. Charles Reichlin left yesterday morning for Kellys Island to take charge of a funeral this morning. Miss Reichlin occupied her own room. Shortly after 1 o'clock the Rev. Father Walser was awakened by smothered cries of distress from the room adjoining his and occupied by Miss Reichlin. He said the cries were awful to hear and went through his soul.

He imagined that she was ill and waited to hear if her brother was looking after her. He heard a sound of a striking match and the door between the two rooms was opened. A short man stuck his head around the corner of the door and when Father Walser saw that it was not Cassimer he spoke up sharply, saying:

"What are you doing here? You get out of here as fast as you can."

The fellow did not ask for a second invitation, but got out very rapidly. Father Walser then called to Reichlin and told him there were burglars in the house. Cassimer rushed from his room in the front part of the house and imagined he heard the man going through the attic.

He had not yet learned that his sister had been murdered. After looking out of the window to the ladder where the fellow had disappeared, he returned to the room and managed to find a match to light the gas. He noticed that his sister looked peculiar, but just thought she had the covers drawn tightly about her. He took a second look, and beheld that the woman was dead and the blood-covered face showed how the deed had been done.

The police were summoned and a skirmish was made over the town to get any one who might answer Father Walser's description of the man. Several hard chases resulted and four men were gathered in, but were not identified. Father Walser, who saw the man, talked freely as to what he knew of the case.

"I shall never forget those cries as they went through me and left their impression," he said. "I believe that if I had not seen the man and had not discovered him he would have silenced me as well. Strangely enough, before we retired last night I spoke of locking the doors to keep out robbers."

Cassimer Reichlin, brother of the dead woman, said:

"As to the motive of the crime, I believe it was a case of attempted burglary. My brother went away yesterday to take charge of a funeral at Kelleys Island, and it was not known that Father Walser was here. I have been here about two weeks. The large dog had the downstairs to himself, and I believe that the stone used on my sister was intended for the dog. My sister, I don't believe, had an enemy any place."

A motive for the crime is what the authorities are trying to find.

FELL SEVENTY-FIVE FEET TO MEET DEATH

quickly examined the fallen men. They did what could be done for the one not yet dead, but he, too, was beyond recovery.

A large crowd followed the bodies to the morgue. The men were popular among their fellow workmen, and the accident took all the spirit out of the others. It is feared that many of them will refuse to go back to the work because of the superstitution that attaches to a job where such a misfortune has occurred.

It is said that the cause of the accident was the corrosion of one of the ropes by muriatic acid, which is used in the work the men were doing.

Among those who called at the morgue last evening was Philip Rosenberg, brother of one of the men killed. Coroner McGeary will hold an inquest in the case at 10 o'clock this morning.

MILWAUKEE PLANTS TO DOUBLE THEIR CAPACITY

Allis-Chalmers and Christensen Companies Plan Extensive Improvements.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

MILWAUKEE, May 1.—According to announcements made here today, Milwaukee is soon to rival Pittsburgh as a center of great engine building establishments. The Allis-Chambers Company and the Christensen Engineering Company have practically decided to double the size of their great plants. A small estimate of the cost of this work would place the figure at nearly $3,000,000. The Allis-Chalmers, West Allis plant, which has just been completed, cost between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000. The plant of the Christensen Engineering Company cost $600,000.

The taking of a contract for the exclusive construction of great German engines by the Allis-Chalmers Company and the rapid influx of orders at the Christensen factory are responsible for the great projects. The two plants, if doubled in size, would exceed even the great establishments about Pittsburgh, and would make Milwaukee's annual output of machinery equal in value to that of the Pennsylvania city.

The German manufacturers have produced an engine, says Edwin Reynold, consulting engineer of the Allis-Chalmers Company, which is apparently destined to revolutionize many lines of manufacture.

"The principal thing in this invention, for which the Allis-Chalmers Company has just obtained important rights," said Mr. Reynolds, "is the using of the gas generated by the fuel in blast furnaces for supplying heat and power."

CLASH OF AUTHORITY.

Federal and State Courts in Conflict in West Virginia.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., May 1.—A conflict of authority between federal and state courts has arisen as a result of the writ of habeas corpus granted yesterday by Federal Judge Keller on petition of John Laing and Stewart Hurt, indicted in Raleigh county, for killing the striking miner, John Harless. The writ placed in the hands of deputy marshals was served on Sheriff Harvey Cook at Beckley and as court was in session and Judge Joseph Sanders was present, the sheriff consulted with him before surrendering the prisoners to the federal authorities. Judge Sanders instructed him to keep the men in custody until next Thursday at least, when he will finally decide the matter.

The refusal to obey his writ was communicated to Judge Keller here today, but as the sheriff has ten days in which to make his returns no further steps will be taken in the matter until that time has expired.

MAY DAY IN LABOR FIELD

Thirty Thousand Italians Quit Work in New York and Delay Subway — Seven Thousand Men Are Out in Philadelphia.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., May 1.—All the hack drivers in the city went on a strike today and a dozen funerals were either prevented or the services were held over the corpses and the interment was left till the strike was over.

The funeral of the world-renowned scientist, Prof. Josiah Willard Gibbs of Yale, was announced for this afternoon, but the undertaker notified the relatives that a hearse could be provided, but that the mourners and probably the bearers would have to walk to the cemetery. The plans for the burial were changed when the hour for the funeral approached, and notice was given that interment would finally be at the convenience of the family.

The annual congress of the Sons of the American Revolution is in progress here and the delegates had arranged for a parade in carriages this afternoon. They were obliged to hire trolley cars. The striking hackmen jeered and hooted them as they rode past in street cars.

Hundreds of families planned their annual May day moving, but only those who could get expressmen who do not belong to the Drivers' union could secure teams. The hackmen demand shorter working days and higher wages.

SEVEN THOUSAND IN PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—More than 7,000 men in the building trades went on strike here today. This action affects directly 1,000 additional workmen and should the strike continue a week building operations will cease and over 40,000 men will be idle.

Two of the strikes have an important bearing on all other branches of the building trades—that of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and the strike of the Hoisting Engineers' union. The carpenters demand 50 cents an hour for an eight-hour day. The hoisting engineers ask for $21 00 a week of 48 hours.

Strikes were also inaugurated by several smaller unions, including stone derrickmen, marble cutters and the plasterers' laborers, all of whom demand an increase in wages.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The strikes of mechanics and laborers which had been looked for today did not materialize to the extent that had been anticipated. The agreement reached last night by the railroad officials and the marine engineers to submit their differences to arbitration put a stop to the general tie-up of all freight steamers in this vicinity. The strike ordered by the Teamsters' union last night has not yet reached any proportions. The orders were issued to 4,000 members, but not one-fourth of these quit work.

THIRTY THOUSAND OUT.

Some 30,000 Italian excavators and rockmen engaged on the subway answered the call for a strike by their leader today. They ask $2 a day for all men, while the contractors say they can pay this to experienced men only. The strikers paraded the streets, each waving an American flag. This strike practically puts a stop to work on the subway and also on excavations for new buildings.

CINCINNATI, May 1.—Owing to a disagreement between the Building Trades council and the Contractors' association of Cincinnati about 700 men are idle today, including 200 carpenters, 150 plumbers, 125 steam fitters and 125 steam fitters' helpers. The differences are not over wages or hours so much as over the demand of the masters for their men to agree not to go into sympathetic strikes.

BOSTON, May 1.—Not in many years has the labor situation in Boston presented a more complicated aspect than it did today. The employes in the trades, at least, had made demands on penalty of strike and 10,000 men were interested in the issue. In many cases, however, partial settlement had been reached or was in prospect.

BALTIMORE, May 1.—A general strike of union workmen in the building trades went into effect this morning. It is estimated that 4,000 men have quit work.

UNIONISM MAIN ISSUE.

Several of the unions demand a readjustment of the wage scale and an eight-hour day, but the main issue is the union card system, which will not admit of non-unionists working on the same building with union men. A number of employers granted all these demands.

OMAHA, NEB., May 1.—Eighteen hundred men, including teamsters, hotel and restaurant employes and members of the building trades, went on strike today. Sympathetic strikes are anticipated which will bring the number on strike to 5,000. The hotels are not directly affected, but may be drawn into the trouble. The hotel and restaurant employes demand a six-day week and other branches of the striking laborers demand an increase in wages of from 10 to 20 per cent.

TORONTO, ONT., May 1.—About 5,000 men are involved in the strike which began here today. Carpenters, builders, laborers and cement pavers demand an increase of 5 cents an hour.

BLOOMINGTON, ILL., May 1.—Every member of the carpenter's union, horseshoers' union and several other minor organizations laid down their tools this morning when the bosses refused to sign the new scale of increased wages.

ALL CARPENTERS ARE OUT.

LAFAYETTE, IND., May 1.—The members of the carpenter's union struck today for an increase. The bosses refused arbitration, declaring that they could not pay the scale demanded. Other unions agreed to the arbitration.

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 1.—About 200 riveters, caulkers, iron workers, boilermakers and iron handlers at the Crescent shipyard went on strike today for more pay and shorter hours of labor. The bricklayers and masons, 150 in number, also went on strike here today. They have refused an offer of $4 50 a day, holding out for $4 55.

NEWARK, N. J., May 1.—Two thousand masons and about 500 laborers went on strike today in this city. The masons demand 60 cents, an eight-hour day, and half holiday on Saturday at full pay. The laborers want 35 cents an hour. All the marine engineers employed on the river tugboats and freight boats also quit work today.

ROOSEVELT'S GIFT TO POPE REACHES ROME

ROME, May 1.—Cardinal Rampolla today received Father Francis J. Van Antwerp, of Detroit, Mich., and John Bodinelli, the bearers of President Roosevelt's jubilee gift to the pope. They will also present to the pope a golden scroll upon which are 25,000 signatures of persons who have subscribed $2,500 for the purpose of providing literature for the inmates of hospitals and prisons. Father Van Antwerp will return to the United States after the presentation.

Three Receive Diplomas.

In the First Presbyterian church last night the commencement of the North Bellevernon schools was held. There were but three graduates, Fanny Iva Miller, Grace Alice McKean and Sarah Fish Biker. The class address was delivered by the Rev. Perrin Baker, and J. R. Bovard, secretary of the board, presented the diplomas.

CITY HEADSMAN FINDS ANOTHER OLD SOLDIER

BROWN IS ALSO RIPPED

Head of Building Inspection Dismissed After Years of Efficient Service—Pitcairn Finds Some New Trouble.

S. A. DIES,
Superintendent Bureau of Building Inspection.

JOSEPH M. DUNN,
Chief Clerk Bureau of Building Inspection.

Years of efficient service for the city and nation do not count when the municipal headsman has to provide jobs for a horde of hungry place-hunters. This was demonstrated yesterday, when Capt. J. A. A. Brown, superintendent of the bureau of building inspection, and William T. Taggart, chief of the bureau of plumbing inspection, were removed from office.

Capt. Brown's place goes to S. A. Dies of the Eleventh ward. The new superintendent is a contractor, and was an ardent supporter of Mayor Hays. Capt. Brown is also a resident of the Eleventh ward. He has been in the city service for 15 years, and built up the present efficient bureau of inspection. Capt. Brown was badly injured in the Pike street fire in 1898, having both legs broken. When the new administration came into power the most prominent builders, architects, real estate dealers and insurance men urged his retention. The effort was unavailing. Every man in the bureau was discharged, and today it is in the hands of new men. None of them are familiar with the downtown buildings or the work which is to be done. Like numerous arms of the city government, the bureau of building inspection is badly crippled. Director Harry Moore is credited with having protested against the removal of Capt. Brown, but Mayor Hays insisted that the job must be given to a man who had fought the Republican ticket.

ANOTHER OLD SOLDIER.

The law protecting old soldiers was violated yesterday in the removal of Chief Taggart of the plumbing inspection bureau. He has served the city for years, but is guilty of being a Republican. He was given notice to quit yesterday afternoon by Supt. George W. Moore of the bureau of health, who acted under instructions from the front. The place has not been filled.

Conrad Wolfe, superintendent of the safety palace, was also ripped out yesterday by Director Moore. His place was given to Bemur Trumbur. Both men live in the Thirteenth ward.

Joseph M. Dunn has been assigned to the chief clerkship of the bureau of building inspection. C. J. McKenna was yesterday appointed special officer of the Public Safety building by Supt. John P. McTighe. There were probably some other appointments, but they were not given out. The policy now is to keep them quiet in the hope that it will prevent the disappointed office-seekers from protesting.

The superintendent of Marshalsea has not been announced. There will be a final meeting Monday to decide who is to have this place. It is about the best job left.

PITCAIRN HAS NEW TROUBLE.

When A. J. Pitcairn was sworn in as chief assessor at $2,500 per annum, he thought his troubles were at an end. Yesterday he discovered that his appointment has to be confirmed by select council. This will at least take a majority vote of the members of the upper branch. Ordinarily there would not be much doubt about confirmation, but at present there is a contest on for city clerk and the Pitcairn crew puts a new club in the hands of the Democrats. There will not be a meeting of council until May 11, and it is doubtful if Pitcairn can legally serve as assessor until his appointment has been confirmed.

Delinquent Tax Collector Fulton yesterday removed James Doherty, a clerk in the department. Following the new policy of concealment, the name of the successor of Doherty was not made public. County Commissioner J. A. Clark has charge of the appointing of the 14 new employes at the court house. Most of the men are at work, but there is no record of the names at the commissioners' office. Clark has not filled out his list. At present such names as "Smithy" and "Smithy" appear on the paper. When Clark identifies them, the proper names will be on the payroll.

At a meeting of the firemen's disability fund yesterday Assistant Chief John Dunn was retired on half pay to date from April 8; Andrew Hoffman, driver of engine company No. 11, retired from May 5, and John J. Freyvogle retired from April 1. Applications for retirement on half pay were received from Morris W. Mead, engineer of the bureau of electricity; Peter Wilkinson of engine company 16, Louis Keinler, captain No. 28, and William Gunst, stoker of engine company No. 8.

The board awarded the estate of Robert H. Wilson, $1,000. Wilson was killed while answering an alarm in the East End March.

MAYOR WILL NOT BE INVITED TO MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES BY G. A. R.

Mayor William B. Hays will not be included in invitations on the 30th of this month to Memorial day exercises under the auspices of the local Grand Army posts. The action of the mayor in discharging old soldiers from the city service and ignoring their petitions has aroused deep resentment against the city executive among local veterans.

Mayor Hays, represented by Assistant Solicitor L. S. Levin, waived a hearing yesterday before Alderman S. J. Toole to the suit brought by the Grand Army Association of Allegheny County and gave bail in the sum of $500 to appear at the next term of court. The mayor is charged with a violation of an act of 1897, which makes it a misdemeanor to discharge an old soldier without cause. A number of soldiers were dismissed by Mayor Hays when he assumed office, among whom was Samuel Moore, an ordinance officer, who is the plaintiff in the suit against the mayor.

CONDEMNED SITE OF TECH SCHOOL

All but Three of 17 Councilmen Who Looked Over Plot Oppose Purchase.

KNOCKING WAS RAMPANT

Only One of the City Fathers Openly Expressed Himself in Favor of the Magee-Flinn Property—Price Too High.

Seventeen of the 51 members of common council yesterday afternoon viewed the Flinn-Magee property adjoining Schenley park, the proposed site for the Carnegie technical school. The 17 members were all Citizens, and, with the exception of three, were opponents of the purchase of the property and supporters of Director E. M. Bigelow's scheme to condemn it. The three exceptions were W. B. Wolfe of the Twenty-second ward, in which the property is located; W. H. Barker of the Twenty-third ward and George W. McNeil of the Twenty-first ward.

The 34 anti-purchase councilmen, before they had hardly set foot on the ground, proceeded to condemn the property and to assail some of those who held contrary opinions. They did not permit themselves to say anything good of the site, but freely indulged in unfavorable comments. They raised every possible objection, and W. B. Wolfe, the only member who spoke openly in favor of it, got into many arguments.

FINE PIECE OF GROUND.

About 12 acres of the Flinn-Magee property make a beautiful piece of ground, with a gentle slope, situated on the north side of Schenley park and fronting 1,427 feet on Woodlawn avenue, which marks the northern boundary of the park. This portion of the land is all available for the purposes of the technical school and would make a commanding site, with near communication to Forbes street by way of the bridge through the park past the fountain and the Bigelow monument or over the footbridge which Mr. Carnegie has promised to erect in case the city buys the property for the school.

The advocates of purchase claim that the 12 acres will be ample for the needs of the school for many years to come, while the remainder can be utilized by filling in a deep hollow which intervenes, and by erecting the power houses on the lower ground.

The trip yesterday was intended to give the members of councils a chance to judge personally the adaptability of the land for a technical school and to determine whether the price, $350,000, is too high. With few exceptions the Bigelow members found fault with the price, which they considered much too high, and with the size of the ground, which they said was too small. Many other objections were found.

ALLEGED HIGH COST OF GRADING.

"Why, it will cost between $75,000 and $125,000 to grade the ground," said D. J. Bole, a Bigelow member from the Nineteenth ward. Another councilman reminded Mr. Bole that this expense would not be borne by the city, but by Mr. Carnegie, and that the city would have to buy only the site and turn it over to the trustees of Carnegie institute.

J. P. Sterrett, another Bigelow member from the Nineteenth ward, was equally pronounced in his objections to the site. He said he could not understand what use could be made of a "big hollow," and when it was suggested that Jones & Laughlin and others would be glad to use the hollow as a dumping ground he turned away in disgust.

C. S. Crawford, president of common council, also found many things connected with the site that he did not like, as did D. F. Crawford, a Bigelow member from the Fourteenth ward. D. F. Crawford said he is opposed to the city buying property with a big hollow.

RIGHT OF WAY FORFEITED.

He was told that the street car company had abandoned its tracks through the ground four or five years ago, and had, therefore, forfeited its right-of-way. The two Crawfords insisted that $350,000 was too much money to pay for the property, and that the 12 acres immediately adjoining the park are too small for the school.

As the councilmen were leaving the ground they were met by D. O. Barr, the agent for the property. Mr. Barr produced a map showing the boundaries of the land and answered a number of questions. He denied that the property had been sold a few years ago for $37,000.

He said it had been mortgaged for $37,000 about 12 years ago, and about 10 years ago C. L. Magee and William Flinn bought it for $102,000. It had been assessed for a number of years at $207,000, and had the difference between the last assessment and the price now asked represented the increase in its market value.

NO SUGGESTIONS TO BE MADE.

While nearly all the Citizens councilmen yesterday declared themselves as unfavorably disposed toward the Flinn-Magee site, they could not suggest any other spot on which to locate the technical school except going back to the abandoned park project of locating the school near the Murdoch street entrance.

Another fault found with the Flinn-Magee site yesterday was that the people in the neighborhood might object to the smoke which might come from the power houses of the technical school.

The members who composed the inspection party yesterday were as follows:

Messrs. Beldauf, Barker, Beckert, Beltner, Bole, D. F. Crawford, C. S. Crawford, Jack, Lamb, David Lewis, McNeil, Schad, Sterrett, Walls, West, Wolfe and Zenger.

BRADDOCK HOSPITAL MOVEMENT IS STARTED

Borough Chamber of Commerce and Ladies' Association Meet and Take Action.

An energetic movement to secure a hospital for Braddock was started by the chamber of commerce and Ladies' Hospital association of Braddock at a meeting yesterday and committees were appointed to solicit donations for the institution.

The movement to establish a hospital in Braddock was started nearly 10 years ago, when a party of ladies organized the Braddock Ladies' Hospital association, and by entertainments and other means raised $12,000 to be used in erecting a hospital. For the past several years the matter has been at a standstill and recently the chamber of commerce interested itself in the matter and the appointing of committees to solicit subscriptions for the hospital is the result.

Subscription blanks will be distributed throughout the lower Monongahela valley, and it is thought that within a few months sufficient money can be secured to purchase a site and commence work on a hospital building.

WAR ON ORE DUST.

Oakland Citizens May Raise Funds to Carry Case to Higher Courts.

The residents of Oakland are still stirred up over the ore dust nuisance from the Jones & Laughlin Company's blast furnaces, and following a meeting of citizens held on Friday night the board of directors of the Oakland board of trade discussed the subject at their meeting last night.

It is probable the board of trade at its next meeting may consider a suggestion to solicit funds to carry on the injunction suit brought by E. R. Sullivan, one of the victims of the dust nuisance. The common pleas court refused to restrain the company from producing ore dust, and it has been suggested that the case be appealed and that the residents of Oakland contribute the necessary funds, it not being considered fair to compel Mr. Sullivan to bear all the cost.

NEARLY READY TO ASK FOR CITY'S WATER PLANT

Syndicate's Agent Says Proposition Will Be Embodied in an Ordinance.

W. A. Shoemaker of New York, who is representing the syndicate trying to secure the Pittsburgh water works system at an annual rental of $500,000, spent yesterday conferring with city officials and politicians and left last night for New York. He had been in Chicago several days conferring with capitalists interested in leasing the Pittsburgh water works. He went to New York to hold conferences with the eastern capitalists. Speaking of the project, Shoemaker said:

"The matter has nearly advanced far enough to make a formal proposition to the city for leasing the water system. I will return to the city Tuesday, and will be accompanied by some who are financially interested in the matter. An ordinance will be prepared and presented to your council. The proposition will be a fair one and should meet with the approval of all the councilmen.

"We expect there will be some fighting before the matter is settled; that is to be expected. But things will eventually work out so that the city will grant the privilege that will be asked of it.

"The syndicate is an old one, having practically been organized 10 or more years ago. It is interested in several gigantic enterprises. The late N. K. Fairbanks was a member and several other men of prominence in the financial world are interested."

DIFFER FROM THE PASTOR

Reported Cause of the Resignation of the Rev. Duncan McPhie in Avalon.

The announcement of the resignation of the Rev. Duncan A. McPhie from the pastorate of the United Presbyterian church of Avalon, has caused somewhat of a sensation in the borough. Mr. McPhie's resignation will be presented to the Allegheny presbytery next Tuesday in the Third Presbyterian church. He refuses to talk about the reasons leading up to his present action, but it is said that the actions of some of the prominent members of his church were intolerable to the pastor.

These members, it is said, hold doctrines and beliefs entirely incensistent with what is recognized as orthodox United Presbyterianism. One of their beliefs is said to be that the proper baptism is by immersion. So potent has been the influence of these members that it is said a split in the church is threatened and for this reason the Rev. Mr. McPhie will lay the entire matter before the presbytery.

There is a belief among the faction in the church sympathizing with the pastor that the resignation of Mr. McPhie will not be accepted by the Presbytery, but that the radical element in the church will be brought to account for their unusual beliefs.

The Rev. Mr. McPhie has been pastor of the church but one year, coming here from Lowell, Mass. During his year as pastor the church has grown considerably in numbers and over $6,000 has been contributed to the church.

WEATHER IS PROMISED FOR TODAY

Chilly weather is at an end for a time, according to the weather forecast for this section. Today will be fair and warmer, while the prediction for tomorrow is for showers. Frost was looked for this morning in Pittsburgh, and much of the vine and shrubbery which have been left outside were covered in order to protect them as much as possible from the blighting effect of frost. The temperature is reported to be rising still in the west and the probability of frost in western Pennsylvania this morning is remote. Last night at 10 o'clock the temperature in this city was 42 degrees. Yesterday's maximum temperature was 61 and the minimum 36. There was a difference of 34 degrees in the maximum between yesterday and Thursday. The temperature yesterday was 14 degrees below normal.

The weather report for April, furnished by the local weather office, shows that Pittsburgh had during the month nine clear days, 13 cloudy days and eight partly cloudy days. On 13 days there was rainfall of .01 of an inch or more, the total being 2.82 inches. The greatest rainfall during the month was on the 8th, when .83 of an inch fell, and the next greatest was on the 8th, when .72 of an inch fell. The highest temperature was 77 degrees, on the 30th, and the lowest was 24 degrees, on the 5th.

The excess in the temperature since April 2 is 354 degrees. The maximum velocity of the wind continuing for five minutes was 30 miles an hour, and came from the northwest on April 30. The prevailing direction of the wind during the month was northeast. Light frost formed on the 27th, heavy frost on the 29th and 24th, and a killing frost formed on the 5th.

A CHECK WAS FORGED.

Shoe Merchant Is Swindled Out of Pair of Shoes and Seventeen Dollars.

Miles Nill, a shoe dealer of McKeesport, was successfully swindled yesterday out of a pair of shoes and change on a $20 check presented to him in payment for the shoes by a man giving the name as John Graham. The check is said to be forged.

The man said he was employed at the Monongahela tinplate works and presented a check apparently signed by J. E. Lauck, the superintendent of the mill. Nill gave the man a pair of shoes and $17 change. Graham is said to be known around Mckeesport under a different name.

Anyone unable to purchase a copy of the Pittsburgh Gazette on trains or at news stands will confer a favor by reporting the same to this office.

Saturday, May 2, 1903.

Capt. J. B. Ford, whose death was announced yesterday, was typical in his life of the spirit that has made this country what it is. He amassed two fortunes in his time and founded industries that have reached huge proportions. The most remarkable fact in his history is that he established the plate glass industry in the United States after he was 60 years of age and after he had suffered the loss of his first fortune, yet lived to see it completely successful and passed out of his hands. Capt. Ford was a man of marvelous energy and resources; he was benevolent to a high degree and his long life was useful throughout to his fellow men. His memory will long be cherished and revered.

May Day strikes are reported from nearly every point in the country. There have been many in Chicago and other cities of the west and a good many in the great cities of the east. Pittsburgh has but one in the building trades, and that is for an increase of wages for common, unskilled labor. This is a very satisfactory indication of the conditions prevailing here. Labor is well paid and fully employed and the organizations of skilled workmen are intelligent enough to not kill the goose that lays the golden eggs. The prospect is for a good building season. The movement of real estate is active and the building permits are well up to the record limit. Pittsburgh has good reason to be happy and to look to the future with confidence.

During this week the news columns have teemed with the annual accounts of the spring destruction of our forests by fire. There will be another period of the same sort and of longer duration in the autumn, if this year may be judged by those which have passed. From far up in Canada down to the longitude of Pittsburgh timber was falling before the flame and villages were being wiped out until grateful rain and snow stopped the work of destruction. Much has been said and written about these annual losses. Much legislation has been enacted, yet there is no apparent diminution in the number or extent of the spring fire areas. Timber is too valuable to be disposed of in that way, but it is not an easy matter to stop the destruction.

As a result of the wrecking of the banks in Salonica by dynamite in the hands of a rebel band martial law has been proclaimed there by Turkey and Italy has dispatched a fleet of warships to guard its interests. It is apparent that disorder is increasing throughout European Turkey. It is no longer confined to Macedonia and Bulgaria. There are fresh outrages perpetrated by the Kurds in Armenia also, but they have not distracted public attention from the grave situation in the Balkans. There can be no doubt Europe desires peace, but it is equally certain the situation in the Turkish dominions is becoming well-nigh intolerable and war now seems more probable than at any previous juncture. It need surprise no one if before the month of May has passed Eastern Europe is aflame with strife and carnage.

Yesterday was "Dewey Day," or "Manila Day," but it was not much celebrated. It must not be concluded from this circumstance that the American people have forgotten the glorious victory of five years ago, or the hero of that occasion. They have not. But the American people are not highly emotional, and having done honor to the occasion and the man, have turned with renewed ardor each to his own duty or avocation. The glory of one battle fought and won will not suffice to still their ambitions while there are other fields to conquer. In short, the American people are busy. They have time to give a grateful thought to Dewey for his great achievement, but it is not necessary to halt their private affairs and give a day to noisy acclamations to prove their remembrance. It is understood and taken for granted.

Gov. Pennypacker yesterday approved the Focht ballot bill, which abolishes the party circle and party column, substituting therefor the Australian group system and a party square. The bill is a vast improvement upon the present law because it reduces the size of the ballot fully one-third and because it virtually eliminates the chance of invalidating a ballot by improper marking. The voter who marks in the party square may, under the new law, still mark one candidate or more of another party and have his vote counted for those for whom he intends it. The new system will also afford less opportunity for frauds upon the ballot than the old mongrel combination of kangaroo with unknown species.

Secretary Hay's thanks to the Russian government for its frank explanation and satisfactory denial of the reported demands made upon China may be taken as closing the Manchurian incident, at least in as far as the United States is concerned. It is probable, also, that Great Britain and Japan will calm themselves and be content with the explanations obtained by the United States, especially as Secretary Hay's note reduces to writing the verbal assurances of the Russian ambassador and foreign office. The powers that Russia has really asked are for the advantage of the United States, Europe and Manchuria, if not wholly satisfactory to China. They are, however, really in the interest of good order in China and the preservation of the integrity of the empire.

An Abnormal Situation.

The present situation in national politics is a very curious one, and in its main features is without a parallel in our history. The renomination of President Roosevelt is universally conceded, and whatever opposition exists in his own party is without hope of influencing the action of the Republican national convention. There is nothing extraordinary in such a posture of affairs, as the renomination of an acceptable president may be said to be the normal tendency of our politics. What is quite extraordinary is the present attitude of the opposition party. The ordinary inclination of the opposition is to seize every opportunity to recruit its strength at the expense of the party in power, taking advantage of any opening which its dissensions afford. Opposition party policy has heretofore been so frankly opportunist that its choice of a ticket has been expressed in this wise: For president—a man who can win; for vice president—a man who can help him. But at present the Democratic party seems determined to discard opportunity and neglect any advantage offered by the circumstances of the situation. Such an attitude taken by a national party when it is in a position to succeed to power by a small percentage of change in the vote is an entirely new thing in our politics.

This attitude ignores advantages of a peculiarly inviting character. When opposition to President Roosevelt found that it was impossible to defeat his renomination, it turned to the Democratic party with overtures of influential support provided a safe, conservative candidate should be nominated. The movement instead of being welcomed has met with such opposition that it makes no perceptible headway, despite developments that would naturally strengthen it. Marked dissensions have appeared in the Republican party in New York, which offer an inviting opportunity to the Democratic party. Such a break as that which has taken place between Governor Odell and Senator Platt would formerly have excited the Democratic party with anticipations of victory. With the silver issue out of the way, it is held that New York would go back to the doubtful column where it used to stand, but the strong inducements which the present situation presents do not appear to be exerting any perceptible influence in shaping Democratic party policy.

The cause for this peculiar state of affairs is undoubtedly the activity and influence of William J. Bryan. He has fought every movement for a change of policy with so much vigor and success that the Democratic party is being confronted with the alternative of revolt or complete submission to his leadership. In the last issue of his paper he makes some significant remarks on this point. Replying to an attack upon him in the Boston Herald as "a marplot" he says he stands where he always stood and where he shall continue to stand. To the charge that he prevented a repudiation of the Chicago platform at Kansas City, he says that he "did not attempt to control the convention, but he did insist upon his right to control his own conduct and upon his right to refuse a nomination if he could not conscientiously indorse the platform." He was ready to run on the Populist nomination against a Democratic candidate if the Democratic convention refused to accept his principles. This is still his position. Unless the Democratic party goes along with him he will not go along with the Democratic party.

The Democratic party has before it the task of getting rid of Bryan before it can find itself and shape its party policy with a view to party advantage. This task will absorb its energies in 1904. It has no possible chance of defeating so popular a president as Roosevelt; the greatest stroke it can make for itself is to overthrow Bryan's dictation, and the fact that it cannot be worse off with him against it than it is under his leadership may encourage it to risk the bolt which Bryan's course plainly threatens, unless he has his way. Bryan will be in his natural place as the leader of a combination of the remains of the Populist party with the Socialists. His ability as an agitator may perform valuable public service in that field by forcing into prominence social questions not now receiving sufficient attention. But it is evident that the Democratic party cannot become efficient even as an opposition party until rid of his control, and politics will remain in an abnormal condition until this is accomplished.

The Business Situation.

The fact need not be disguised that there is a feeling in business circles that for the next few months there will be a relaxation from the feverish activity prevailing for the past three years. The activity has been manifested more in financial reorganizations and promotions than in general trade. The latter has resembled the slow but steady movement of a mighty stream of increasing volume, while the former has been more like a dashing current, overleaping the usual bounds and cutting new channels which may or may not prove permanent and navigable. The feeling of conservatism applies more to financial than to commercial affairs, although the spirit which imbues one will be felt in the other. Wall street has evidently concluded that the prospects favor a dull summer in the stock market. The financial leader of the street has gone to Europe, and there are no large operators with deals on hand that require their presence. That portion of the public which looks to Wall street for its cue will be influenced by the speculative apathy.

It will not be a bad thing to have a period of quiet in the stock market. General business cannot be injured thereby. In fact, the situation may be benefited. When preparation is made to meet certain conditions that may be foreshadowed in finance and trade, the actual change that may occur is met without much difficulty. We have had an illustration of this in the money market. A few weeks ago New York bank reserves were reduced to the lowest level for any corresponding season in ten years. During the early part of April the rates on call loans ranged between 10 and 15 per cent, and there was every indication of even greater stringency in the summer and early fall. Borrowers began to prepare for what looked to be the inevitable. The result has been a large increase in bank reserves and a decline in rates, until at the close of the month the money market had returned to normal conditions. Even the shipment of a half million gold during the past week, and the advance in sterling exchange to a point which foreshadows additional exports, had no disturbing effect.

Few people realized during the past month that Pittsburgh was breaking all records for the volume of its bank exchanges, because the contributions thereto came from its countless manufactories and mercantile enterprises, operations in which are less spectacular than in the stock market. The April exchanges of the local clearing house exceeded $224,000,000, which was $7,000,000 larger than the highest previous total for any month, and $36,000,000 in excess of the total for the corresponding month last year. The total for the four months of 1903 is nearly $300,000,000 larger than the total for the same period in 1900, a year which by common consent is always referred to as marking the complete recovery from the long era of business depression. While all cities do not show the same degree of prosperity as Pittsburgh, it is noticeable that the only material falling off in bank exchanges is at the centers of speculation. One of the chief factors in stimulating business expansion here has been the removal of freight blockades and the normal movement of railroad traffic. This improvement is gradually extending all over the country, and it may be that the relief experienced in this respect has been construed as evidence of a reaction in trade circles.

Unseasonable weather in the west delayed farm work during the past week, but there is little evidence that the wheat crop was damaged. From this time forward, however, the progress of the crops will be closely watched by financial and commercial interests. If the harvests are bountiful, there will be no reason to doubt a continuance of present business conditions.

Building Up Canada.

For many years Canada suffered a continual drain of population through emigration into this country. The tide has now turned the other way with a vengeance. There is a steady stream of emigration from this country into the Canadian northwest, which at the same time attracts the emigration from northern Europe that used to seek our own west. This movement not only develops Canadian resources in competition with our own, but it is also being energetically promoted by American capital and business enterprise.

The United States consul general at Montreal has been sending detailed reports upon this process of American investment in Canadian enterprises. In a recent communication to the state department he notes that American capitalists have started new railroads and banks. Different companies have begun to mine coal, copper, nickel and gold, and a company has purchased a tract of land in Montreal on which to erect a paint factory. Syndicates have been formed for the purpose of manufacturing pulp, timber, seeding machines, aluminum, iron, steel and asbestos. Valuable mica properties in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec recently have been purchased by United States capitalists. An American transportation company has begun to build ships to be operated between Duluth, Minn., and Quebec, and many other investments have been made of American capital.

This process has been referred to as the Americanization of Canada. As well might influx of capital into this country from abroad be characterized as the Europeanizing of the United States. The activity of American enterprise in Canada is building up and strengthening its national existence. The old idea that eventually Canada would be absorbed by the United States is every year becoming less likely of realization as her resources as an independent nation are augmented.

KING EDWARD IN PARIS.

An English sovereign will be officially and tumultuously received in the streets of Paris today, King Edward having reached the French capital yesterday and the welcoming festivities in connection with his visit will be projected through today and tomorrow. The event is unusual enough to be set down as historically and internationally important. Not since the days when the harassed King Charles II. became the acknowledged pensioner of Louis XIV. has an English sovereign been proclaimed with such eclat in the French city. The visit of Edward is social only, but it required much persuasion to convince the people of France that this was so. There have been all sorts of wild rumors in relation to this interchange of national courtesies, and even amid the shouts of welcome that greeted Albion's monarch there was mingled some of the old execration in subdued hurrahs for "Kruger" and the "Boer republic."

A new order liveth, however, and out of the animosities that have been strong enough almost to dye the waters of the English channel a sanguinary red with the blood of French and English soldiers there has grown a peace and concord that is at least able to hide the old, ugly scars out of sight, while king and president bow from the same carriage to the acclaiming populace. No shadow of Waterloo will rise high enough in Paris today to obscure the friendliness and greeting that France is proffering the sovereign whose ancestors helped to make that bloody field a great English burying ground.

In the international kissing journey that is going on President Roosevelt is getting the best of it. He has only to kiss babies while King Edward is called upon to kiss bewhiskered men.

Thrifty house breakers who make their escape must be greatly pained to read in the papers the next morning of a roll of bills in the bureau drawer that they overlooked.

If King Edward attempts to go the pace the Paris people have set for him there can no longer be any doubt as to the robustness of his health.

South Dakota and Roosevelt.

From the Vermillion (S. D.) Republican.

Theodore Roosevelt has broken bread and lodged within the borders of our state and passed to and hence. In many respects our president is a wonderful man—many sided, transparently honorable, a lover of books, streams, woods, trails and mountains. He has learned that best of all, honesty—the sort which comes to the man who pulls up a blanket about his shoulders and far from the habitudes of men is lulled to sleep by the night voices from our canyons or forests of pine and hemlocks. We care but little for Roosevelt the politician, but we do love Teddy the scholar, the woodsman, the plainsman and that noblest and scarcest work of God, an honest man. Theodore Roosevelt is a modern Jefferson, a worthy type of the gentleman in high place—a man who knows the littleness of the big army of politicians and neither fears them nor trusts them. May the Almighty fare our president well, whether we sign his political creed or not. In office and out we need the fearless man—he who will spot a rogue in his own party, and to whom ability and worthiness are more than the color of the skin.

Rights of the Citizen Soldier

From the New York Times.

On a writ of habeas corpus the supreme court of Pennsylvania has now by its decision affirmed the right of a militiaman to obey the orders of his commander, even if he is ordered to shoot; and he must be held free from civil prosecution therefor. It will, of course, be open to military authority to put him on trial if there is reason to believe that he has been over-zealous or done any unsoldierly thing.

Any other decision in the case of Wadsworth would have been an absurdity. Had the supreme court permitted him to go to trial for manslaughter all orders issued to Pennsylvania militiamen in future, if they involved the contingency of using ball cartridges, would necessarily have had to be accompanied by an indemnity bond with two sureties issued to each militiaman to secure him against the possible civil consequences of obeying. In short, the National guard of New York and the militia of other states might as well disband if the theory of militia service held by some of the leaders of organized labor were to prevail.

WOULD YOU?

Would you be young again?
So would not I;
One tear of memory given,
Onward I'll hie;
Life's dark wave forded o'er,
All but at rest on shore,
Say, would you plunge once more
With home so nigh?

If you might, would you now
Retrace your way?
Wander through stormy wilds,
Faint and astray?
Night's gloomy watchers fled,
Morning all beaming red,
Hope's smile around us shed,
Heavenward away!

Where, then, are those days once
Our joy and delight?
Dear and more dear, though now
Hidden from sight!
Where they rejoice to be
There is the land for me—
Fly, time, fly speedily:
Come, life and light!

The Quiet Observer.

ERASMUS WILSON.

The output of preachers by the various theological schools is becoming less and less year by year.

Why is this thus?

Is the demand becoming less and less year by year?

Or, is it because there is more money in the profane professions? Such can hardly be the cause, for the true preacher—one "called and sent," goes without scrip or purse, in full faith believing that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

As a rule laborers get what they are worth to those for whom they labor. If they don't get much from one worthy employer they seek another whose work suits them better and enables them to earn more satisfactory wages.

And surely it cannot be that the employer in this instance is not responsible, or is inclined to starve or distress employes. He has promised to richly reward all capable and efficient workmen. The rewards may not be in houses or lands, bonds or mortgages, trusts or syndicates, but in substantial treasure which neither moth nor rust, nor frost nor fire, nor even time can corrupt.

"Why is this falling off in the number of those studying for the ministry?" asks the Rev. W. A. Stanton of the Shady Avenue Baptist church.

After citing figures from the census reports showing that Baptist churches have increased at the rate of two a day for every day in the year, and that the increase in the number of students in the schools of other professions have increased from 30 to over 500 per cent, against 25 per cent for the ministry, Mr. Stanton offered the following as the probable reason why young men choose to be lawyers, doctors, dentists, or something else besides preachers:

"Salaries are too small and the demands too exacting. There are no stipulated hours of service and a man never knows when he is through. The work takes seven days in the week and includes some of the nights. Churches throw the minister over and think he is too old just about the time his observation, experience and study fit him to be most useful and influential. His salary has been too small for him to have saved enough to keep him and there he is unprovided for and unfitted for any other successful occupation. Some men fear the doctrinal restraints and they imagine there is not enough liberty of conduct and thought. Others are kept from the ministry because it takes so long and costs so much to thoroughly prepare for it."

In early times, while the country was yet new, and before great waves of prosperity had swept over the land, enriching some without much effort on their part, and impoverishing others in spite of their efforts, there were more children in families than now, and as might reasonably be expected, more boys to each family than now.

Then, as in these times, one of the more grave questions which confronted parents was what to do with the boys. The girls could get married and settle down, as their mothers had before them, but the boys must be fitted out so as to be able to take care of themselves.

The stronger, heartier and hardier country boys were sent into the new ground to plant and to hoe, or into the woods to make more new ground; while those in cities and towns were put to trades, or sent to service in business houses for a term of years.

Usually, the weakly, delicate country boy was set apart by his parents to be educated, with a view to making a lawyer, doctor, preacher, schoolmaster, surveyor, or something out of him, seeing that he was not fit to be a farmer, carpenter, stone mason or anything of the sort.

The weaklier, punier boys in city families were headed for college by way of common or select schools and local academies, with a view to fitting them for honorable professions, while their healthier and more rugged brothers toiled from six to six and slept in the store or walked home.

In those days, unlike the present, the highest and most honorable position in sight was the pulpit, but the way to it seemed to be closed, save to certain of the elect—the called, as the people believed. To have a call to the ministry a boy must not be as other boys, but quiet and studious, and if he were pale and thin all the more certain the fact of his calling.

Fortunately for him his harder brothers accepted these evidences of his call and, with rare exceptions, willingly helped him through the long and tedious lane leading to the pulpit.

Now and then there would appear a medical doctor, maybe of the rugged, home-made stripe, bold and sacrilegious enough to say the boy had liver trouble, or phthisic, or was suffering from lack of hoe-handle exercise, but he would only lose trade by his remarks—wise and true, perhaps, but untimely. And the smart doctor never made such breaks.

* * * * *

The boy who was set apart by his parents for the ministry usually escaped a lot of hard work, but missed a lot of fun. Now and then one would outgrow his ill health and develop into a whole, hearty, rugged man, and become a powerful preacher. Which was sometimes taken to indicate a special call. What he lacked in sanctimoniousness, or clerical mannerisms, was fully compensated by his vigorous methods, and his efficiency in handling those who could not be effectively touched by the D. D.'s, or more densely learned and highly cultured wearers of the cloth.

But times have changed—changed wonderfully. The people haven't the veneration for the cloth they once had, although they respect the true preacher none the less, or even more.

In these times the ways of God do not appear so dark and mysterious as then, and the people are beginning to believe that men were not made to be damned, and that Christianity is a code of life rather than an incomprehensible something by which certain foreordained ends should be attained for the glory of God, and incidentally for the welfare of mankind.

Hence, it is that the people want preachers who preach a practical, every day, business like religion, and they decline to pay the price for any other sort.

* * * * *

It is possible for a thorough course of education and training in theological schools to unfit men—some men at least—for usefulness in the pulpit. They become so full of dead languages, dead dogmas and dead theories that they have no room for live doctrines, living facts and breathing truths. These sermons might be accounted great and powerful by an audience composed of scholars like themselves, but in common cars they are but a play of words—only words.

Many of the most efficient and beloved preachers who have lived, or are now living, were called from shops, mills, farms and the more humble walks of life—called from their hearts to minister to the plainly apparent wants of their fellowmen in accordance with the will of God, and often the example of the Son of God.

These preachers were not hampered by overmuch feeding on dry husks, nor by forms of doctrine formulated by councils in ages past, nor by traditions more respected for their age than for any practical purposes to which they may be applied.

There is a growing demand for such preachers, and it is being met, not from the output of theological seminaries, but from the schools among the people who are to be benefited.

* * * * *

Not long since there appeared an item, and it was a real news item, to the effect that a certain congregation of disciples in Illinois was casting about for a young man suitable for the business of preacher. The item went on to state that this congregation had trained three preachers already, and that the last one having been called to a wider and more inviting field, it wanted another to take his place.

It appears that this congregation selects a young man who is capable of seeing the needs of people, and the tact and ability to minister to them in a practical way. He is expected to study the life of the Master Teacher, rather than the views of doctrinaires, and to practice the precepts of the Master as laid down in the book, rather than bother with the views of critics or creedists.

It is needless to say this congregation not only thrives and flourishes—it is a power in the country round about, and its influence is being felt far and wide through its graduates, and its under graduates, and its membership generally.

The falling off in the theological seminary output may not prove such a serious matter after all.

Philadelphia Getting Uneasy.

Gov. Pennypacker having approved what is called the Greater Pittsburgh bill, Pittsburgh is preparing to take in the surrounding country and spread herself generally. It may be well to give notice that any encroachments east of the Alleghany mountains will be looked upon with disfavor.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

(By Private Wire to The Gazette.)

NEW YORK, May 1.—New York has been swept by a hurricane nearly all day and the work of the vagrant breezes has been commented on admiringly or wonderingly, according to the temperament of the person watching it and the annoyance he may have suffered personally. As usual when the wind blows at the rate of 30 miles an hour there has been a crowd of idlers opposite the "Flatiron" building watching the discomfiture of women with their skirts and the gambols of men—especially fat men—after their hats. There have been a few signs blown down and windows broken, and the Broadway squad of six-foot policemen have had to be extremely vigilant in getting timid women across the dangerous spots in the main thoroughfare. Never since the talk of establishing aisles of safety at wide crossings began has there been such a marked need of them. The one which has already begun at Twenty-third street, but which at present is nothing but a boarded-up parallelogram, will surely be useful when it is in operation, and the evident truth of this statement has made citizens more out spoken than usual as to the desirability of other "aisles" being built without loss of time. A windy day in New York city is something to cause apprehension among timid people of either sex, because one never knows when one will be hit with anything from a dentist's shingle to a plate glass store front. Of course the "aisles" will not save the pedestrian from injury if he happens to be in the way of some falling sign or big window, but it will lessen his chance of being run down by a cab or a brewer's wagon and that is something.

Wish to Read of Pittsburgh.

One of the busy newsdealers which are to be found at many Broadway corners, where magazines of any kind can be purchased, as well as papers, told me this afternoon that he had sold more copies of a certain magazine for May than ever before in his connection with the business. The magazine in question has an article on Pittsburgh's politics and Pittsburgh's public men, written in a smooth and entertaining way, and the newsdealer explained his large sales by saying that there is no city in the country outside of New York that is watched more closely by New Yorkers. It is regarded as a sort of fairyland, where wealth flies out of the smokestacks and settles in the form of $10 bills with the grime in the hands of those walking along the streets. Everyone here wants to know all that can be learned about that wonderful city, and the magazine is selling like hot cakes all over Greater New York.

Weather Turns Cold Again.

After one spurt of hot summer weather New York has got back to its old condition of chilly winds and frosts which have distinguished this spring as the most remarkable for many years. It is cold tonight—not merely chilly, but cold.

Breeze Spoils Golfers' Sport.

It was not easy to play golf today with the gale sweeping across the island and playing tricks over on Long Island. From Garden City a half hundred disgruntled golf players came to Manhattan this evening, saying that golf had been almost impossible. Still the game went on in some shape and the second round for the president's and club clubs and the first for the Garden City cup was negotiated to the satisfaction of everyone except those beaten. W. J. Travis was in the defeated eight in the first round for the president's cup. One thing was apparent in the billiard room of the Waldorf-Astoria this evening, and that was that wind does not interfere with the discussion of golf—quite the contrary.

Free Lunch in Brooklyn.

Although free lunch was not to be found in Brooklyn today the knowing one who frequents Manhattan bars could get crackers and cheese and other comestibles if he knew where to go and without paying for them, either. Pittsburgh abolished the free lunch many years ago, but it sticks to the counter in Manhattan in spite of the fiat of the Liquor Dealers' association. But then it was the courts that forbade it in Pittsburgh, which is a different thing altogether.

Afraid of Shaving on Shipboard.

I was this afternoon aboard the vessel which brought The Pittsburgh Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph teachers' party home from Europe last summer, the Columbia. She will sail for Glasgow tomorrow. The barber of the ship, a Mr. Gill, talking about his own department, remarked that it was not at all a dangerous thing to be shaved on shipboard, because the barber shop is always amidship. "But you cannot make everyone see that," he added, with a twinkle in his eye. "In The Pittsburgh Gazette party, for instance, I remember one gentleman who got aboard at Glasgow with a clean-shaved face and was as spruce a young man as I ever saw. When we reached New York his face looked like an old hair brush. No shaving for him on board ship. He said he would rather look like a gorilla than have his throat cut."

"What was his name?" I asked. But Mr. Gill shook his head. He said it would be a shame to tell that and perhaps find it published in a Pittsburgh paper afterward.

Striking Workmen on Parade.

The itch for making a public parade of themselves seems to affect all classes of striking workmen in this city. Only a few weeks ago the Brotherhood of Carpenters took possession of Fifth avenue for hours and, and today 20,000 subway workers struck early in the morning and marched in procession an hour or two afterward. The parade was spectacular and tuneful, but it does not seem to have affected the strike situation in any way.

130,000 Men Out on Strike.

Talking about strikes, it is estimated that 130,000 workingmen are striking for higher wages in this city today. Thousands of men who made a demand for higher wages have settled their troubles with their employers, but new trades are uprising perpetually, and the sum total of strikers does not decrease from day to day. New York has rather more of this kind of excitement than it wants, taking one citizen with another.

Lillian Russell Goes to Housekeeping.

Lillian Russell is tired of living in an apartment hotel and has just bought a $60,000 house at 161 West Fifty-seventh street. She used to own a house, but sold it some time ago, and has since been residing at the Ariston, in Broadway, when in town. For her daughter, Miss Solomon, daughter of the popular dead-and-gone "Teddy," will soon be home from Paris and her mother wants her to enjoy domesticity such as would be impossible in a hotel. If there is anything on earth that the Golden Diva loves it is her beautiful daughter.

Women Gets the Blame.

There is a man in this city who told a magistrate today that he had lost two good jobs because his wife persisted in calling him up by telephone about 30 times a day to learn how he was getting on. The wife has been sent to Bellevue insane pavilion, and probably the husband will get along better than he has for months.

The St. Louis Fair.

The address of President Roosevelt at St. Louis was altogether appropriate and admirable. It gave the true historic significance of a great historic event. It had the fit atmosphere of a commemorative occasion. It was the speech less of Theodore Roosevelt, the president, than of Theodore Roosevelt, the student and scholar, and it might easily have been the forceful essay of a speculative thinker or the entertaining chapter of a philosophical book on types of national expansion and greatness.

The Louisiana purchase was the first great expansion of the American republic, and no adequate address on its centennial could fail to deal with its bearings on the question of national development. President Roosevelt discusses it in no partisan and narrow sense, and with no suggestion of a controversial character. His treatment has historic breadth and dignity. He points out that the true significance of the expansion was not its vast acquisition of territory, but its illustration of a new principle of expansion in harmony with the life and spirit of the republic.—Philadelphia Press.

The St. Louis "Hurrah!" reverberated both ways across the continent. Plenty of people are ready to note political significance in the greetings accorded by half a million people to the president and the ex-president of the republic. But there is a better than merely political significance to the day's noisy ceremony. The enthusiasm of the dedication period foreshadows the tremendous success which awaits the actual exposition—a success that will be not only to the glory of St. Louis, but to the increased prestige of this nation among nations.—New York World.

There is every reason to believe that the exposition will be the greatest the world has ever seen, as it is planned on a more magnificent scale than any of its predecessors, and has in hand all the money needed to carry out its plans. Foreign countries, all of which seem now anxious to prove their friendship to the United States, are vieing with each other in the preparation of exhibits. Agents of the exposition have been received with special honor not only in Europe, but in more distant lands to which they have traveled to arouse interest in the great display. The buildings are now well under way, and as a year remains for their completion there is no reason why they should not all be done and the exhibits all in place when the gates are thrown open to the public—May 1, 1904.

The place for the exposition has been well chosen. St. Louis stands among the greatest of American cities, is well situated and its people are determined that this display shall prove the greatest the world has ever seen. The site chosen is twice the size of that of the world's fair at Chicago, and the money available makes a much larger sum than was ever before placed in the hands of exposition managers. The year to come will be a busy one on the magnificent grounds, but with the same energy that has marked the preliminary work, the exposition will prove a worthy memorial to the great event it is designed to celebrate.—Baltimore American.

The exposition next year will be the most elaborate, the most extensive, the most costly ever undertaken by man, but with all its glories it can only feebly express the importance of the acquisition that came to us so unexpectedly. The exhibition will be an object lesson to the world of the power of America in all the arts and sciences, in its agricultural and mineral resources and, let us hope, most of all in the moral power and intellectual grandeur of the American nation.

Every good American will wish the St. Louis enterprise God speed, and we trust that most of them will be able to visit this latest expression of the accomplishments of a nation which, under divine Providence, we trust will be the greatest and best that has ever arisen to bring blessings to the individual and to "scatter plenty o'er a smiling land."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Next to the Declaration of Independence, upon which the war of separation was based, the treaty with France consummating the movement in growth is to be considered the most significant of American state papers. Any signing deserves such a memorial celebration as the ceremony in St. Louis, such a great display of the wealth and resources and enterprise of the nation as will be afforded by next year's exposition. The occasion at St. Louis is to be notable by the presence of the president of the United States and the only living ex-president, the ambassadors and ministers to the United States from the other governments, many of the most distinguished Americans, men of political, financial, industrial, scientific, intellectual leadership. They were all there to recall that the first hundred years of ownership of the great Louisiana territory has brought no more wonderful a return to the United States and that the future of the territory under American sovereignty promises to exceed all records of prosperity and progress.—Washington Star.

+ + + +

The dedication was most auspicious. It is a good augury that it occurs a full year in advance of the opening of the exposition, and that many of the buildings are far advanced for completion. If in the work upon the ground there is shown the same extraordinary energy which President Francis has exhibited in his appeals for foreign and home co-operation, the exposition buildings will almost certainly be found ready on opening day. That would be a happy exception to the usual rule of incompleteness and confusion.—New York Times.

CITY ASSESSORS READY TO REVOLT

They Demand Equal Pay and Authority With the Chief of the Board.

VIOLATION OF CHARTER

Ordinance Lowering Salaries of Four Members Said to Be Illegal—Controller Larkin Expresses an Opinion.

The board of assessors is preparing to test the legality of the recent ordinance of councils lowering the salaries of four members of the board from $2,500 a year to $2,000 and creating the position of chief assessor and giving him $2,500. The four members of the board affected by the reduction claim that the distinction is not authorized and is in direct violation of the new city charter.

A demand will probably be made on the city controller in a few days by the four $2,000 members for their monthly pay at the rate of $2,500 a year. If the controller does not grant their claims the matter may be taken into court.

The new charter provides that the department of assessors shall consist of five persons and also provides that the head of all departments shall receive not less than $2,500 a year. According to the practice until the passage of the recent ordinance framed by the salaries revision committee, and according to the interpretation of the new city charter by the assessors, every member of the board is on an equal footing and no one member has more authority than another; no one man can be the head of the department and the others his subordinates; and, therefore, they are all entitled to the same pay.

Controller J. B. Larkin admits part of the claim of the assessors and denies the rest. He says that councils exceeded their authority in making one man chief assessor and the rest subordinate to the chief assessor, as no such authority is given by the new city charter. The controller, however, asserts that councils have the right to regulate the salaries as it sees fit and pay one man more than another if it chooses, but when he made this statement he said he did not know whether the new city charter named a minimum salary limit for the assessors.

The force in the controller's office is having much extra work this month in making up the pay-roll for April, owing to the fact that many changes in salaries of various employes of the city took effect in the middle of the month, immediately upon the salary revision ordinance becoming laws. This requires a double computation.

For instance, the chief clerks of departments received $200 a month under the old ordinance, but under the new get $166 66. Each chief clerk for April will be paid at the rate of $200 a month for the first 15 days and at the rate of $166 66 a month for the last 15 days.

The Death Roll.

Harris Buchanan.

Harris Buchanan, third son of the late Hon. Isaac Buchanan of Hamilton, Canada, died at the home of his brother, James I. Buchanan, 6108 Walnut street, East End, at 10:36 o'clock yesterday morning of pneumonia, contracted while having his house on Howe street repainted. Mr. Buchanan took sick during the latter part of last week and had a relapse on Monday from which he gradually sank until death relieved him yesterday morning. He was in his 52d year. Mr. Buchanan's father was the son of the late Peter Buchanan, Esquire, laird of Drumsmar, in Scotland; but both he and Mr. Buchanan's mother, Agnes Jarvie, were born in Glasgow, Scotland, although from a time after their marriage they lived in Canada. Mr. Buchanan was born in Birkenhead, England, April 10, 1851. When a child his parents moved to Hamilton, Canada, which became Mr. Buchanan's home. After completing his education in the schools of Canada, he went to New York and became a clerk in the office of Brown Brothers & Co., bankers, where he remained for about four years. He then returned to Canada to study law. He later was admitted as a barrister at law, having studied in the office of Burton & Bruce at Hamilton, which firm of distinguished lawyers the member afterwards became chief justice of the queen's bench in Canada. After practicing on his own account for some time he moved to Pittsburgh about the year 1886, upon coming here was admitted to the Allegheny county bar and also to practice in the supreme court of Pennsylvania. He really never practiced his profession, as an opportunity was offered to again engage in business, he became secretary and treasurer of the Peerless Gas Company of West Virginia, and afterward secretary and treasurer of the Washington Oil Company, and Taylorstown Natural Gas Company. Mr. Buchanan's inclinations, however, were more toward a literary career, he was a voluminous writer of essays and compositions and particularly poetry in verse. He was a member of St. John's lodge, No. 219, F. and A. M., and Shiloh chapter, Royal Arch Masons and Pennsylvania Commandery of the 32d Degree Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, all located at Pittsburgh. He was a regular attendant and pew holder in the Shadyside Presbyterian church. He leaves a widow, Katharine Hallman Barker, two sons, Peter Buchanan, who is a sophomore at Cornell, and was coxswain last year of the victorious freshmen crew, and Harris Peter Buchanan, who is a student at the Shadyside academy, and three sisters and two brothers, James I., Robert J. and Douglas Buchanan.

His opera "La Spia," was written in New York in 1854. The famous waltz "Il Bacio" was written in London. MEN OF NATIONAL FAME USE PE-RU-NA FOR CATARRH.

Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrh Wherever Located.

HON. ALMONT BARNES.

Consul Barnes Says: "Pe-ru-na Is a Most Excellent Tonic for Debilitated Systems."

Hon. Almont Barnes, late U. S. Consul to Venezuela, S. A., ex-chief of bureau of statistics of state department, now in bureau of statistics in agricultural department, Washington, D. C., writes:

"Peruna is not only a remedy for catarrhal troubles, but equally as effective for colds and aches arising from the same. It is a most excellent tonic for debilitated systems.

"Many of my friends have used it successfully, and I have no hesitation in giving it my recommendation."—Almont Barnes.

Congressman Mark H. Dunnell, National hotel, Washington, D. C., writes:

"Your Peruna being used by myself and many of my friends and acquaintances not only as a cure for catarrh, but also as an admirable tonic for physical recuperation, I gladly recommend it to all persons requiring such remedies."—Mark H. Dunnell.

We have letters of recommendation from over fifty members of congress, besides scores of other letters from men of national prominence, attesting to the virtues of Peruna as a catarrhal tonic.

Among the prominent men who recommend Peruna are Gen. James Longstreet, of Washington, D. C.; Register of the Treasury Judson W. Lyons, Hon. J. M. Morgan, U. S. consul to Australia, and W. S. Smythmeyer, architect of the famous congressional library of Washington, D. C.

HON. ALPHONZO HART.

Hon. Alphonzo Hart, ex-lieutenant governor of Ohio, in a recent letter from Washington, D. C., says:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen—"I have been using Peruna for catarrh and can cheerfully recommend it to all as a cure for the same, and it is also a good tonic."—A. Hart.

Charles B. Scott, county clerk, Floyd county, Ind., writes from New Albany, Ind.:

"I have tried Peruna as a tonic and have found it of inestimable value to increase the appetite and induce healthful sleep. It seems to relieve the system of all waste matter and to tone up and strengthen the nerves in a remarkably short time. In comparing it with other nerve tonics on the market, I consider it vastly superior, and so do many others who have tried it."—Hon. Charles B. Scott.

Peruna cures catarrh because it reaches the source of catarrh.

Peruna keeps the system in a fine, healthy condition, because it restores the functions of every organ and brings vigor to the organic nervous system.

C. D. Taylor, Supt. of Health, Clerk of City Board of Health of Jacksonville, Fla., writes:

"The health of the poor of a large city is always a question of vital interest not only to the officials, but to every citizen. It has been a source of much satisfaction to me to find that so large a number of working people in moderate circumstances have accepted Peruna as their family medicine. It has cured a large number of cases especially of catarrh of the head, lungs and stomach, and for building up the general health it cannot fail but prove a help and a blessing to any community where it is generally adopted and used. I have found it an honest, reliable remedy and am pleased to indorse it."—C. D. Taylor, Clerk Board of Health.

J. H. Hipplegate, Supt. of Public Works, 61 West Sixth street, Lexington, Ky., writes:

"I find that Peruna is an excellent medicine, especially for catarrhal affections and all diseases leading to consumption, bronchial troubles or stomach troubles. It also acts as a preventive and keeps the system in a healthy condition, so that it easily throws off disease. It is an excellent tonic and a great appetizer, and as a large number of those who have been using it speak very highly of its curative powers, I am satisfied that my opinion of it is correct and that it is deserving of high praise."—J. H. Hipplegate.

Chas. F. Jenkins, venerable counsel of Garland Camp 2022, Modern Woodmen of America, writes from Aurora, Ill., Beacon office as follows:

"I indorse Peruna because I have found by personal experience that it is not a common patent medicine, but a scientifically prepared medicine which simply cures catarrh and cleanses the blood of its impurities, keeping the system in a fine, healthy condition. I consider it as rather a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and have never found any which acts as promptly and permanently as Peruna.

"It deserves the highest praise, and I know that those who have tried it have perfect faith in it."—C. F. Jenkins.

Peruna cleanses the blood of its impurities because it regulates those organs that make blood.

Mr. Jenkins is right. Peruna is a carefully prepared prescription, prepared by one of the oldest and best known physicians in America. This is why it acts promptly and permanently.

A book containing testimonials of prominent men and women who use Peruna sent free by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

CAPT. J. B. FORD PASSES AWAY

Founder of American Plate Glass Industry Was in His 92nd Year.

A MAN OF GOOD DEEDS

End Comes at His Home at Creighton, Near the Great Industrial Plants Which Restored Him to Fortune.

Capt. John B. Ford, the philanthropist and founder of the American plate glass industry, died at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at his home in the town of Creighton, on the West Penn division of the Pennsylvania railroad. The last few years of his life were filled with pain. He had won fame and fortune had come to him twice. He lived to be over 91 years old. Cancer attacked him a few years ago and for most of the last year of his life he was totally blind. He bore the affliction in the same manly and cheerful way that his earlier financial reverses had been met, and had long expected the inevitable ending of the disease.

Danville, Ky., was the birthplace and the scene of the youth of John Baptiste Ford. His father was a saddler, and after a county common school education the son learned the same trade. He told the story of his business life to a Gazette reporter at the time of the celebration of his ninetieth birthday anniversary as follows:

"In a little room in New Albany, Ind., I set up in the saddlery business," said he, "soon after reaching my majority. I saw there were greater opportunities in other lines of trade, and I drifted into shipbuilding at New Albany. In 1854 I had a good-sized shipyard. During the war I at one time had 28 boats in service. After the war a man came along who wanted to buy me out. I found that I was worth several hundred thousand dollars.

"One of my sons came up to Pittsburgh to attend a business college. I afterward learned that it was his daily custom to slip over to Allegheny and watch the men in one of the factories blow glass. When it was time for him to enter business he sought my advice. I told him that I would be satisfied if anything but a mercantile business was his choice. Then I was told of his fondness for the glass industry. The result was a factory at New Albany.

INDORSEMENTS PROVED FATAL.

"I had been indorsing for Tom, Dick and Harry and my wealth slipped away. I moved my desk over to the glass factory and began to read up on the business. It appeared peculiar to me that plate glass was not made in this country. One day I sent a query to the Scientific American on the subject. The paper attributed the failure to three causes: Lack of material, cheap labor and a sufficient capital. They did not appear to me to be good reasons.

"It was about that time a man told me that he had a friend in England who was a glass worker, who wanted to come to America to work. The man came, and fortunately he was familiar with a part of the plate glass trade. The result was that I had three machines brought over from England. They are antiquated now, for much better ones are made in America. Finally the mysteries of the business were mastered, but not without numerous trials and adversities.

"I came to Creighton in 1880. The plant here was followed by one in Tarentum and then the works at Ford City. During the 80 years that I was an employer of labor I never had a strike and there was never a man worked for me that was unwilling to return to my employ. My happy relations with labor are among the great consolations of my old age.

FRIENDLY TO LABOR.

"I am a great believer in the fact that capital and labor should always stand thus," and the captain clasped his hands in friendly grasp. "It has been my principle," said he, "and the fruits it has born have proved the wisdom of my course. I have always believed in making the man in your factory your equal. Their troubles have been my troubles and their joys my joys.

"I know of no other employer who has been paid the tribute that was given me by my men at Ford City. They erected in that town a life-size statue of me, and I am convinced that this touching mark of their esteem would not have been made had they not considered me their

"In these days of great industrial combinations there is wide field for good men to the heads of these trusts. Let men who control these gigantic enterprises that are earning 40 and 50 per cent on the capital invested share their fortune with the workers who make the amassing of this wealth possible. Give them a share of the profits. It would be a preventive of industrial disturbances.

"In addition to his industrial interests, his religious and philanthropic purposes have for many years occupied a goodly portion of Capt. Ford's attention. The Young Men's Christian association idea appealed strongly to him, and at the town of Tarentum, in Armstrong county, which owes its prosperity to the plate glass industry, stands a model building devoted to the association's uses and erected by Capt. Ford. The same is true of Wyandotte, Mich., where his son established the plant of the Michigan Alkali company for the manufacture of soda ash and baking soda which are made from the by-products of glass manufacture.

In Wyandotte, as in Tarentum, his birthday, November 17, is a legal holiday. He gave to Allegheny college at Meadville, a handsome memorial chapel and to the various enterprises of the Methodist Episcopal church he was a large contributor. Many other benefactions are credited to him.

RETIRED FROM BUSINESS.

Capt. Ford disposed of his glass interests to the Pittsburg Plate Glass company at the time of the formation of that concern a few years ago. His advanced age and his illness in the latter years forced him to give up his active business connections, although his mental vigor was retained to the last.

Capt. Ford is survived by a son and a daughter. Edward Ford is interested in plate glass manufacture at Toledo, O. His daughter is Mrs. Ballantyne, widow of the late Rev. J. A. Ballantyne, of Wilkinsburg. His wife died many years ago.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed. The announcements will be made as soon as the members of the family can fix upon them.

Death Caused Arrest.

CANONSBURG, PA., May 1.—(Special)—Coroner W. B. Sipe today conducted an investigation into the death of Charles Walters, which occurred Sunday night last and which is alleged to have resulted from injuries received at the hands of Vance Carter, a neighbor, in a quarrel about cows. WILL DEMAND INCREASE.

Tin Plate Workers' Convention Still Considering the New Scale of Wages.

ANDERSON, IND., May 1.—(Special.)—The third day of the Tin Plate Workers' international convention was devoted to hearing reports and visiting factories. There was but one session today. It was held this morning and the reports of the officers and the committee on resolutions were heard. President Powell made his report. Much of it was devoted to an attack on compulsory arbitration.

The committee on resolutions presented resolutions relative to the proposed wage scale and on the proposed changes in the constitution. The resolutions relative to the change in the constitution provide for the use of new machines, which have been established in the mills in the last year. Officers and delegates of the convention refuse to deny or affirm that the new wage scale will provide for an increase. Members of the association not delegates say that such is the case, however. They say that the instructions to the delegates are to demand a general increase on all kinds of work.

The officers and delegates went to Elwood at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon where they inspected the mills.

TEACHER IDENTIFIES ALLEGED HIGHWAYMAN

Miss Fannie Barker, a teacher in the Western Pennsylvania Institute for the Deaf and Dumb at Edgewood, yesterday made information before Justice John J. Walker, of Wilkinsburg, charging George Allen, colored, with highway robbery.

Miss Barker had her chatelaine snatched from her hand in Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg. Allen was arrested in Homewood for snatching a purse from a woman. He was held for court on a charge of highway robbery. Last Thursday Chief of Police George W. Snyder found Miss Barker's pocketbook in Allen's former boarding house. Miss Barker yesterday identified Allen at the jail as the man who attacked her.

American Engineers Are Safe.

2nd Edition $1.50

Keen Amusing

There have been many of them lately, in real life. Here is one in fiction more interesting than the real, though not very different. Perhaps you think our fortune-hunting foreigners a bad lot. And probably you assume that the prey they hunt is no better than themselves. The author of this novel, writing from intimate knowledge, gives the true picture of our multi-millionaire families and their parasites. They are by no means without redeeming qualities. At least they have the virtue of being amusing as he pictures them.

"It is so well constructed, so brisk and natural in its talk, so well defined and true in its delineation of character, that one finds it difficult to put it down unfinished."—Brooklyn Eagle.

DENTAL WORK FOR ONE MONTH

JUST to introduce my new gauze Aluminum Plate—an entirely new method of making full sets of teeth—I make this most liberal offer: For one month I will make no charge for Dental work. Time is the item dentists charge most for. I will simply ask you to pay for dental material used. A word about my new gauze aluminum plate. It is the lightest material ever used in plate construction and gives perfect ease and comfort to the mouth. In fact it is a revelation to the dental world.

FINEST EQUIPPED DENTAL ESTABLISHMENT IN AMERICA

I GUARANTEE TO GIVE YOU BETTER DENTAL WORK THAN ANY OTHER DENTISTS WHO CHARGE HIGH PRICES.

I GIVE A 25-YEAR GUARANTEE ON ALL MY FULL SETS OF TEETH.

I can truthfully state that I have the finest and most completely equipped dental stablishment in America. No expense has been spared—everything modern and up-to-date. All dental instruments thoroughly sterilized, thus avoiding danger of contracting decayed tooth poison.

NOBODY BUT YOURSELF

To blame for those bad teeth. They will get worse, too, if you don't have them attended to. No excuse for delaying the matter when you can have first-class dental work for simply cost of material.

WHY BE UGLY?

Bad teeth spoil the appearance of any person. If you want to retain your good looks and also your health give your teeth proper attention. It is a duty you owe to yourself not to neglect them.

DO IT NOW.

If your teeth need attention, have them looked after without delay. Remember the old adage, "A stitch in time saves nine." Decayed tooth poison will surely attack sound teeth if not attended to.

MY METHOD OF PAINLESS EXTRACTING

is a decided innovation in dental practice—being used by myself exclusively.

GOLD CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK—This branch of dentistry has been one of my special hobbies and I pride myself in the fact that I have yet to meet one dissatisfied patient. I execute Bridge Work (teeth without plates) in a manner that gives the teeth so natural an appearance as to deceive the most critical eye. I can save broken and decayed teeth by crowning them at a very nominal expense.

Come to our general offices and have a look at the BIG MAIL BUSINESS we are doing. Letters, letters, letters, with an occasional telegram. The cashier of a bank in Bradford knew what a good thing West Liberty is. The day Plan No. 3 opened, he couldn't come and he feared the mails would be slow. He WIRED for a COUPLE of LOTS and sent his check later. A railroad man in Alliance, O., did likewise. There's hardly a town or city within 200 miles that is not represented in this — the greatest real estate sensation of the age. South Sharon, Carnegie, Homestead, Braddock, Rankin, McKeesport, Beaver, Bradford, ane, Bradys Bend, Emlenton, Altoona, Oil City, Johnstown and easant Valley, Pa., head the long list with over half a dozen rders each. We received letters from Massachusetts and Connecticut, Utah and Colorado. New York, Buffalo, Chicago, Detroit nd Louisville people have also come in. When strangers write us enclosing money we feel flattered. Why shouldn't we? ut it merely shows the kind of a reputation we have. We'll ake good on this property as we did elsewhere. MIND THAT d GET IN.

TUNNEL IS DOING IT.

It's JUST 14 DAYS since we opened Plan No. 2, and there's but a couple hundred lots left in No. 3. JUST THINK OF THAT! By Sunday or Monday we'll practically clean up the remainder of the 1700 lots in the two plans. This isn't an ordinary lot proposition. It's the most EXTRAordinary one you ever heard of. The Trolley Express Tunnel we are building under Mt. Washington will make it so. By June 1, 1904—when the New Palatial Trolleys are running—West Liberty will be only 10 minutes from Downtown Pittsburgh. Just imagine improved property in a new high-class residence section selling for $50 a lot—not $50 a front foot, or a square foot, but $50 for 30x100 feet.

Why, at these prices it's LIKE FINDING MONEY, and big money at that. No wonder people in the street cars and all public places are talking about West Liberty, where the air will be pure and sweet, where sickly CHILDREN will FATTEN and GROW STRONG—where your earning power by increased vigor and strength will be increased 25 per cent.

d Some Higher. Only $10 Down and Then $1 a Week Up.

To Home Builders We Will give $25,000 Worth of Lots Free.

NO TAXES! NO INTEREST!

olicy of title insurance from the Guarantee Title and Trust Co. goes free with each lot. If you 't come, write, like other people. But we'd rather have you see the property. See it today. e an hour off and run out. Jump the first Mount Lebanon or Castle Shannon car on erty, Smithfield or Carson streets, and FOLLOW THE CROWD when it alights at CAPE MAY ENUE. That's the present entrance to our property. After June 1, 1904, the 30 minutes' will be cut down to 10 via OUR TUNNEL. No matter where you buy in West Liberty CAN'T GET STUCK. We own ALL THE PROPERTY for 2½ miles on both sides of the new tunnel way. But you ought to BUY NOW and get back $10 for every $1 invested.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Young's Ocean Pier,
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 1.

The quaintest looking lot of people paraded the boardwalk today that have ever been seen. Some men were seen in light summer clothes and light suits; some others were wrapped up in the heaviest of fur-lined coats. The fair sex were to be seen in anything from a white shirtwaist and a duck skirt, white canvas shoes to winter bonnets and sealskin muffs.

An explanation of this is in the fact that Atlantic City has two weather bureau chiefs. One is about to make his entrance and the other to make his exit; each has his own particular pet idea as to what the weather forecast should be. One says Atlantic City is to experience the biggest blizzard in her very eventful career. Snow, sleet, high winds are predicted. The other insists that mild, balmy weather and surf bathing is to be expected. Consequently the natives and the guests of the various hotels are at a loss to know what clothes to put on, and they made their promenade as their own individual tastes dictated.

HOTEL MEN SEEKING PROTECTION.

The hotelkeepers of this city are up in arms to protect themselves from a system of extortion that does not for a moment appeal to them. Several of the beach front hotels have lost from $60 to $70 a day from missing checks. The check system here is not all that it should be. When a cafe is crowded it is almost an impossibility for the cashier to know the exact amount of refreshment that is served and he has no way to protect himself from the man tearing up checks and walking out.

In one of the best known hotels of the city this thing has occurred quite often, and the manager informed the proprietor that there were three men who systematically beat the desk out of certain amounts. The proprietor immediately put a close watch upon the three he suspected were doing this and employed a special checker to stand in front of the bar. These three well-dressed philanthropists entered the cafe and ordered several drinks. The wise checker immediately informed the proprietor that the men were there and that he wished him to come in and catch them in the act of walking out without paying. The checker put a watch over the men, and when he returned the sentinel informed him that the men had gone into the lavatory. The proprietor sat down at a table to await the reappearance of these crafty gentlemen. After remaining seated for three-quarters of an hour he concluded that his checker must have been mistaken and told him so. The latter was not mistaken, he said, and proposed that the proprietor make an investigation on his own account. The gentleman did so and with all the confidence in the world. Then he discovered the place was absolutely vacant. He was furious, naturally. He declared his checker was a bad detective and that probably the real men had never been anywhere near the place. Shortly afterward he and his wife went for a stroll, and, walking down the street, discovered a plasterer's ladder against the wall, and at the foot of which reposed seven blue checks. The inference is obvious.

SOCIAL HIGHWAYMAN AGAIN.

One of the most sensational and mysterious cases the police have ever had to cope with in this town has just become public. At one of the big hotels which has been the home of many Pittsburgh guests a social highwayman, coming from one of the best families of Western Pennsylvania, has been reaping a harvest. Whether it is kleptomania or actual dishonesty his many friends are at a loss to decide. The case is very serious, as it involves three or four of Pittsburgh's smart set.

Last Wednesday there was a ball given at the hotel in question. All the smart social set were invited, and as the proprietor had gone to special pains to have the walls decorated and the floors waxed, to say nothing of sending to Philadelphia for one of its best known orchestras, everyone adorned themselves in their prettiest gowns, jewelry, etc. The lion of the occasion was this unknown gentleman with light fingers from the west. In fact, he led the cotillion. Shortly after the gaiety started a square dance was proposed, and this popular young man was asked to lead with one of Philadelphia's fairest daughters. The dance had hardly gone one-half the way when the sweet debutante turned her ankle and fainted in the midst of it all. As the western Lothario was well known to the girl's family, he immediately did the gallant thing by carrying her to her suite of apartments, while the rest of the guests hurried to the telephone to summon a physician. The doctor arrived and after bandaging the swollen ankle and giving the young lady a restorative, was about to depart when she insisted upon his looking into her jewel case on the chiffonier in which she kept her spare cash and taking his fee. The physician did as she directed and upon opening the jewel case laughingly remarked that he did not think any one could find a fee there. The girl arose and peered into the jewel case and found all her trinkets, which amounted to over $15,000, and $100 in cash were missing.

The hotel proprietor refuses absolutely to give the names of any of the parties, but it is rumored about the lobby of the hotel that this fair Philadelphian is engaged to be married to the Western Pennsylvanian, and that as she is badly smitten with him she refuses to make trouble for him.

The doorkeeper at Young's pier here, on which The Gazette bureau is established, told your correspondent a peculiar and highly humorous story of youthful precociousness last evening. A bright boy of about 12 years and his little sister appeared at the entrance and asked the price of admission. He was told that the admission was 10 cents and for children under 10 years 5 cents. He also confided the fact to the doorkeeper that he had but 15 cents in actual cash.

The gatekeeper asked the age of the sister and the young man answered she was just 10 years old that day and that he was going to treat her to a birthday gift. That is why they were there. The doorkeeper said he was sorry to hear that, as she was not under the age limit. The little sister must be charged the full rate. The boy walked away with a crestfallen air and after looking enviously at the pictures and photos of the things exhibited, brightened up and returned to the gatekeeper and offered him the 15 cents. That official remarked that he had informed the youth once that the full price must be charged. The sister was not under 10 years.

"Yes, sir," answered the boy, "but you see, my sister was born very late in the afternoon."

His diplomacy was rewarded, for the gatekeeper perceived he was no match for the youngster and permitted the pair to pass.

A Wonderful Gold Mine.

On another page appears a cut of the famous "Gold Dirt" mining property of Gilpin county, Colorado, which is now being operated by "The Pittsburgh Consolidated Company" of this city in connection with their other well known properties—namely the Dover and Brighton. The "Gold Dirt" has a wonderful record of production and as yet has barely been scratched over the surfaces, the four-fifths of it still being virgin ground. This Company needs no introduction to our readers, as they have been prominently before the public for the past year, the value of their stock having increased one hundred fold since last September. The manner in which the people who invest in Gold Mining Stocks have been doing business with the "Consolidated Company" would clearly indicate that they have the fullest confidence in the prominent business men who compose the Board of Directors and manage the affairs of the Company. The Board is made up as follows: Francis J. Torrance, Vice-President North American Savings Co., German Savings & Trust Co., Director in a half dozen other banking institutions. President Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society and largely interested in street railway companies; W. M. Laird, President Merchants Savings & Trust Co. Director North American Savings Co., and President of the W. M. Laird Shoe Co.; A. W. Duff, President First National Bank, Wilkinsburg, and President Penn Heating & Fuel Co.; David H. Collingwood, director Keystone bank, Continental Trust Co. and treasurer Allegheny county; Charles Bailey, president Reliance Steel Co.; W. R. McCabe, Capitalist and Director Coraopolis Trust Co.; Hon. Walter Lyon, ex-lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania and head of the prominent law firm of Lyon, McKee & Mitchell; J. R. Anderson, Secretary and Treasurer of the Equitable Investment Co.; and C. H. Lloyd, President the Lloyd Manufacturing Co.

DRIVER SAVED BY HIS COOLNESS AND NERVE

P. J. Byrnes, an Expressman, Worked Himself Out of a Dangerous Position.

Expressman J. P. Byrnes of No. 44 Penn avenue, had a narrow escape from being trampled to death by his team of mules in Virgin alley last night about 8 o'clock. It was entirely due to his nerve and coolness that he checked his runaway team and saved himself. Byrnes hung to the pole of the wagon and was dragged between the mules for almost a square. Byrnes was preparing to start away with his team at Virgin alley and Wood street. The lines were across the mules' backs. Byrnes took them and started to get on the wagon. For some unknown reason the mules started to run. Byrnes was thrown on the pole and fell off to the side. He held on the pole while the mules were running up Virgin alley, and succeeded in straddling it again after great effort.

Picking up the lines he pulled up the team while astride of the pole. Byrnes just climbed on the pole in time, as one of the mules started to kick as he got out of danger. Byrnes was slightly bruised by his fall.

A Sweet Breath

Like the fragrance of a rose comes a sweet breath from the healthy stomach. The breath is an index to the health. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. A disordered stomach strikes terror to the nervous system and weakens every tissue and muscle of the body. It weakens the brain, the heart and damages the kidneys. A disordered stomach starves the blood and weakens the system because it can not digest and assimilate sufficient food to keep up the health and strength.

Kodol

corrects every disorder of the stomach. It is not recommended for any complaint except those arising from a disordered condition of the stomach. Kodol does for the stomach that which it is unable to do for itself, even when but slightly disordered or overloaded, relaxing the nervous tension, while the inflamed muscles of that organ are allowed to rest and heal. Kodol cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach. When you take Kodol everything you eat tastes good, and every bit of the nutriment that your food contains is digested, assimilated and appropriated by the blood and tissues.

POWDER MILL VICTIMS ARE INCREASED TO TEN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HOLLIDAYSBURG, PA., May 1.—This was a day of sorrow in the little village of Williamsburg. The remains of the nine men who were killed yesterday in the powder explosion at the of the Crescent Powder Company were brought here, but their condition precluded public burial. The remains, collected in five dynamite boxes, were simply fragments of bodies. This morning an unidentified body was found, raising the number of dead to 10.

Some public attempt is being made to fasten responsibility for the accident. It is pointed out that the life of a powder plant is five years, and that after that time the accumulation of nitro-glycerin renders destruction of the plant inevitable. The farmers are determined that the wrecked plant shall not be rebuilt in its present location and must be moved back to the unfrequented mountains.

The children's industrial school, built by Blair county, two miles distant from the powder plant, was badly damaged and a portion of the institution must be rebuilt. The house of William Moughamore, one mile from the powder plant, was wrecked and burned to the ground yesterday morning after the first explosion. The family were seated at the breakfast table when the upheaval came. The stove was turned upside down, setting fire to the house. The family escaped with slight injuries.

Coroner T. C. McCartney of Blair county held an inquest at Williamsburg today. The jury has not yet rendered a verdict fixing the responsibility. The investigation conducted this morning demonstrated the fact that of the dynamite at the Crescent plant only one-fiftieth part exploded. Had it all exploded Williamsburg, Franklin Forge and Point View would have been obliterated.

BRAKEMAN IS KILLED AND ENGINEER HURT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALLIANCE, O., May 1.—In a rear-end freight collision at Kensington, about 20 miles south of here on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad, Brakeman A. W. Aigley of Port Perry, Pa., was killed and Engineer F. C. Girard of Chicago badly cut about the head. The accident occurred early this morning. Engineer Girard saw that his train was going to hit the one ahead and called to the fireman and brakeman to jump. The fireman, H. F. Engleman of Hazelton, Pa., escaped.

Aigley was making his first run when killed. He was 21 years old and unmarried. The locomotive of the second train and a number of cars were wrecked.

JOHNSTOWN, May 1.—(Special)—Dr. Francis Schill, Jr., is the wit of Johnstown. He is a veritable fountain of original humor. Recently in the Elks' minstrels, in which he was an end man, critics said he was better than Lew Dockstadder.

STRAIGHTENING OUT COURT HOUSE MUDDLE

Judges, Commissioners and Controller at Greensburg at Last Agree.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., May 1.—(Special.)—Judges Doty and McConnell held a conference with the county commissioners and Controller John H. Brown this afternoon, and the muddle over the erection of the court house was simplified to an extent. Commissioners Earnest and Mowry withdrew their objections to building on the old site, the foundation and superstructure already having been erected. It is understood that the bids will be asked for next week.

The agreement was practically arrived at that the original plans for the court house, providing for a structure that will cost in close proximity $1,000,000 without the furnishings, will be modified so that the cost of the building will approximate $500,000. There is a probability that Cleveland sandstone will be substituted for granite, the material already chosen by the judges of the common pleas and the commissioners.

West Remanded to Jail.

NEW CASTLE, PA., May 1.—(Special)—George West, held without bail on a charge of murder for the killing of Ralph Silvers, of Millvale, at West Pittsburgh, on the night of April 11, in a fight growing out of the Republican primaries that day, was remanded to jail again today by Judge Wallace, after a hearing on habeas corpus proceedings.

Want Bridges Raised.

NEW BETHLEHEM, PA., May 1.—(Special)—The borough council has passed a resolution requesting the secretary of war to take immediate action in ordering the bridges of the Allegheny river raised sufficiently to permit of slackwater navigation.

MAY ENLARGE PLANTS AT ELLWOOD CITY, PA.

Steel Corporation Officials Make Examination of Needs of the Mills.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ELLWOOD CITY, PA., May 1.—Because a party of United States Steel Corporation officials made a visit to this city today, this town, it is expected, will be benefited to the extent of at least $1,000,000, and possibly more. The party came here to inspect their various properties, which include the Standard Seamless Tube Company, the Shelby Steel Tube Company and the Standard Engineering Company.

The object was to see what improvements and enlargements were needed. The members of the party expressed themselves as well pleased with the way all the different plants were operated and the arrangement for facilitating the work.

It was said this afternoon that at least $600,000 would be spent in improvements here and that it is not unlikely that another tube mill will be erected here. The party left at 12:30 for Pittsburgh.

Drowned From River Steamer.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., May 1.—(Special.)—William Dabe and East Woomer were standing on the hurricane deck of the steamer Sadie E. today looking after the stretching of a telegraph wire across the river. The steamer backed while each had wires about their bodies and they were swept into the stream. Dabe was drowned, but Woomer was rescued.

STATE AND NEIGHBORHOOD.

WARREN, O.—A petition was stated asking that David Long of Hustead be pardoned from the penitentiary. Long was sentenced in 1900 for seven years for the stabbing of Thomas Hughes of Sharon, Pa.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA.—Fifty-six girls, ranging in age from 8 to 15 years, employed at the United States Cigar Company's plant here, formed a union and each in turn ad they appeared for work were discharged.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA.—The coroner's jury returned a verdict that Ernest Cottrill came to his death by a wound inflicted by a sharp instrument at the hands of Oscar Greathouse and George and William Hanshumaker, while in a quarrel with Samuel Daugherty.

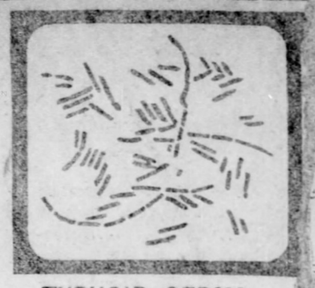
PARKERSBURG, W. VA.—President Loree and other Baltimore & Ohio officials are here on an impending tour. One object of their visit is to look over the ground for a new line from Bellington to the Chesapeake bay, which it is stated, will soon be built.

COSHOCTON, O.—The Coshocton Masonic Temple Company was organized and R. A. Powelson, Louis Bendel, David Davis, B. F. Voorhees and W. H. Robinson appointed incorporating committee. The building will be five stories, of stone, to cost about $40,000.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—Miss Nettie Hicks of Erie and Miss Anna Stoops of Leechburg were graduated from the hospital here as trained nurses and the event was celebrated by a banquet at the institution, at which many prominent medical men and others were in attendance.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA.—The farm house of Al Spencer, occupied by Isaac Jacques, burned. Owen Owens, a neighbor, who was ploughing saw the fire, galloped his horses to the stable and went to the assistance of Jacques. The wind blew firebrands, which set fire to Owens' stable, completely destroying it and burning the horses to death.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—Ground has been broken here for the new Fourth Presbyterian church, which will be located on the Byers place, overlooking the industrial part of the city. The congregation was formed several months ago and is acquiring a large membership. The Rev. Mr. McConnell, a student of the Western Theological seminary at Allegheny, has been serving as the pastor for several months past.



TYPHOID GERMS.

The Little Bacteria Which Bred The Epidemic of Typhoid.

THE microscope shows that in the blood of every person suffering from typhoid the little germs can be found as shown above. This disease has almost become epidemic in many cities and towns of the United States this season. They are supposed to get into the water or milk we drink. The germs multiply by growing long and dividing into two. This happens every half hour, so that one germ is capable of producing about one hundred trillion germs in twenty-four hours. That is why if they ever get into the water supply of a town they multiply so fast that nearly everybody drinking the water comes down with the disease. There are exceptions, however, and they are the persons whose health is perfect, whose blood is pure, and liver active. When the germs get into a healthy body they are thrown off with the other poisons. Recent Chicago statistics show that one-eighth of all the deaths in the past two years in that city have resulted from pneumonia.

PNEUMONIA AND GRIP.

These two diseases, together with typhoid, chiefly engross the attention of our people just now. The best advice we can give is to put the body into a perfectly sound, healthy condition. Be assured that you have rich, red blood and an active liver. Occasionally take a good vegetable laxative, such as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, to rid the body of the poisons clogging the canals. Pimples, boils, eruptions, extreme weakness, feelings of nervous exhaustion, coughs and colds are the warning signals which should be heeded. Keep the stomach healthy, the bowels regulated and the blood pure and rich, and your body is a stronghold against which the germs of these diseases cannot make a successful attack. When you are pale and feel exhausted or despondent consult nature. "Nature is the real physician in such cases," says Dr. R. V. Pierce in his book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser." Exercise in the fresh air and sunlight is of great assistance in keeping the system healthy. Many years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, who is consulting surgeon to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y., found certain herbs and roots, which when made into an alterative extract (without the use of alcohol), seemed to be the very best means of putting the stomach, blood and vital organs into proper condition.

NATURE'S WAY.

This seemed to him as close to nature's way of treating disease as it was possible to go. For over a third of a century his Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has had a wonderful sale and the cures resulting from its use are numbered by thousands. It is a tissue-builder, better than cod liver oil because it does not sicken the stomach, or offend the taste. It strengthens or renews the assimilative or digestive processes in the stomach and puts on healthy flesh when the weight of the invalid is reduced below the normal. No alcoholic tonic could be so effective, for alcohol shrivels up the red blood corpuscles, impairing their vitality and robbing the system of one of its most important elements.

TO BUILD UP

A body that has been weakened by an attack of Typhoid, Grip or Pneumonia nothing will put on healthy flesh so fast as this tonic alterative of Dr. Pierce a truly "Golden Medical Discovery."

Cures others, will cure you. We do not ask you to believe it on our assertion, for the proprietors and manufacturers of this "Medical Discovery" offer $5,000 reward for any case where they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"I have neglected from time to time to write you but feel it my duty to all you and to let others, who may suffer as I did, know, that, through the help of our heavenly Father, your medicines have done a great deal of good for me," writes Mrs. W. B. Litton, of Kimballton, Russell Co., Va. "I was in a terrible condition, and two good physicians did not help me. Had almost every trouble a woman could suffer from. Could not do any of my housework, could not walk a hundred yards. Just felt so dead and heavy, and had such pains in knees and ankles. Had catarrh of stomach very bad; would have to beat up a raw egg and swallow it, and there would be days I could not swallow a bite of bread. If I did try to eat would have such nervous chills it seemed I would almost die. Would feel almost dead, and chilly all over; had great heat in side and through my stomach and this would some times extend into chest under shoulders and nearly all through the body. Sight was almost lost and the days seemed to me about like a dream. Kidneys were in a dreadful condition. Had neuralgia in head, sides, and stomach, and at the approach of every storm would get numb; had tingling sensation in limbs; was stopped up in chest so I did not dare get a particle of the damp air; in fact there was so much the matter with me I shall not attempt to tell all. I was simply a total wreck, and, as all my neighbors know, I was almost dead. I wrote to Dr. Pierce, and he kindly advised me what to do. Don't remember just how much of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' I took, but, beside the 'Discovery,' had four bottles of his 'Favorite Prescription' and six vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Now I can eat a little of almost anything I want, but have to be careful and not overdo. Have been doing my own work for months and can walk to any of my neighbors' houses. Am not entirely well—never expect to be, but how thankful I am to be as well as I am. I will say this much, that I don't believe there are other medicines in the world so reliable as Dr. Pierce's, for they did for me what no other medicines could do. I wish all suffering humanity knew of Dr. Pierce's medicines and would take them. Any invalid who may wish further particulars regarding this statement, or the sincerity of it, may write (enclosing stamp), and I will gladly answer."

A KEG OF POWDER.

Men can hardly be made to realize that a little sputtering spark of disease which might be stamped out in an instant may mean death if it is allowed to keep on. Dyspepsia, constipation and liver complaint seem like trifling matters but they will eventually wreck the constitution as surely as a spark will blow up a keg of powder.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is acknowledged as the most wonderful medicine ever devised for those diseases which are caused by imperfect action of the liver and digestive organs.

The Hall is the Index of the Home

There's an old saying:—"Always put the best foot forward." If one follows this rule—and most of us do—the Hall should be furnished as well as one's means will allow. The visitor's first impression of the home is gained in the hallway. Its furnishment tells a story of penury or thrift; of good taste or carelessness. This brings us to another familiar saying which runs:—"A place for everything and everything in its place." A Hall Rack is the only proper place on which to hang coats, hats or wraps. We've thirty-seven sample Hall Racks we picked up at a bargain—Extra good in quality and designs and the prices average more than a fourth off.

ECONOMITES SELL THEIR FAMOUS TOWN

Few Survivors of the Quaint Society Will Receive $4,000,000.

The Liberty Land Company, with a capital of $2,500,000, has concluded the purchase of the property of the Economites in Harmony and Economy townships, Beaver county, the announcement having been made officially yesterday by James A. Hunter, president of the purchasing company. The price is not stated, but is understood to be in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. The property comprises 2,500 acres of land, including the village of Economy and 20 acres of land in Leet township, Allegheny county. The purchase was made direct from the Union Company, the corporate organization of the Economites, and its attorneys. Three blocks and the cemetery in Economy were reserved in the deed with the use of the church and church lot for five years.

It is reported on good authority that eastern capital is largely interested in the purchase. The proceeds of the sale will, by a decision of the United States supreme court last November, go to the surviving members of the Economite society, of which there are but six living, Trustee John Duss being the best known. The transfer was recorded at Beaver yesterday afternoon. Bonds to the amount of $2,800,000 have been issued as a part of the purchase money. Trustee Duss and his fellow-members, whose wealth is estimated at $10,000,000, will probably live on the part reserved in Economy.

The Economite property extends three and one-half miles along the north bank of the Ohio river, from the new town of Ambridge, above Economy, to Baden, one mile distance below, and is fully one and one-half miles deep. It lies just above the new Ohio river dam at Legionville, Insuring a good harbor all the year. On the tract are large quarries and considerable timber. The property is the only large stretch between Woods Run and the Beaver valley that has not been developed, with the exception of Ambridge.

Possession of the property will be given at once. The Real Estate Trust Company has been appointed exclusive agent for the tract, and it is reported that the purchasers will soon begin the formation of a model industrial town on the land purchased.

TWO NEW THEATERS BEAR NIXON'S NAME

Shubert's Playhouse in Chicago Will Be Opened Early in October.

When Pittsburgh's new theater, "The Nixon," is dedicated next fall the people of Chicago will celebrate the opening of a playhouse of the same name, Samuel F. Nixon, of the firm of Nixon & Zimmerman, being honored in the christening of both amusement palaces. The announcement of the naming of the new Windy City theater was made last night in a telegram to Thomas F. Kirk, manager of the Alvin.

The Chicago "Nixon" is being built by Samuel and Lee Shubert. For several months they had kept the people guessing as to what name would be selected for their playhouse, but unfolded their silence at a banquet given in Baltimore last night upon the successful premier of the new musical comedy, "The Runaways." Work will be rushed on both enterprises, and it is the intention to have them opened on the same night next October. Mr. Nixon and his architect, B. H. Marshall, will visit Pittsburgh next week to inspect the progress of the work in Sixth avenue.

GOLD BRICK PARTY FOR SOUTHSIDE VICTIMS

Mournful Ones Will Meet Tonight and Talk Over Their Troubles.

A "gold brick" party will be given this evening at the residence of "Yank" Hartman, No. 1814 Wrights alley, Twenty-sixth ward, South Side. Many of the men who claim they were given gold bricks by the present Citizens party administration will be present and make addresses. Several warm speeches are scheduled to take place, and many persons who it is possible may be caught in the future will be given some wholesome advice by those who have been victims this year. Among the chief ones who claim that they were taken in by the gold brick artists are Capt. Thomas R. Williams, Theodore Schmitt, Thomas Bankard and Michael Kunzelman.

There will be all kinds of refreshments and the best kind of music for the entertainment of the guests, who say that, although they have been disappointed this time, the Citizens party will never again get the chance to repeat the trick.

AMBITIOUS KATE MIDDLEMISS GOT DRUNK AND WON FAME

Kate Middlemiss, a regular visitor to the McKeesport Central police station, aspired to the distinction of being the first person arrested after the inauguration of the new police force yesterday, and succeeded. She was picked up helplessly drunk by one of the new officers on Fifth avenue and sent to the station, where she told the desk sergeant that she had accumulated a premeditated "jag," so as to be the first one arrested by the new force. During Mayor R. J. Black's administration the woman appeared before the mayor so frequently that he finally refused to impose any punishment. The police officials say she evidently intends to break her own record under Mayor Falkenstein.

STORY OF THE STRAP-HANGER'S VICISSITUDES

Forty Years Ago He Enjoyed Unique Luxuries.

HIS TRIBE INCREASED

An Old Picture Recites History of the Street Car Evil Which Will Be Appreciated by Pittsburghers.

The genus strap-hanger is not a creature of recent evolution. He is over 40 years old at least. His tribe has increased in a most marvelous manner and he is waxing great and strong—gathering aggressiveness and agility in spite of any attempt to exterminate his race.

Of course as the years roll by the strap-hanger changes his customs to conform with progresive ideas, but today his noble lineage is unbroken. He is the living, breathing personification of all that is irresistible.

The pre-historic strap-hanger has been lost forever. Neither Dr. W. J. Holland nor Prof. Hatcher found any trace of him in the diplodocus quarries, and it goes wwutout saying that his fossil lies buried far beyond the depths which scientists hope to reach. The historic strap-hanger, however, can be easily traced. He existed in the days of the stage coach and when the tram-car came into use he began to thrive with wonderful energy.

THE STRAP-HANGER IN 1861.

In 1861 he had made his appearance in New York and the artist on Harper's Weekly in January of that year was inspired to make a drawing, illustrating a healthy specimen of the strap-hanger of that period. This old-time picture is reproduced by The Gazette and will be an interesting object for study by the trolley patrons of Pittsburg who are becoming charter members of the Strap-Hangers' League.

It will be noticed that the strap-hanger of 40 years ago was given four straps for his use—one for each hand and foot. His twentieth century sucessor, however, has been forced to change his habits.

The horizontal, aerial position shown in the picture is no longer good form for the reason that in modern days four strap-hangers must be content with one strap and sometimes none. With the increase in the strap-hanger's tribe, material changes have taken place in the street car architecture.

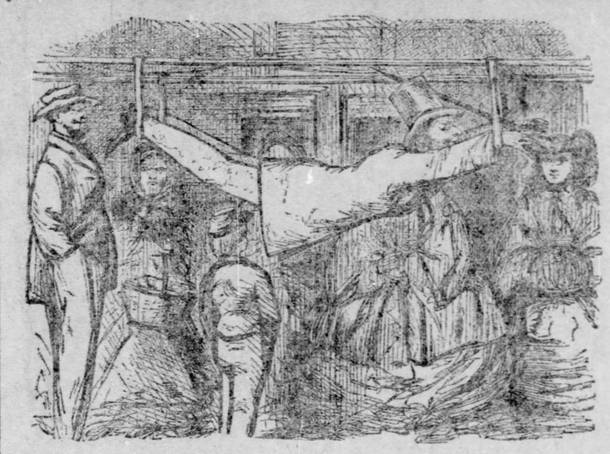
Where four straps furnished the equipment of a car in the 60's and more than one specimen was rarely seen in each vehicle, it is now the rule to have cars supplied with as many straps as there are spaces for sitting. The consequence is that a car in Pittsburg with 28 passengers on the seats usually carries 50 or more on the straps.

ADVANTAGES IN THE OLD DAYS.

The ancient method had its advantages. With the strap-hanger safely hung up on the ceiling of the car the floor space was undisturbed, permitting passengers to carry their baggage inside the car, sit cross-legged and enjoy their pursuit of happiness as fancy moved them. As for the strap-hanger, he swung lazily to and fro with the jolting of the car, enjoying his reclining posture aloof from the common herd on the seats. In these times he would have the monopoly of first glances at the advertisements and at least would know what to order in the way of new breakfast foodie.

There are not a few trolley patrons who would be delighted with a return of the old-time ideas. The traction company, however, is likely to oppose it because the strap-hanger shown in the picture seems to have been given something like comfort—a luxury which will hardly be considered by the Pittsburg Railways Company.

TIME BRINGS MANY CHANGES AND, ALAS, SOME OF THEM FOR THE WORSE.



[Reproduced from "Harper's Weekly" of January 12, 1861.]

The above illustration, with this line underneath, "The Latest Idea for Riding in Crowded City Cars," appeared in "Harper's Weekly" of January 12, 1861. The "Journal of Civilization" made a serious mistake when it advanced such an idea. The idea was at variance with civilization and it has continued to be more and more at variance ever since. There is nothing civilizing in being packed in trolley cars the way the Pittsburgh Railways Company packs its patrons. Humane societies see to it that cattle and hogs are not packed in cars the way the people of Pittsburgh are compelled to travel on the trolley lines during the rush hours. The man who first suggested the straps has much to answer for. The great anathema of the Anti-Strap Holders' League is hurled at him.

TWO THOUSAND MEN ON STRIKE

Workers of Several Branches of Trade Celebrated May-Day by Going Out.

THE BOILERMAKERS QUIT

Want 50 Cents a Day More Pay and One Hour Per Diem Less Work—Engineers Are Winning—Carpenters Accept.

About 2,000 workmen are idle in Pittsburgh and vicinity as the result of several strikes which were begun yesterday. About 700 boiler makers, with over 400 helpers, unexpectedly quit work, being refused an advance of 50 cents a day and a reduction of an hour in working time. Under the old schedule they were receiving $3 50 for a nine-hour day. The strikers will hold a meeting this morning at the Building Trades Council hall. Up to last evening but three firms had signed the scale. It was reported that many of the firms are willing to grant the increase in wages, but are opposed to an eight-hour day.

The strike of the hoisting and portable engineers is slowly simmering out. Of the 300 members of the craft in Pittsburgh and vicinity, less than 100 are idle. The leading contracting firms acceded to the demand of the men, which was 50 cents an hour, instead of 47 cents. The firms were George A. Fuller Company, James A. Stewart Company, William Trimble & Son and the Duquesne Construction Company.

All of the elevator constructors who were on strike resumed work yesterday, their scale having been signed by all the employers.

The scale of the International Union of Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers was also generally signed, and over 250 of the craft resumed work. They will receive an increase of 40 cents a day.

The carpenters accepted the terms of the master builders and will recieve the same wages as last year, $3 50 for an eight-hour day.

The plumbers of McKeesport, consisting of 150 journeymen and their apprentices, are on strike for an eight-hour day and a half holiday on Saturday.

Nearly all of the ornamental and architectural housesmiths are at work, having received an increase of 5 cents an hour. They formerly were paid 45 cents an hour.

One of the results of the strike of the hoisting and portable engineers yesterday was the cessation of work for nearly the entire day of the bridge and structural iron workers employed on the Wabash bridge. The latter just returned to work last Monday after a seven weeks' strike. As the American Bridge Company, up to yesterday morning, had not signed the hoisting engineers' scale the engineers refused to work. The heavy structural iron and timbers could not be moved without steam power and consequently the bridge workers had to be idle until the difficulty was settled.

A conference was held in the afternoon at the offices of the bridge company and the scale was signed. The engineers will go to work this morning and so will the bridge workers.

A special meeting of the Builders' league was held yesterday at which the strike of the hoisting and portable engineers was discussed. A committee was named to investigate the strike and its causes and report back to the league, when definite action will be taken to avert any further trouble.

Plumbers Held a Smoker.

Over 400 plumbers attended the reception and smoker in the Building Trades council hall, No. 225 Fourth avenue, last evening, under the auspices of plumbers' local No. 27. The affair was arranged in honor of the visit of W. M. Merrick of Chicago, national president of the plumbers' association. He delivered an interesting and instructive address and dwelt on the problems of the craft. There were two clever sparring exhibitions and a musical program. Sandwiches, lemonade and coffee were freely distributed.

Master Steamfitters Organizing.

The master steamfitters of Pittsburgh and Allegheny met in the Builders' league rooms in the Lewis block last evening to perfect their organization. A committee on constitution and by-laws was appointed and the meeting adjourned to meet at the call of John T. Bealor, president pro tem. Nearly all of the master steamfitters in this vicinity are connected with the organization.

CRANK CHALLENGED PRESIDENT TO DEBATE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, May 1.—Otto Heim, writer of a series of rambling and threatening letters to President Roosevelt, has been arrested and taken to a detention hospital, where his sanity will be inquired into. He fancies that he has been greatly wronged and that he has been cheated out of $20,000 in life insurance by an insurance company. One letter, sent to Chief O'Neill by Postmaster Coyne, reads as follows:

The Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States:

Dear Sir—I have no rest whatever until I be given an opportunity to explain my open letter whereby I, Otto Heim, condemn you as the head of all parties that the world has ever created.

I am ready now and at any time to enter debate with you as the representative of the United States, for your good as well as for the good of our country. I am the boy, Mr. President, under your direction, that will raise the Stars and Stripes forever.

If you fear to face me publicly on the very same stage you were April 2, remember our country will have to face the same taste as Spain did in 1898, for the sake of a few all the insults as you may consider I shall prove to you as well as to the entire world, such as no man has ever done before. Your obedient servant, OTTO HEIM.

AUTO CATCHES FIRE.

New Yorkers Treated to Odd Exhibition in Herald Square.

NEW YORK, May 1.—(Special.)—For half an hour William Lotion, a partner of August Belmont, sat in the Waldorf-Astoria this afternoon waiting for his electric cab which he had ordered to call for him at 3 o'clock. Five minutes before it was due the automobile stopped with a whirr on the tracks of the Thirty-fourth street cross-town car line at Broadway. Then there was a sound as of an explosion and flames shot out on all sides.

Before Thomas Lennon, the operator, or Joseph Curley, who sat beside him, could jump from the box they were enveloped in flames, and Lennon, whose hand was on a lever at the side, was badly burned. This happened about 3 o'clock, when Herald square crowds are largest, and hundreds of persons crowded about the blazing automobile.

THREE WERE INJURED.

Traction Car Struck Soda Water Wagon With Serious Results.

A serious accident has occurred every day this week on the lines of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. Yesterday a car collided with a wagon at Thirty-third street and Penn avenue, and three men were badly hurt. The wagon was owned by the Acme Soda Water Company of Roberts street and the concussion caused several bottles to explode.

The injured are: John Tomaliski of No. 224 Spring Garden avenue, Allegheny, chest crushed and internally injured; is at his home; Thomas Meckrell, right arm broken and otherwise hurt; is at the West Penn hospital; Thomas Finnecue of No. 408 Ligonier street, sustained several scalp wounds and was hurt about the face and body; taken to his home.

After the collision the motorman pushed the broken wagon aside and continued his journey down town.

Mysterious Blaze and Explosion—Fireman Fell Off a Ladder.

Fire, originating in a mysterious manner, cleaned out the third floor and a good part of the second of the pantaloon factory of Zeugschmidt & Finegold in Oak alley, just off Liberty avenue, last evening. A still alarm was turned in about 7:50 p. m., quickly followed by a second alarm.

Shortly after the fire companies arrived the windows were blown outward with great force. The firemen asserted that there was an explosion, but members of the firm said that there was nothing in the building that could explode.

Fireman Charles Jackson, colored, of No. 1 chemical company, fell from the top of a 30-foot ladder. He was badly bruised and a finger on his right hand was lacerated.

Only an hour before the fire was discovered there were 75 to 100 girls at work in the building. When the work for the day stops at 6 p. m., the electric light and power are turned off. There is no gas in the building.

The loss from the fire is estimated at about $20,000, the stock being damaged to the extent of $12,000 and the building about $8,000. The building is a three-story brick structure, about 110x60 feet, owned by J. Jackson & Brother. The stock consisted of cloth and clothes already made up. Insurance covers the loss on both the building and the stock.

The proximity of the fire to large buildings made it especially dangerous. On one side is the Jackson clothing store and the wholesale drug house of George A. Kelly & Co. and a row of important stores stretch along Seventh avenue, just back of where the burning building stood. Fire doors were hastily closed and none of the neighboring structures were ignited.

SIGSBEE IN COMMAND AT LEAGUE ISLAND

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—Rear Admiral Sigsbee was today installed as commandant of the League Island navy yard, to succeed Rear Admiral Sands, who has been transferred to the North Atlantic coast defense fleet. The ceremonies incident to Admiral Sigsbee's induction consisted of a salute of 11 guns, a parade of marines and a reception to officers of the navy yard.

PUPILS PLANTE[D] MEMORIAL TR[EES]

Supt. William Falconer, [Mr.] Charles B. Wood and Andr[ew] Carnegie Honored.

ARBOR DAY EXERCIS[ES]

Near 1,000 Scholars Attend Function in Schenley Park—Addres[s] Made by President of Western Pennsylvania Botanical Society.

Supt. William Falconer, Charles B. Wood and Andrew Carnegie were honored yesterday by the planting of memorial trees in Columbus grove, Schenley park, by the pupils of the Pittsburgh High school, in their observance of Arbor Day. The exercises were held on the sunny hillside overlooking Panther hollow and attended by nearly 1,000 enthusiastic pupils. In all 17 trees were planted, consisting of three elms, four tulips and ten sweet buckeyes. At the conclusion of the ceremonies Supt. Falconer was presented with an elegantly bound volume of the poems of Robert Burns by his young High school friends.

The singing of an Arbor Day song set to the inspiring air of "Maryland, My Maryland," opened the program. The pupils were seated on the grass surrounding the speaker's stand and formed a pretty picture while they joined with faces in the singing of the spirited wartime song strangely set to words of peace.

Dr. T. D. Davis, president of the Western Pennsylvania Botanical society, delivered the opening address. He told of the uses of trees and made an eloquent appeal for encouragement in their planting. He described how forests affect agriculture and climatic conditions, and explained the dangers that the wholesale destruction of forests would incur.

"Trees have their individual characteristics just like human beings," declared Dr. Davis. "See that straight, stiff old Lombardy poplar standing like a man with an armful of switches—reminiscent of an old-time schoolmaster. Look at that gnarled oak standing off alone like an old bachelor; and that thorny tree full of sharp points an old maid. Also see that honey locust that represents, of course, the high school boy. Oh, trees are full of life and lessons."

Supt. Falconer made a short address on tree planting and called attention to his far-reaching results. He said that he regretted that he was about to leave the office of superintendent of the parks, and hoped that his successor would receive the same kind treatment which the public had accorded him.

Prof. Edward Rynearson, director of the high school, paid a neat tribute to Supt. Falconer, saying that the interest he had shown in behalf of the pupils had secured for the Pittsburgh High school opportunities and an equipment better than that of any other public school in the country. Prof. Rynearson said the people owed the superintendent a debt which could not be paid, and added that it was fitting that a memorial tree should be planted by the pupils to remind present and coming generations of the best part of a life spent so unselfishly for the thousands of young people of Pittsburgh.

Supt. Falconer's arboreal monument will be an American elm. Dr. Wood was honored by a sweet buckeye and Mr. Carnegie by an elm. The singing of a song to the air of "America" closed the exercises. There are now more than 100 trees in the grove.

TEMPORARY BUILDING FOR PRECIOUS RELICS

Carnegie Museum Specimens Will Be Removed to New Store House to Allow Taxidermists to Work Unhampered.

Officers of the Carnegie institute will not allow themselves to be hampered by delay which politics may throw in the way of the proposed improvements in the Institute buildings. The museum committee at its monthly meeting on Thursday night resolved to proceed with its work and prepare the exhibits for new annex provided for in Andrew Carnegie's last gift to the institute. Until the new building is ready storage quarters will be taken in a temporary structure or in a building to be leased for the purpose.

Dr. W. J. Holland, director of the museum, and C. C. Mellor were appointed on a special committee to secure the building. The basement of the institute is crowded with material and the taxidermists find it impossible to carry on their work. Yesterday Prof. Hatcher commenced the reproduction of the model of the diplodocus Carnegii for the British museum, and this, with other undertakings, has seriously taxed the room needed in the workshops. In order to make good progress it has been decided to store all material not needed for immediate use. In case a building cannot be secured near at hand a temporary structure will be erected. Mr. Mellor said:

"We desire a building very close to the institute. In case we cannot get this we will erect a structure on the ground adjoining and store our material there until the new annex is completed. The temporary structure would be built of corrugated iron and made fireproof. We may have to do this, as I know of no building in the vicinity which would be available for our purpose. When we received the old boat from the Nile it could not be accommodated in the Institute, and we were compelled to house it in a wooden shed.

"In all events the museum committee will not be caught napping. The public has little idea of the magnitude of the institution we shall have, and it is our purpose to be prepared to place our exhibits when the new annex is completed. We will clear the basement and work rooms of the material stored there and give the taxidermists a free hand."

Several members of the committee favor the erection of a temporary building. They join in saying that it would furnish a safe storehouse and protection against fire and would cost no more than the leasehold on an old dwelling house.

Our clothing, the essence of all that's good

Enterprise is to merit what steam is to the engine. Without steam, the engine is powerless to move. Merit is likewise dependent on enterprise. Success can only be achieved by the linking of the two together. With most meritorious clothing for our engine and energetic progressiveness for our propelling power, we've steamed ahead irresistibly---each season making rapid strides nearer the goal of perfection---until today we offer you at 20.00, 25.00, 30.00 & 35.00 clothing that's on a par with custom made—made of equally choice and fine imported woolens, drafted by equally skilled artisans, put together by equally competent journeymen tailors, and yet costing only about half what you'd have to pay if you left your measure with a tailor. And the fit (a point wherein the custom tailor once reigned supreme) is not only absolutely perfect, but you escape the bother of several "trying-ons." The same applies with equal force to the splendid suits and top coats we offer at "twelve" and "fifteen"

Authorities on the question of correct male attire agree that $16.00 and $20.00 could never heretofore buy such swell clothing. Every style shown on the fashion plates is here, in every material, pattern and color that has received the sanction of fastidious dressers. The suits in 3 or 4-button sacks or 2-button double-breasteds, with the broad athletic concave shoulders. The top coats in those dashing coverts, silk lined, satin lined, or with silk yoke and skeleton bottom—or in the medium and longer styles for those of more subdued tastes. If, however, you don't wish to pay as much as $12.00 or $15, but still insist on something strictly correct and which will give most satisfying service, you can't do better than choose from our lines at "eight-fifty" and "ten"

Not a garment here that we cannot conscientiously recommend. Not part wool and part cotton, but ALL (100 per cent) WOOL, stylishly cut, carefully tailored and perfect fitting. The suits in single-breasted and double-breasted, 3 or 4 button—in new mixtures, fancy cheviots, worsteds, cassimeres, etc. The overcoats will please you equally well, especially the silk lined covert top coats in light and dark tans, greenish mixtures—or the plain blues and blacks in the medium and longer coats, if you prefer them.

LEAGUE GAMES TODAY.

Chicago at Exposition Park.
Brooklyn at Philadelphia.
New York at Boston.
St. Louis at Cincinnati.

After a short and successful visit to Chicago and St. Louis, Manager Fred Clarke and his champion Pirates returned home last night, and the players lost no time in seeking their boarding houses and getting out their overcoats, which had been left at home as there was summer weather when the team started west.

The champions' experience at St. Louis and Friday afternoon was one they will not forget in a hurry. It was a bitterly cold day in the Mound City, and Manager Clarke wanted the game called off, but the St. Louis club owners, anticipating a very large crowd because of its being world's fair dedication day, insisted on the game being played. The players, when they appeared on the field, wore all the extra clothing they could find and were so bundled up that it was a wonder they could play ball at all.

Phillippe, who was carded to pitch the game, was angry all over and got even by using all the Cardinals were weak as infants before his delivery. The deacon kept up his hot pace until the champions were six runs to the good and then eased down and simply tossed the ball over the plate. In justice to Patsy Donovan, it must be said that he also opposed the playing of the game and asked for a postponement, but Stanley Robison, who was running affairs, would not listen to any such proposition.

Secretary Locke brings back very rosy reports concerning the Pirates' corps of pitchers, and says that Manager Clarke has his old-time trouble on hand, which is that he has so many good pitchers that he finds it difficult to keep them all in work. The showing made by Kennedy in the opening game at St. Louis was no fluke, according to Secretary Locke, who states that Kennedy has all of his old-time speed and curves and that he is going to make a very valuable man for the champions.

Manager Clarke is more pleased than ever with the work of Falkenberg, the tall boy who will be called upon to pitch the opening game against the Chicago team this afternoon. Falkenberg's work in the game at Chicago last Sunday delighted the leader of the champions. It was his first regular game on the big league circuit in front of a record-breaking crowd were hundreds of his friends and former classmates at the Illinois university. It was a hard test for a young pitcher, but Falkenberg went through with it and pitched winning ball. It was errors on the part of the other players that lost the game.

The report that President Dreyfuss was away on a stiff hunt after some new players is emphatically denied by Secretary Locke, who states that the Pirates' owner is down in Louisville visiting his family and will be here on Monday, as he remains there to witness the Kentucky derby, which is to be run today. Secretary Locke says the champions are not in need of any players, as the team is so well fortified at present that it could afford to loan a few stars out.

During the absence of the team the grounds keepers have been very busy over at Exposition park, and a number of improvements will be found. Particular attention has been given to the playing field, which was somewhat rough during the opening games, but it has been smoothed out and is now in fine shape for play.

Manager Clarke as well as all of the players on the team were pleased to hear of the recovering of Jimmy Sebring from what was thought would be a long, serious illness, and they hope to have the right fielder back in the game this week.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Frank Selee and his Chicago team are booked to arrive this morning from Cincinnati, where they had the unpleasant experience of receiving a shutout yesterday. It is likely that Taylor, who has always puzzled the Pirates, will pitch for Chicago today.

That shutout yesterday is liable to inspire the Reds with confidence and induce them to play the game in the future. Joe Kelley has been up against a lot of hard luck since the opening of the season.

The New York Americans, now that they are on their own grounds, have taken to batting and they are banging the ball about in a lively fashion. The ex-Pirates on the team, particularly Jimmy Williams, is doing very clever stick work.

The persistancy with which the Giants keep winning makes it look as though Muggsy McGraw's team is going to fight it out with the Pirates for first place. However, there may be a different story when the eastern clubs meet the ones from the west.

The Californians—Jones, Schmidt, McCreedie and Householder—have done yeoman service for Brooklyn so far this season. Hanlon made no mistake when he signed them.—Philadelphia Record.

Jimmy Collins is in hard luck in losing the services of Catcher Farrell, who broke his leg in attempting to steal a base at Washington. Farrell, no doubt, will be out of the game all season, and maybe forever. He is so heavy that he will not be able to get back in the game as quickly as a younger and lighter player.

Jouett Meekin, who was a Pirate for a short time, has been signed by the Evansville team of the Central league. He had been selected by President Bennett as umpire. His place as umpire will be filled by Al Mauch of Princeton, Ind.

The Wheeling team is getting a very poor start in the Central league's pennant race, having dropped the first two games. The Wheeling rooters are loyal, however, and will overlook a few defeats at the start of the season.

BLUFFITES WIN AGAIN.

Pittsburgh College Reserves Beat Pittsburgh High School Commercials on Latter's Ground.

The Pittsburgh College Reserves won their opening game yesterday afternoon by defeating the Pittsburgh High School Commercials at Friendship park, 9 to 6. Both teams played a loose fielding game and errors were forthcoming at critical stages. Patterson had somewhat the better of the pitching argument, having 14 strike-outs and passing only two men. The fielding of Pascual, Patterson, Mc-Kee and Hussy were features. Score:

BROAD IS READY FOR BATTLE WITH YANGER

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

LOUISVILLE, May 1.—This was the last day's work but one at "Kid" Broad's training quarters, and after it was done "Parson" Davies, his manager, said: "I believe this boy is in the best possible condition and that he could go any number of rounds from one to a hundred. He has worked hard and my only fear since I have been here with him is that he might overtrain, but work and eating are the two things that he never seems to get enough of. Yanger will have to be a great little fighter to beat him." Manager Davies, Major Hughes and Bob Gray of the Southern Athletic Club, helped make up the small crowd of spectators who watched Broad go through his gymnasium stunts at Schmitt's Garden at Shelby and Rapp streets this afternoon.

There are no frills at the Kid's training quarters. When the latter arrived they found Broad on the scales in his room, and the beam just balanced at 128, the weight at which the men are to box. "I must have eaten a very big dinner," was his first remark, "for I only weighed 125½ after my road work this morning."

Broad began his gymnasium work by slugging a weather-beaten punching bag for six rounds. The bag had never been intended for exhibition purposes and it was heavy enough for Jeffries to have used in training.

It was a case of biff, bang, with no fancy work, and at the finish the little slugger had scarcely taken a long breath. This was followed by six rounds of roughing and wrestling with his sparring partners, Berry Mastison and "Shang" Paretto, both of them weighing 150 pounds or over. It was in this work that Broad's condition and strength was best shown. He handled the men as if they were his own weight and several times had them on the mat in the mix-up. Without waiting to rest he then began a quarter of an hour's work at skipping the rope, all the while keeping up a running talk with his visitors.

"They say Yanger has improved since I met him. Well, so have I. I'll be there whenever he wants to hit me, and he will not have to hunt for me."

THEIR MAY-DAY WALK.

London Stock Exchange Members Indulge in a Very Long Jaunt.

LONDON, May 1.—Eighty-seven members of the London stock exchange started at 6:30 o'clock this morning from Westminster bridge on a May day walk to the Brighton aquarium, a distance of 52½ miles.

Great interest has been excited in this contest, for which the competing members had been training for weeks. Handsome prizes were offered to the competitors and considerable sums of money were wagered on the result.

For some time after the start the route followed resembled the road to Epsom on Derby day. Many motors and carriages and hundreds of cyclists and pedestrians formed a convoy for the contestants. Before five miles had been covered one-third of the men had a woe-begone appearance and their numbers had been reduced nearly one-half by the time they passed Red Hill, 20 miles from the start. F. F. Broad won, arriving at Brighton at 4:05 p. m.

RACE HORSES BURNED.

Some Promising Youngsters Were Victims of Flames.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Four horses were burned early today in a fire that destroyed a 40-stall stable at the Sheepshead Bay track. The horses were 2-year-olds and belonged to N. M. Zeigler of Philadelphia.

Among the horses burned was a promising 2-year-old by Requital, which Mr. Zeigler was preparing for a number of important stake races.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, May 1.—New York again outplayed Washington at American league park today and won by the score of 8 to 3. The weather was too cold and windy for baseball, but the players put up a good batting game. Orth was hit hard in the first and fifth innings and clever fielding on the part of the home team prevented the visitors scoring after the third inning. The score:

Comiskey's Team Won Opening Game at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 1.—The locals captured the opening American league game here today from Detroit by timely hitting and good base-running. Both teams fielded well, considering the fact that it was a cold and windy day. Attendance 5,800. Score:

WON BY BOSTON.

High Winds Turned Easy Outs Into Safe Hits.

BOSTON, May 1.—Daring base-running was as disastrous for the Philadelphias today as for the home team. High winds converted easy outs into safe hits. Bender pitched effectively, but a pass and hitting a man, as well, counted. Score:

Lajoie did not play on account of cold. Hemphill was put out of the game at the end of the eighth for taking hold of Umpire O'Loughlin while protesting a decision. Kahoe took his place. Score:

FRESHMEN SLAUGHTERED BY EAST LIBERTY NINE

Blue and White Has Little Trouble in Winning from W. U. P. First Year Men.

That the East Liberty Academy nine will be in the hunt for the local Interscholastic championship this season, was made more evident yesterday when the boys under Captain Jay Zahniser disposed of the Western University Freshmen at D. C. and A. C. Park, 16 to 3. It was East Liberty's game all the way and after the first inning the contest was never in doubt. In the opening period East Liberty fell on Wynne for ten runs. Fourteen men were up in this inning and 11 of them faced Wynne. The distress flag was hoisted by him and Ellwood was sent in to stop the slaughter. But three men were before the new man during the first session. With such a big lead East Liberty did not play its hardest during the remainder of the argument. In the first inning East Liberty got its runs on six hits, two bases on balls and two errors. In the next inning Edwards slammed the ball out for two sacks and he scored on Henderson's single. Three singles, a pass and a wild throw gave the blue and white four more in the third round. A two bagger by Reiber and a wild throw gave East Liberty ita last run.

Two errors, a walk and a single by Schaefer were responsible for W. U. P.'s only three runs in the third. McCracken relieved Henderson in the seventh, which was the last of the game. McCracken got himself in a bad hole by walking the first two men but sharp fielding saved him from being scored on. East Liberty will play the Normals at California today. Score:

NEWS OF THE HOME AND THE SOCIETY WORLD

SOCIETY — WOMEN'S CLUBS — WOMEN'S CORNER

MAY DAY was celebrated yesterday by the students at the Alinda school. The May pole dance on the lawn, the little lads and lassies in the pretty white costumes with flower-decked hats and wreaths in their hair presented a truly novel and exquisitely pretty picture to all who passed out Fifth avenue yesterday between 3 o'clock and 6. The pole was erected on the lawn before the school building at Fifth avenue and Craig street, Bellefield, and its many gay ribbons were wound in and out by the children as they circled about the tall pole, their tiny feet dancing to the music of the banjo played by a negro attendant. The ribbons were the national colors—red, white and blue—and appeared in striking contrast to the dainty lace-trimmed frocks of the little girls and the smart suits of the boys, all of whom belong to the kindergarten which is conducted in connection with the Alinda school.

Within the school building the older students, the girls in the junior and senior classes, gave a Japanese tea which was an exceedingly picturesque affair. In a dainty tea room, filled with several small tables, tea was served by three little maids, who represented, in their dainty Japanese costume, with its wide flowing sleeves, close skirt and huge sash, the three little maids from school in the "Mikado." The tea, chocolate and cake were served beneath a large, fantastic Japanese umbrella. Gaily colored Japanese fans added to the decoration of the tea room.

In other school rooms the older girls carried on a brisk sale of fuoge, home-made candies and goodies dear to the hearts of school girls. There were flowers and potted plants, including a pretty array of ferns and small palms, together with bright scarlet geraniums, which soon found purchasers.

The entertainment was given for the benefit of the Tenement Improvement association, and among those who took part in it were Katherine Gordon, Mary Snyder, Lucy Kay, Gretchen Schoonmaker, Bessie Wood, Pauline Wilson, Gertrude Wood, Norman Alderdice, Louise Davis, Joseph Wilson, Ann Abbett, Dorothy Rowe, Mary Kabler, Alice Metcalf, Mary Moreland, Edith Kelly, Margaret Rowe, Rose Marsh, Ruth Card, Helen Dunn and Dorothy Dunn. The Tenement Improvement Company was incorporated in February by Miss Anne S. Phillips, Miss Mary E. Eakewell and Miss Alice Holdship. It is modeled after the Octavia Hill association of Philadelphia for the betterment of the housing of the poor of the city.

An Annual Pupils' Concert.

The annual concert of the pupils of James Stephen Martin will be held in Carnegie Music hall next Tuesday evening. The chorus will number 60 voices, composed of private pupils, many of them advanced singers. A notable feature is the unusual number of new singers who will be introduced to the public at this concert. The program is of much interest and on it are to be found six songs, a duet, a chorus and an aria that have not been heard in Pittsburgh before. Besides the brilliant Bolero of Arditi, sung this year by Madam Schumann-Heink, and that test for all coloratura sopranos, the "Indian Bell Song," from Lakme, which fairly bristles with technical difficulties, two songs will be given with 'cello obligato and one with flute.

The program is as follows: Chopin-Vogrich, "Ring Out, Wild Bells," with unison solo by Miss Ellis; Mrs. Forstrom and Mrs. Lantz; Gounod-Buck's "Nazareth," with bass solo, by J. Gordon Jones, for chorus of men's voices; Valmore's "A Dervish Visit," and Frank Lynes' "Memoria," by Richard S. Knotts; Noel Johnson's "Love On, O Heart," with 'cello obligato, by Howard J. White; Edward German's "Love, the Pedlar," Mrs. James B. Lantz; Holway Atkinson's "The Lover's Litany," and D'Hardelot's "Because," Mrs. L. Reese Alexander; Ellen Wright's "A Dream," and Robert Batten's "A May Song," Miss Elizabeth C. McNally; Godard's "Berceuse" (Jocelyn), with 'cello obligato, by Mr. White, and Von Stutzman's "Vanika's Song," Miss Jane Lang; Gounod's recitative and aria, "Semelle's 'My Sadness'" (Queen of Sheba), J. Gordon Jones; Kucken's "Gentle Rest," Horatio Parker's "Spring Song" and Gaul's "List, the Cherubic Host," with baritone solo, by G. A. Jones and chorus of women's voices, Delibes' "Indian Bell Song," with flute oblige, by Mr. Hertz, Miss Katherine Ellis, Edna Rosalind Park's "A Dream," and Oley Speaks' "Hungarian Song," Howard J. White; Gounod's aria, "O, Ma Lyre Immortelle," Miss Genevieve Wheat; D'Hardelot's "Dawn," and Heidlinger's "Life Again Today," Edward Vaughan; Arditi's bolero, "Leggiero Invisible," Miss Ethel Skiles; Goring Thomas' "Sunset," and Lesson's "Spring," Miss McNally and Miss Wheat; and for the finale the full chorus will sing Faning's "Song of the Wings."

The chorus is composed of the following singers: Soprano, Misses Helen Baldridge, Matilda Bauss, Eva Browarsky, Jessica Childs, Ruth Campbell, Maude Cox, Bessie Donnelly, Mary J. Davis, Katherine Ellis, Grace Hodil, Edith Holt, Bessie Myers, Elizabeth C. McNally, Julia McClure, Louisa Root, Ethel Satterthwaite, Ethel Skiles, Marie Scully, Marie Warwick, Mrs. W. W. Crawford, Mrs. William Forstrom, Mrs. H. Clyde Gatewood, Mrs. James B. Lantz and Mrs. W. B. Rohn; altos, Misses Bertha Baker, Rebecca Baker, Florence Haupt, Jane Lang, Frances Wash, Jane Negley, Mary Ethel Young, Genevieve Wheat, Mrs. T. J. Dansey, Mrs. R. Faithson; tenors, Messrs. M. N. Gleghorn; tenors, Messrs. Eugene Caton, Thomas J. Danner, W. H. Duff, A. Elliott, Albert G. Gill, A. S. Hood, L. McKeever, W. A. Sitzler, D. D. Stoner, Edward Vaughan; bassos, Messrs. L. Reese Alexander, J. R. Bergstrasser, A. Gleghorn, G. A. Jones, J. Gordon Jones, Joel Kinder, R. S. Knotts, C. C. Miller, J. Moore, H. C. Sherwood, R. M. Sherrard and Howard J. White.

Will Live in the South.

Mr. and Mrs. William K. Gillespie of "The Elms," Western avenue, Allegheny, are now established in Charlotte, N. C. Accompanied ony by Kirk Gillespie, they left for the south on Thursday of last week for the benefit of Mr. Gillespie's health. He was very ill when they left home, exhausted by the trip that it was said he would not be able to survive the fatigue, but he is greatly improved, according to the latest word which reached Pittsburgh yesterday. The Gillespies have gone south to make their home permanently and will be joined by their daughter, Miss Mabel Gillespie, in a few weeks after the several weddings at which she has promised to act as bridesmaid are over. Separate apartments have been built for them adjoining the Presbyterian hospital in Charlotte and there it is hoped that Mr. Gillespie's health will be improved.

Farewell Church Supper.

The Women's Alliance of the First Unitarian church, Craig street, will give a farewell supper in the church parlor on Monday evening. This will be the last supper in the present edifice, as it is to be dismantled soon. A new church is under course of construction at Ellsworth and Morewood avenues.

The committees appointed by Mrs. J. B. Rosenberger, chairman, are as follows: Dining room, Mrs. H. C. Beggs, Mrs. R. E. Lee, Mrs. George H. Anthony; flower table, Miss Ella Boyce, Mrs. H. M. Corwin, Miss Alma Anthony; domestic table, Mrs. H. Doul, Mrs. Charles Townsend, Miss Jennie Robinson; fancy table, Mrs. August A. Wolf, Miss Jennette Lupton, Miss Alice Lee; culinary, Mrs. W. A. Kiehl, Mrs. F. G. Fleming, Mrs. W. L. Carns.

Entertaining in Bellevue.

Mrs. Russell Mitchell of Grant avenue, Bellevue, entertained the Twentieth Century Fancy Work club at her home yesterday. Mrs. Mitchell also gave a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Samuel Benner and the Misses Benner of Homewood avenue, Avalon. Covers were laid for 18 and spring flowers were used as table decorations. The luncheon was in the form of a farewell, as Mrs. Benner and her daughters are the last of the week for New York, where they will make their home.

The Mother Goose Entertainment.

The arrangements are all completed for the Mother Goose pantomime to be given this afternoon in Conservatory hall, Dithridge street, Bellefield, under the auspices of the John Hart chapter, Children of the American Revolution. Mother Goose and her son Jack will be impersonated by Miss Rose Marsh and Master Jack Sellars. The hall will be prettily decorated, the decorations culminating on the stage. The Mother Goose melodies will be sung by a number of women prominent socially. A pretty feature of the entertainment will be the cotillion, which will follow the pantomime and will include the small actors and their visitors.

Miss Darlington's Luncheon.

Miss Rebecca Darlington gave a very pretty luncheon yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Thomas Morrison Carnegie. Covers were laid for 12 and the luncheon was followed by bridge. The guests were Mrs. Carnegie, Mrs. J. Walter Rhodes, Mrs. William C. Robinson, Mrs. Frank N. Schwartz, Mrs. A. Marshall Bell, Mrs. Charles M. Brown, Mrs. Louise Sproul, Mrs. Eugene Messler, Miss Stella Hays, Miss Bessie Howe and Miss Madeline Laughlin. The round table for the luncheon was decorated with a center piece of pink sweet peas, artistically arranged and lying in a bed of maiden hair ferns. There were three tables for bridge, at each prizes being offered, consisting of exquisite pictures and picture frames.

Coming Home.

Mrs. Siviter, the wife of Capt. Francis Pierpont Siviter, Twenty-eighth United States infantry, who arrived in San Francisco a couple of days ago from Mindanao, P. I., is expected to reach Pittsburgh next Wednesday. Mrs. Siviter did not expect to come here at this time, but intended joining her parents, Dr. and Mrs. David R. Breed, in their summer home in Wequetosing, Mich. She reached San Francisco earlier than it was thought the transport Logan, on which she came, would arrive, and is coming on directly to Pittsburgh before the Breeds will be able to leave for Michigan.

Closing Mozart Concert.

The closing concert of the Mozart club's twenty-fifth season will be given on Friday evening, May 15, and the chorus is now preparing a special program for that occasion. The main number on the program will be Dubois' "Seven Last Words," which will be given on this occasion for the first time by the Mozart club. Three Wagner numbers will also be sung by the chorus, and the soloists for the evening will be heard in interesting vocal numbers.

Dinner and Bridge at the Club.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Horne entertained last evening at dinner at the Pittsburgh club, her guests including 20 of the younger married people. Dinner was served at one round table, beautifully decorated, and after dinner the guests adjourned to the card room across the hall, where they surrounded five tables and rounded out the evening with bridge.

Visitors from Mexico.

Mrs. Ida Neer of Sonora, Mexico, accompanied by her son, Paul Neer, is the guest of her brother, the Rev. D. L. Johnson of No. 1229 Sheffield street, Allegheny. Mrs. Neer's husband is the superintendent of important Mexican mines.

AERIAL TRUCK CONDEMNED.

McKeesport's Fire Chief Decides That It Is Both and Dangerous and Useless.

Chief William Hardy of the McKeesport fire department who was recently re-elected to that position, has condemned one of the most expensive fire-fighting machines in the possession of the department, and it will be abandoned. It is an aerial ladder truck, which has a record of one death and the maiming of another fireman for life to its credit.

The accident occurred some time ago when the truck was under experiment in the rear of the station. Since that time the heavy vehicle has attended all downtown fires but has never been used, as the firemen deemed it unsafe. Several teams of horses have been worn out hauling it over the rough streets.

THE juvenile court department of the permanent civic committee held its first meeting yesterday morning since the recent juvenile court acts became a law by the signature of Gov. Pennypacker. Mrs. Richard Quay, the chairman, presided over the meeting. Miss Kate C. McKnight gave a report, reciting the provisions of the law and speaking of the arrangements necessary for the successful carrying out of the law in Pittsburgh. Mrs. Alice B. Montgomery, who was recommended and indorsed by the Civic club as a probation officer, was sworn in last Monday morning. It was expected that the juvenile court would be opened yesterday, but a delay in receiving a copy of the new law made postponement necessary. One of the important measures presented at the meeting yesterday was the question of salary for the probation officer. No provision is made in the act for the payment of salaries by either state or county. The Civic club, however, and the clubwomen have pledged themselves to raise the money, which will amount to $100 a month. The Civic club will pay a large portion of this by means of subscriptions, and the remainder will be secured by the clubwomen in a similar manner, the club intending to issue a circular asking for funds in a few days.

Mrs. Montgomery is regarded as an exceptional woman for the position of probation officer. And, though there were a few objections to her because she has not been a resident of Pittsburgh, but comes from Philadelphia, her large experience—for she has filled a similar office in the Quaker City for a number of years—and her winning way among children and older boys and girls, offset the objections. She has already familiarized herself with the people and neighborhoods among which she will find much of her work, and has several boys now under her charge. The juvenile court will be presided over by either Judge Taylor or Judge Evans.

An interesting talk was given at the meeting yesterday by Mrs. John M. Ockley of Philadelphia, who told of what has been done for the children in Philadelphia. During the meeting also a hearty vote of thanks was given Miss Sara Ormsby Eaton for the efficient work which she did in behalf of the juvenile court bills when they were presented in Harrisburg. Miss Eaton was there with Mrs. Joseph F. Mumford and Mrs. Frederick Schoff of Philadelphia, and the three made every effort to bring them successfully through the legislature.

Before the meeting was adjourned Mrs. Montgomery arrived from the court rooms, where she had been interested in the trial of three boys. She spoke of what she had seen and learned since she came to the city and told of some of her plans for her work here. It was decided to hold an open meeting at an early date under the direction of the juvenile court department, to which all who are interested in work for children, whether in institutions, or home, in the courts or in the tenements, and for the home environment of the children, are invited. The department will hereafter hold regular meetings on the first Friday of every month.

Club Women's Day.

Instead of the annual rose fete the Women's club will hold a dairy tea next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Anthony W. Smith, Jr., in Ellwood street, East End. It will be a pretty and novel entertainment, and the tea, which will consist entirely of home-made viands will be served by young women in the costumes of dairy maids. The program committee of the club has arranged for a few literary features during the afternoon. The entertainment will be given under the direction of the social committee, of which Mrs. Smith is chairman.

Stopping En Route.

Mrs. Harriet Newell Jones of Philadelphia and her daughter, Miss Grace Jones, will stop in Pittsburgh for the meeting next Tuesday afternoon of the Women's Missionary society of the Shady Avenue Baptist church, of which Mrs. G. W. Berlin is president. Mrs. Jones and Miss Jones, who will be accompanied by several other Philadelphia women, will stop over in Pittsburgh on their way to Waynesburg, where the Baptist state convention will be held on May 6, 7 and 8. While here Mrs. Jones and her daughter will be the guests of Mrs. William S. Power.

FORMED TO DELVE INTO DIM PAST

THIRTEENTH OF ITS KIND

Officers Elected and Councilors Chosen to Attend Meeting of the National Body—Starting Out With 46 Members.

The Pittsburgh Society of the Archaeological Institute of America was permanently organized last night at the Shadyside academy with a membership composed of 46 persons prominent in educational, literary, professional and business circles of this city and Western Pennsylvania.

Notwithstanding that it is the thirteenth society to affiliate with the national institute its promoters are confident the local body will prove to be one of the most flourishing in the country. Next week the national council of the institute holds its annual session in New York, to which councilors were elected last night. The officers elected last night are as follows:

President, John B. Jackson; vice presidents, Pro. W. R. Crabbe, Dr. W. J. Holland, James D. Moffat and Henry K. Porter; secretary, Prof. H. F. Allen; treasurer, William A. Way; executive committee, all the foregoing officers and Mrs. S. A. Ammor, A. B. Harlow, H. J. Ford, Sarah H. Killikelly; councillors, John B. Jackson, William A. Way and H. F. Allen.

WASH-JEFF. WELL REPRESENTED.

H. K. Porter was elected a life member of the society. It will be observed that Washington-Jefferson college is well represented in the local society. James D. Moffat, president of Washington-Jefferson, is one of the vice presidents, and Prof. H. F. Allen, an instructor at the same institution, is secretary and one of the councillors. The membership includes persons from Pittsburgh, Allegheny, Washington, Meadville, Greensburg, New Wilmington and California, Pa. The society is intended to cover the western end of the state. The eastern section of the state is embraced by the society at Philadelphia, which has the comprehensive title of the Pennsylvania society. Notwithstanding the fact that it was organized in 1889, the society in Philadelphia has a membership of only 67.

The local society will meet annually unless called together oftener by the president. It will give several lectures every year.

OBJECTS OF THE SOCIETY.

As explained last night by Prof. Francis W. Kelsey of the University of Michigan, the national secretary of the institute, the purpose of the institute is to promote and direct archaeological research. It does this by aiding the maintenance of schools for archaeological study in Athens, Rome and Jerusalem by sending out expeditions for special investigation, by assisting the efforts of independent explorers, by publishing the results of exploration and research, by holding general meetings for the reading and discussion of papers on archaeological subjects and by disseminating information by means of free lectures. The institute was founded in 1879 and at present has a membership of about 1,200.

Obeyed Court's Orders.

The beginning of the new liquor license year in Allegheny county yesterday resulted in a number of well known saloons being closed, while some new places in the county were opened. This year, according to a decision of the license court, a large number of saloons and wholesale houses will be closed for periods varying from one to two months. "Closed for repairs," was a familiar sign shown in the windows of the places closed for a limited time.

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED

Prof. Brashear Made an Address to the Graduates, as Did Also Prof. J. H. Beal and the Rev. Maitland Alexander.

A class of 57, the largest ever graduated from the Pittsburgh dental college in the seven years of its existence, received diplomas in dental surgery at Carnegie music hall last night. It was an exceptionally brilliant class, 25 members having averaged 90 points in their examination.

In the absence of the dean of the college, Dr. W. H. Fundenberg, whose son died recently, John A. Brashear, acting chancellor of the Western University, of which the dental college is a department, presided. The music was furnished by the Western University orchestra. The Rev. Dr. E. H. Ward led in prayer. The address of the evening was by the Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, and the faculty address was delivered by Prof. J. H. Beal, president of Solo college, who is a member of the faculty of the Pittsburgh dental college.

Dr. S. L. McCurdy, a member of the faculty, recommended the graduates to Chancellor Brashear for diplomas, and the chancellor conferred the diplomas, the big class ranging itself at the rear of the stage in a long line. The conferring of the diplomas was preceded by the chancellor's address to the graduates.

Secretary Loeb Is Left Behind.

KANSAS CITY, May 1.—Secretary Loeb did not accompany the presidential party to Kansas City. He has been feverish for the past week. When the party reached St. Louis he was removed to the Southern hotel and his physician thought it best that he should remain there for a day or two. It is expected that he will join the party at Sharon Springs, Kan., Sunday.

Every woman ought to know something about the ordinary rules and forms which prevail in the business world. She should know how to write a receipt, make out a check and write a sensible business letter. She should have a bank account and acquire some idea of management. It makes a great deal of difference to most of us if we can actually see the money go, and the diminishing balance in the bank book will be an effective check to extravagance.

A Woman's Knowledge of Business.

Pen and ink should always be used in business documents. A fixed signature should be adopted as soon as one is old enough to transact business and should be used invariably in every-day business affairs. If a woman decides to sign her full name she should adhere to it. It causes confusion to sign M. J. Smith one day and Mary Jane Smith the next. The woman who signs a business document, such as deeds, mortgages or paper of a permanent character, should write her name in full. Most of all in the business world a woman should remember that honesty and fair dealings are a good equipment, that an hour complains just 60 minutes and that others' time may be just as valuable, or even more so, than her own.

By a newly enacted Russian law a peasant's wife, in showing to the district judge d' instruction that she is habitually ill-treated by her husband, or that he will not support her, and makes her the drudge for his own support, can demand a separate passport, with which she is at liberty to leave her oppressor and earn a living elsewhere. Hitherto there was no possible redress or release for the long-suffering victim so long as it was obligatory that the wife's name was entered in the husband's passport and papers of legitimation. Any one at all intimately acquainted with village life in Russia will readily appreciate the relief to tens of thousands of peasant women who are the grieviously abused domestic slaves and beasts of burden to their drunken and brutal conjugal proprietors.

For the dressing table there is being sold now a silver sphere pierced in every direction. Into each hole is stuck a little jewelled pin, every head of which is of a different color. There are corals, amethysts, turquoises, rubies, emeralds, pearls, diamonds, peridots and every other gem that can be thought of. The sphere looks like a star-spangled dome, and costs quite an extensive sum of money.

New Jeweled Trinkets.

Another addition has arrived to swell the long list of lucky ornaments. This time it is the green stone from New Zealand that enters the lists, with many promises for happy fortune to those who wear it constantly.

The green stone, which is very much like Chinese jade in appearance, is of a deep shade of green, and makes very pretty cuff studs and links for girls who wear sets of this description in their summer shirts. Rimmed with crystal and finely cut, it is sold in the form of necklets, while it also claims favor in the appreciation of those who like pretty and refined objects upon their writing tables.

THE KENTUCKY DERBY.

Nine Horses Likely to Face the Starter—Track in Fine Shape.

LOUISVILLE, May 1.—(Special.)—A fast track, a clear sky and a good field are the indications for the derby, which will be run at Churchill Downs tomorrow. Eight colts are sure to face the flag in this event and there is a possibility of there being nine.

Though the official entries issued this afternoon do not name Banter, recently purchased by Charles Mahone from Pat Dunne, as a starter, the colt will start, nevertheless. Banter was always eligible, but it seems that his stake engagements were not sold with him and his former owner objected to his starring. Matters were smoothed over, however, late this afternoon and Banter is sure to go to the post. Owner Mahone was busy wiring all afternoon in an effort to get Jockey Coburn to ride his horse. Up to late this evening he had not succeeded in getting the boy, but he is still hopeful. In the event of his failure to get Coburn some other boy now at the track will be secured.

The probable starters in the derby and their jockeys follow: The Picket, J. Mathews; Bourbon, Helgerson; Woodlake, Crowhurst; Treacy, Landry; Bad News, Davis; Early, Winkfield; Judge Himes, Booker; Banter, probably Coburn.

LITERARY BRADDOCK.

April Broke All Records at the Library—Fiction Less Popular.

There were 16,845 volumes taken from the Carnegie Free library at Braddock last month, breaking all records since the library was opened in 1889. A remarkable decrease in the percentage of fiction was noticed. April usually shows a wonderful decrease in the number of books read at all libraries, which is attributed to the fact that it is really the first month of spring, and the people instead of remaining indoors to read, desire to get out into the fresh air.

There was also an enormous increase in the circulation of the branch libraries at Turtle Creek and Wilkinsburg. While the circulation at Braddock was the largest for any month, at Turtle Creek there were only two other months to equal it, and at Wilkinsburg only three other months were so great. About four years ago the percentage of fiction taken out of the main Bradock library was 85. Last month it was only 48 for the Braddock, Turtle Creek and Wilkinsburg libraries, and for Braddock alone 38 per cent. The total at Turtle Creek was 1,987 volumes, and at Wilkinsburg 5,922.

The showing of the Braddock library in regard to fiction, which it has long been the aim of all the librarians at Braddock to cut down, is somewhat aided by the class of literature taken from the library by the pupils of the Braddock schools.

The total circulation of the Braddock library for last month according to the classes, was as follows: General works, 153; philosophy and religion, 433; biography, 735; history, 1,147; description and travel, 731; social science, 2546; natural science, 1,960; useful arts, 229; fine arts, 51; language and literature, 4,855; fiction, adults, 2,362; fiction, juvenile, 4,031. Total, 16,845.

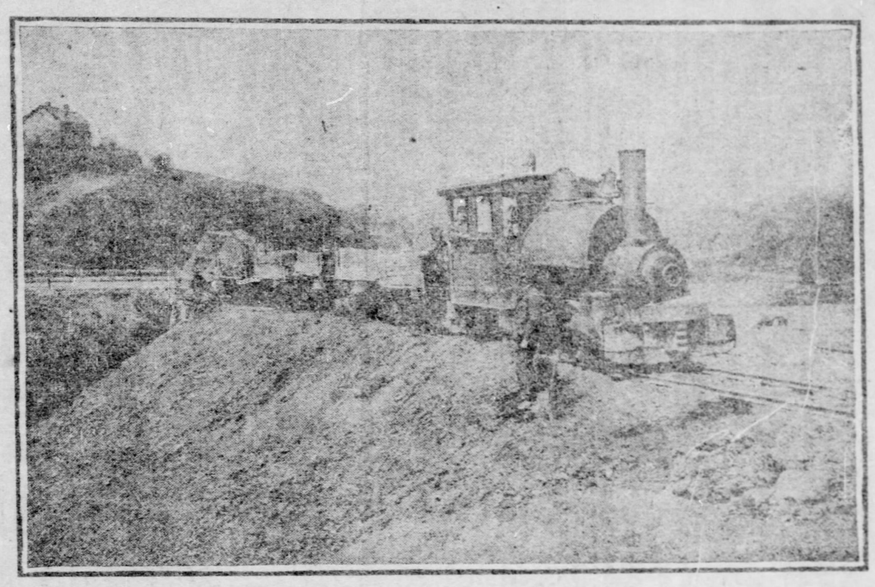
RAILROAD TO BE REBUILT.

Improvements to Be Made on Inter-Works Line of Westinghouse Company.

The Inter-Works railroad, owned and operated by the Westinghouse interests, between their three great plants at East Pittsburgh, Wilmerding and Trafford City, is to be rebuilt its entire length of five miles. New rails and ties were distributed along the route yesterday and work of reconstructing the track will commence Monday.

The road was formerly part of the Turtle Creek Valley Railroad and was owned by the Pennsylvania railroad company. Recently the Westinghouse interests secured control of it. Three cars have arrived and will be operated on the line between the various plants. The cars are combination affairs and will be used in conveying the foremen and material from the different works.

VALES AND VALLEYS ARE CHANGED TO LEVELS AND TERRACES AS HILLS ARE CUT AWAY



This is another illustration showing the transformation work that is going on at several points in the Twenty-second ward, the purpose being to provide sites for beautiful modern homes, for which the demand in Pittsburgh is stronger than ever. As snorting steam shovels cut away the rolling hills of the Squirrel Hill section, puffing dinkey locomotives haul the dirt and stone away and dump it into the hollows, thereby filling them up. Later, the landscape gardner will do his work and then picturesque mansions will rise to charm the eye.

DIPLOMATIC DAY OF CELEBRATION

CLEVELAND MOST GENIAL

Only Frowns When Someone Starts to Sing "Four More Years of Grover"—World's Fair Grounds Not So Crowded.

L. W. STRAYER,
Staff Correspondent.

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—This was diplomats' day at the celebration of the centennial of the signing of the Louisiana purchase treaty, and today the Spanish minister made his first appearance before the American public since the late unpleasantness between that country and the United States.

It was a delicate situation for Senor Ojeda, the Spanish minister, and he was visibly nervous and rather flustered as he faced the audience of several thousand people in the Liberal Arts building. But his address was couched in diplomatic language, and he read it carefully in order that there might be no slip or embarrassing mistake. He spoke of Spain as the pioneer blazing the trail for civilization in the western world, which other nations have followed.

Ex-Senator Thurston, in introducing Senor Ojeda, remarked that there was a time in recent years when it looked as though there might be strained relations between Spain and the United States, but, happily, that has all passed away. This was the only allusion to the Spanish war, and the enthusiastic reception that was accorded the Spanish minister indicated that no ill-feeling is harbored here.

M. Jusseraud, the French ambassador, made a very clever address, well spiced with wit, and he was the recipient of great applause.

BANQUET IN EVENING.

Preceding the meeting was a parade, in which all the diplomatic representatives present participated, escorted by several troops of cavalry. In the evening the distinguished guests and the Washington newspaper correspondents were given a banquet in the Hall of Congress by the exposition management.

Ex-President Cleveland was in his pleasantest mood at this latter event, and if he came here as the guest of the exposition with one eye open to the political possibilities, he had that eye open wide tonight. When a toast was drunk to him he responded in a witty speech, which he termed a confession and an apology. He said there was one time in his life when he thought the newspapers were not just or fair in many instances, but he had since changed his mind.

"For, what everybody believes must be true," he said, "and everybody believes what he reads in the newspapers."

Mr. Cleveland bore evidence to the industry of the press by remarking that reporters rode on the bumpers of the cars, when he was on his wedding trip, when, as a matter of fact, they would have been welcome inside.

"When a man enters public life," said Mr. Cleveland, "he gives himself to the public in every respect, and he must not seem aggrieved if the press pries into his private affairs. I have known of the newspapers saying that a man choked his wife, which must have been true, for I know that man had his arms about his wife's neck."

This slight allusion to a bit of scandal in connection with the ex-president's family history was a great surprise to those who were cognizant of the story and remembered the published account of it.

WIND UP IS TOO MUCH.

When Mr. Cleveland closed with a high tribute to the press, someone started to sing "Four Years More for Grover," but he frowned upon this demonstration and left soon afterward with ex-Gov. Francis.

Speakers who followed him referred to him as the greatest living private citizen, and altogether the banquet gradually assumed the shape of another spoke in the Cleveland presidential wheel. Mr. Cleveland read a letter he had received in this city from an anonymous correspondent, inquiring: "How much did you get out of that $62,000,000 bond issue? Some say you and your partners got $5,000,000." He remarked that he thought that was a rather high commission to accuse a man of, and then made light of the matter.

Senator Hanna, John Mitchell, ex-Senator Tom Carter, ex-Gov. Francis and others made addresses, all paying tribute to the visiting newspaper men.

The weather out of doors today was ideal. Within the Liberal Arts building it was uncomfortably chilly and damp, and but for the fact that the Marine band played constantly during the two hours' wait that preceded the commencement of the program, the audience that heard the addresses of the foreign representatives would have been far smaller than it was.

Today there was a decided improvement in the management of the crowd. Yesterday there were two national guardsmen detailed to keep clear the main aisle in front of the speakers' stand. They were completely overmatched and routed, and one of them could not tell as late as this afternoon, what had become of his musket. Today a detachment of the Sixth Infantry, U. S. A., was given the duty, and it was much better performed, even allowing for the difference in the size of the crowd.

Ex-President Cleveland will leave for home tomorrow morning, going directly to Princeton, N. J.

Promises to Make Best Possible Showing of Arts of Peace at Exposition.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—Senor Ojeda, the Spanish minister, made one of the chief addresses today at the world's fair dedication exercises, discussing Spain's share in the conquest of the great west. In the course of his address he said:

I am sure you will agree with me in thinking that I could do no better, that I could not pay a higher nor more honorable nor lasting tribute to our share in the history of this continent and of this country than by invoking the testimony of your own literary glories, and by referring now to that grateful recognition which moved the founders of this republic, to associate the revered memory of Isabel, the soul-stirring deeds of Pizarro, Cortez and Ojeda with the temple of your nationality.

If ever the engrossing consciousness of your wonderful actual prosperity, the intensity of your life, made one of your strongest citizens forget what your present owes to him, pause before its majestic gates and there you will behold, carved in bronze, on the threshhold of your proudest monument the effigies and the names of these Spanish heroes who discovered, conquered and pointed to you the way into the path you have so successfully followed.

And if, made one of your strongest citizens at the hearth of the American nation, I feel bound to respond to that high tribute paid to Spain by publicly acknowledging here the invariable kindness shown me by all classes of your people since I landed on your shores. As the representative of the nation whose ancient and honored flag was the first to be reflected in the mighty waters of the father of American rivers, I am happy to feel that my first official appearance before an American audience is associated in both your minds and mine with the commemoration of an event, which, although involving far-reaching issues in the respective histories of three great nations, has not and never was darkened by the passions which, in other years, of international strife always leave in their wake.

Spain hails with pleasure an opportunity like your future exhibition will afford, of showing her peaceful conquests in the domains of labor and is especially bent upon attracting toward her the benefits to be derived from the growing tendency of her people to an ever increasing commercial, agricultural and industrial interchange. She, more than ever anxious to cultivate and strengthen to the utmost her friendly relations with the world, could not but welcome with sympathy the announcement of this vast enterprise as a right step toward that blending of her material and moral interests with those of other nations, to that better understanding amongst them which she will indefatigably strive to attain.

A Petrified Chicken.

Squire Douglass Burleigh, who lives near Gleason, Tenn., has dug up on his farm a petrified chicken, just the proper size for a broiler. It is perfect in every respect except as to its legs, which it does not possess. It is so near to nature that it might have been carved, but local sharps say it was surely petrified.

HIGHEST FREIGHT RATE IS ON COAL

HEARST CASE IS DELAYED

Interstate Commerce Commission Gives Time for Counsel to Seek Court's Aid in Forcing Testimony from Witnesses.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 1.—The hearing in the complaint of William R. Hearst against the coal-carrying roads of the anthracite region was continued today by the interstate commerce commission, and Mr. Shearn, counsel for Mr. Hearst, announced that he desired an adjournment for two weeks that he might prepare for submission to the federal court the questions involved in the refusal of the railroad men to submit to the committee the contracts between themselves and the mining companies and the books of the coal companies which show the freight rates charged and paid.

Henry E. Meeker, a local coal dealer, was the first witness called today. He testified on Wednesday that until November, 1900, he paid full freight rates for the coal the Lehigh Valley railroad handled for him, but that when the price of coal was low the railroad made a rebate. Since the new agreement between the miners and coal companies went into effect, the 65 3-5 per cent agreement, no rebate has been allowed. The 35 per cent of the tidewater price of coal, Mr. Meeker said, is less than the tariff rate of carriage charged to the independent miners, and consequently the local dealers who handle the product of the independent miners are at a disadvantage.

President Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western next testified. Despite objection the annual report of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad was admitted. An analysis of it showed the average rate per ton mile on coal carried to be 8.9 mills, and the average rate per ton mile on other merchandise 6.8 mills.

On the advice of his counsel Mr. Truesdale declined to answer any questions relating to the mining or sale of coal. He said the regular rates are paid for transportation by its own coal companies, the same rates as are charged for independent coal carried by the company's railroad.

Mr. Truesdale said he frequently had conferences with Mr. Baer, Mr. Thomas and other men interested in the coal roads, and that the coal prices of all were the same to a certain extent.

"We have exchanged circulars," he said, "but there is no arrangement between us."

Counsel for the complainant took up the matter of the Temple Coal and Iron Company agreement. Mr. Truesdale declined to answer any questions as to the formation of the company and the share the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western took in guaranteeing its $50,000,000 of stocks and bonds. He admitted being a director in the Temple Company.

Mr. Truesdale said, answering Mr. Shearn, that following the recent strike, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western carried the coal of the independent operators at the percentage of 65 and 35. He admitted that the tidewater price was $5.

"Did you report to the interstate commerce commission that you were getting $1.75 per ton for transportation?" asked Mr. Shearn.

Mr. Truesdale said he did and counsel argued that the coal was the property of the Delware, Lackawanna & Western not as a railroad, but as a coal company.

Samuel T. Peters of Williams & Peters, sale agents for the Pennsylvania Coal Company, the Hillside Coal and Iron Company and the Susquehanna Coal Company, the last witness of the day, on the advice of Mr. Moot, declined to say what commission his firm gets for handling coal. The hearing was adjourned until May 26.

MADAME SOBRA TELLS OF FAITHLESS LOVER

CHICAGO, May 1.—It looked like the old days of sensational trials to see Judge Tuthill's court room crowded to the doors today with women anxious to catch a glimpse of the parties in the celebrated breach of promise case of Madame Marguerite Sobra for $25,000 against Jacob Franks, president of the Rockford Watch Company and member of the Chicago public library board.

Franks, who is wealthy, is represented by five of the leading attorneys in town. Mme. Sobra, who is quite good looking and a widow, appeared in a very striking costume. She told with tears, laughter and blushes of how the wealthy Franks had wooed and won her heart. She said three dates were set for the wedding and it was postponed each time. She described how Franks held her hands, embraced and kissed her. When he was ill she offered half of her blood to make him well. But he got well without the aid of the Sobra corpuscles and he went into business and money-making and forgot all about his alleged vows.

The cross-examination was so inquisitive that Mme. Sobra had twice to describe in detail the courtship of the elderly lover.

BLAZE AT EDGEWORTH.

Double House and Furniture Destroyed and a Man's Leg Broken.

A double frame house belonging to E. P. Young in Edgeworth and occupied by the families of John McPherson and W. P. Henson, with nearly all of their furniture, was destroyed shortly after noon yesterday. The blaze caught from a defective flue, Mrs. McPherson having an unusually large fire in her cook stove at the time. The total loss was about $3,000, that on the building being covered by insurance, but the furniture was not insured. The Sewickley fire company responded, but was too late to be of any assistance.

In attempting to save the furniture in the second story Henry Hartling of Edgeworth was surrounded by the flames and compelled to jump through the window, breaking his leg in the fall.

CHANGE OF LOCATION.

Albert Frank & Co., General Advertising Agents, Have More Commodious Offices.

NEW YORK, May 1.—(Special.)—Albert Frank & Co., general advertising agents, have removed their offices from the Empire building to the Broad Exchange building, No. 25 Broad street. This change of location was made necessary to obtain more room to transact the steadily increasing volume of business of the company. The new offices occupy a floor space of over 3,000 feet, or nearly twice the area of the old ones. They have been fitted up with all of the latest office facilities and improvements that are essential for the rapid dispatch and accurate handling of business. The filing room has received special attention. In it all leading publications of this and foreign countries will be carefully preserved in a systematic manner, so that, at a moment's notice, any copy will be readily obtainable. The new location is in the heart of the financial district, to the requirements of which Albert Frank & Co. give special attention. It is also easily accessible for the numerous transportation, insurance and other corporations that intrust their advertising to this well-known concern.

It will be remembered that shortly after the death of Albert Frank, the founder of the agency, the surviving partners, James Rascovar and Collin Armstrong, organized the business as a corporation with the first named as president and the last as treasurer. Since then the company has developed its commercial department extensively, and has increased its facilities for placing advertisements in all parts of the world, particularly in Great Britain and the continent of Europe. More recently it has perfected arrangements for newspaper and magazine advertising on the most advantageous terms in South Africa and Australia, more particularly with the view of handling the advertising of manufacturers and exporters who desire to reach those two important sections of the globe.

NOT SCARED MUCH.

Injunction Against Ohio Fuel Supply Company's Purchase Only Temporary.

"The injunction is only temporary and I am confident that it will be dissolved as soon as a hearing can be had," said President George W. Crawford of the Ohio Fuel Supply Company yesterday in regard to the order of court restraining the absorption of the Federal Gas and Fuel Company of Columbus by the Ohio Fuel Supply Company.

"This injunction was obtained by a person working for a competing concern which desires to harass as much as possible the purchase of the company by us," Mr. Crawford said. "At our stockholders' meeting about 90,000 out of something less than 100,000 shares voted in favor of the purchase, while just 10 shares, which had been recently acquired, were held by the person who opposed the plan. About every crime under the sun is charged in the application for the injunction. There is no doubt about the outcome. The hearing was set for May 30, but our lawyers will ask for this to be put forward in order to get the thing out of the way."

One Thousand Miners Idle.

SHAMOKIN, PA., May 1.—The Shamokin Coal company's lease on the Natalie colliery expired last night. The plant was closed down and will remain idle until negotiations for a new lease are reviewed. One thousand men and boys are thrown out of employment indefinitely.

A Total Eclipse.

Any man can produce a total eclipse of the sun, so far as he himself is concerned, by holding a dollar close to his eye. The total eclipse of health is often produced in much the same way, by letting the dollar shut out from view all other things and interests.

A great many people pay for wealth with health and admit at last that they have made a poor bargain. In the chase of the dollar people are too eager to take time to eat regularly or choose proper food, the stomach becomes disordered or diseased, the food eaten ceases to nourish, and physical breakdown comes.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and so enables the strengthening of the body, in the only way by which strength can be obtained, by food properly digested and perfectly assimilated.

"I suffered for four years with pain in my stomach so that at times I couldn't work nor eat," writes Mr. Frank Smith, of Granite, Chaffee Co., Colo. "I wrote to you about my sickness and was told to use your medicine, which I did with good results. I only used four bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and must say that I am entirely cured, and feel like a new man, and I can highly recommend your medicine to any sufferer."

City Treasurer Moore Replies to Controller Walton's Letter on Fees and Advises That Official to Leave Judgment to Court.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Public Ledger Building, PHILADELPHIA, PA., May 1.

The grand jury, in its final report made today, devoted the greater part of its presentment to comment on the prevailing moral condition of the city.

The existence of "speakeasies," policy, gambling and disreputable houses, and the increase of highway robbery are discussed and recommendations made to eradicate the evils. High praise is given to the police authorities for the recent crusade on policy and slot machines. The report says:

"We have had a number of bills presented to us for selling liquor without a license and selling and furnishing it on Sunday. In the majority of the cases it was conclusive to our minds that a flagrant violation of the law had been made, and we indicted the accused.

"In these matters we particularly appeal to our honorable judges to give all such offenders the full limit of the law, as there is nothing, to our minds, in this community which tends to degrade the younger element more than establishments of this kind, together with disorderly houses and policy shops."

City Treasurer Moore replied today to City Controller Walton relative to the fee question. Capt. Walton had written Mr. Moore that he did not believe a treasurer was entitled, by any construction of the law, to fees from the liquor licenses collected for the city. He also informed Mr. Moore that unless some other disposition of the fees were made than a gift to the city, the controller's audit at the end of the this year would find a shortage of $26,670, or the total amount of the fees which Mr. Moore credited to himself and later turned into the treasury. Mr. Moore's letter is as follows:

"I have your favor of April 30, giving me your version of the law relating to the liquor license commissions donated by me to the city of Philadelphia, as was done by the late George D. McCreary, and in full answer thereto inclose a copy of my letter of April 23 to Hon. John Weaver, mayor.

"On reading this letter carefully you will find that I have instituted a practical method of procedure, which, if acted upon in the proper spirit by the proper officials, will bring about a satisfactory and permanent settlement of these disputed questions.

"If you will peruse, to recall to your attention the decision of the supreme court in the Century Dictionary case of the commonwealth against Walton, controller, you will see how unwise and unsafe it is for public officials to assume to settle disputed questions of law in advance of the action of the courts.

Capt. Walton said he had nothing to say at present in reply to Mr. Moore.

Mayor Weaver is preparing a reply to a letter from Mr. Moore, but he had not completed it today.

SIMPLIFIES OLD FIGHT

Robert Black to Become the Son-in-Law of the Man He Has Fought for Many Years Past.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ZANESVILLE, O., May 1.—By Cupid entering the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Van Voorhis of this city, a political contest of long standing may be simplified, redounding to the profit of Congressman Van Voorhis.

As has been told in The Gazette the engagement of Miss Dollie Van Voorhis, daughter of the congressman from this district, to Mr. Robert Black was announced at a luncheon at the Van Voorhis residence last Saturday afternoon. Local and political district history of the past dozen years, when considered in connection with the forthcoming nuptials of Miss Van Voorhis and Mr. Black, is decidedly interesting. Ever since the congressman was elected for his first term his political ambitions have been vigorously but unsuccessfully combatted by an imposing array of young Republicans, under the leadership of Dr. F. C. Brush, surgeon-general on Gov. Nash's staff; S. A. Weller, Walter, Robert and "Bud" Black.

The congressman is enjoying his fifth term, but at each of the last four elections his majority has been materially less than 500, in a district that has a normal Republican majority of 3,500. This indicated one very emphatic fact—that Dr. Brush and the Black boys were gaining strength and were in a position soon to reap a victory that they had been so industriously fighting for—the defeat of Congressman Van Voorhis. No one realized this better than Mr. Van Voorhis, and at the last campaign he came out in a declaration that if nominated for a fifth term he would voluntarily retire from the Fifteenth district congressional politics and give some of his opponents a chance. The declaration was taken seriously and he was not opposed for nomination.

However, during the campaign his forces became badly split up. George Browning deserted him; so did Editor Littick and so did many others who could see the signs that indicated the early control of the district politics in the hands of the Black boys, as they are familiarly termed. Mr. Brush and George Browning were placed in control of the county executive committee and this spring at the beginning of the municipal campaign, Walter Black was made chairman of the city committee. During the winter, too, W. M. Miller, owning a controlling interest in the Van Voorhis newspaper, sold his holdings and the paper passed into the control of the anti-Van Voorhis element, George Browning, himself an aspirant for congressional honors, being president of the new newspaper company.

In fact, from the Black boys' standpoint, things have been coming their way for quite awhile, and they are naturally elated. The Republican newspaper has served editorial notice on Mr. Van Voorhis that he must stand by his declaration to retire, and has demanded a new deal all around.

But romance has crept in and Cupid may again alter the situation. The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Van Voorhis and Mr. Black gives the situation a new complexion. It means the uniting of the Black and Van Voorhis households. It means that Congressman Van Voorhis will be "close enough" to the Black boys to cut an important figure in district politics of the future. They have opposed him consistently, honorably and admirably. The question is, will he be with them or will they be with him in future political deals? Cupid must answer the question—must solve the riddle that so many Zanesville Republicans are trying to solve.

M'KEESPORT CLAIMS TO HAVE LARGEST POLICEMAN IN WORLD—WEIGHT 420 POUNDS

Galloway Neal.

Galloway Neal, weight 420 pounds, of McKeesport, who claims to be the largest policeman in the country, yesterday paced his beat for the first time. He is a personal friend of Mayor George J. F. Falkenstein and Chief of Police Louis E Rotzsch, and has been given one of the most important beats in the city. Officer Neal, minus his uniform, which has not yet been completed, attracted a great deal of attention about the Baltimore & Ohio depot, McKeesport, where he has been stationed, and crowds of interested persons stopped and stared at the huge policeman.

Neal did not appear to mind their stares and received the congratulations of his friends all day. Neal was for two years a heater in the National rolling mill, and a few days ago he was presented with a mace made of shafting, a six-inch star of sheet iron and a Colt's army revolver by his fellow workmen. Neal was rewarded with a position on the police force for his active work in behalf of Mayor Falkenstein. McKeesport's new police force was sworn in yesterday morning by Mayor Falkenstein, and the officers went on duty without uniforms.

SIX SUDDEN DEATHS TO ADD TO THE LIST

Several Accidents in Various Parts of the City That Proved Fatal.

Mrs. E. Price, 50 years old, a tea agent, of No. 133 Fourth avenue, Homestead, dropped dead of heart disease in Eighth avenue, Homestead, last night.

H. W. Semond, 35 years old, was killed in the yards of the Duquesne Steel Company last night at 9 o'clock by being struck by a shifting engine. Semond had been working only three days, and his residence is not known.

Anderson Bruce, 29 years old, colored, of Hillside street, died at the Passavant hospital last night from injuries received by falling from a scaffold while at work in Second avenue during the morning. He was a hod carrier and fell from the scaffold when stepping on the ladder. His skull was fractured and he was injured internally.

J. W. Green, 30 years old, a miner, was fatally injured by a fall of slate in the Cliff mines yesterday afternoon, his death occurring at the West Penn hospital last night at 8 o'clock.

The inquest into the death of James A. Butler, who was found dead by his wife in her home at No. 505 Avery street, Allegheny, on April 9, was concluded yesterday and the jury rendered a verdict of death from heart failure. It was first reported that Butler had committed suicide, but the inquest on April 13 resulted in a verdict similar to that of yesterday. Butler's relatives suspected he had met with foul play and asked Coroner McGeary to reopen the case. The body was exhumed and a post mortem examination was made.

Victor Glufcarren of Washington avenue, Glendale, was killed by a Panhandle train near his home yesterday afternoon.

W. S. Roberts, 47 years old, died yesterday at his home, No. 1512 Main street, Sharpsburg, from a fractured skull, received last Tuesday at Moorhead Bros.' mill, where he was employed as an engineer.

The 7-months-old daughter of William Qualman was found dead in bed at the family home in Sherman street, Millvale, yesterday morning. The child had been suffering from pneumonia and was thought to be recovering.

NOT A LOCAL PLAN.

Pittsburgh Railways Company Not Interested in Proposed Butler Line.

"The project of an electric line between Pittsburgh and Butler is entirely disconnected from the Pittsburgh Railways Company," said President J. D. Callery of that company last evening. Earlier in the week a party including Mr. Callery started on a trip of inspection of a possible line by way of the Butler plank road. All were riding in an automobile. The machine broke down at Sharpsburg and the trip was abandoned.

Mr. Callery said that his trip was made at the request of some gentlemen interested in the project. Butler money principally is back of the plan. How far the project has advanced is not known.

FAMOUS ARTIST KILLED BY FALLING DOWN SHAFT

J. Wells Champney of New York Meets With Mishap That Ends His Career.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, May 1.—J. Wells Champney, one of America's best known artists, was killed this afternoon by falling from the fourth floor to the basement through an elevator shaft at No. 5 West Thirty-first street. He was a member of the Camera club and was going to its new quarters at that address. He was still alive when an ambulance arrived from the New York hospital, but died while being attended by the surgeon.

The painter's skull was crushed and physicians said death had been instantaneous.

There being but one elevator, it is used for freight and passengers. There was a table on top of the elevator car, which jammed the elevator between the fourth and fifth floors. Mr. Champney insisted that the door be opened so that he could step down to the fourth floor, which was about three feet below the elevator. He failed to obtain a foothold on the fourth floor and slipped and fell down the shaft.

Mr. Champney was a member of several of the local art societies and a constant exhibitor. Of late he has confined himself chiefly to pastel reproductions of masterpieces of the European galleries and had planned a trip in this connection to Europe for the coming summer. His wife, Lizzie W. Champney, is also well known as a writer of children's books.

FAVOR BUYING THE SITE.

Chamber of Commerce Will Consider the Technical School Question.

A large attendance is expected at the meeting of the chamber of commerce Monday at which resolutions will be presented protesting against the ordinance recently introduced into city councils providing for condemnation proceedings to acquire the Penn-Magee site favored by Mr. Carnegie, and asking for the passage of an ordinance to purchase the property outright for $350,000, for which the land is offered to the city. The majority of the members of the chamber likely will vote for the resolutions.

After President A. J. Logan and Secretary George H. Anderson have returned from St. Louis a meeting of the chamber will be held to hear the report of the committee on Greater Pittsburgh. The report will show that instructions have been followed, and a motion will be made continuing the committee and enlarging it.

Three Injured in Wreck.

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—With the danger block set against it a Panhandle passenger train on the Little Miami division was ditched today. Baggageman John Gallagher of Xenia suffered a fracture of the left arm. James Moran of Cincinnati, fireman, was injured internally. Charles Keck, engineer, also of Cincinnati, was cut in the leg.

M'MAHON SLAIN IN DOORWAY OF HOME

Harlem Prize Fighter Under Arrest Charged With the Crime.

ADMITS HAVING FIGHT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, May 1.

Kicked or beaten to death, James McMahon, a brother of Daniel F. McMahon, chairman of the Tammany Hall executive committee, was found dead in the vestibule of the apartment house at No. 256 West One Hundred and Fifty-third street, in which he lived, early today. Six hours later the police had in custody Daniel Kennedy, known in Harlem as a prize fighter of small repute, charged with committing the murder.

Kennedy has admitted to the police, they say, that he struck the man and knocked him down, but it was at least 100 feet from the vestibule, while his clothing, his hands and his shoes from their status, the police affirm, indicate plainly that he could only have been so stained in the vestibule, where the assault took place. Supplementing this is the testimony of the prisoner's aged mother, who admits that her son returned home intoxicated about 5 o'clock this morning, shedding tears, and on inquiry said that he had been compelled to "do up a man." Robbery was not the motive, all declare, for McMahon's watch, chain and money were untouched.

James E. McMahon was 44 years old and lived with his married sister, Mrs. Paul Hines. He was unmarried and when Tammany was last in power was a confidential clerk in the building department to James Brady. Since then he had done nothing, and was said to have saved considerable money and had made more speculating in real estate. McMahon left his home soon after 8 o'clock Thursday evening and went to a saloon at the Eighth avenue corner. He was well acquainted with James Charlton, one of the proprietors, and remained there until about 1 o'clock.

Kennedy was arraigned in the Harlem court and Magistrate Flammer remanded him until tomorrow morning.

WASHINGTON, May 1. — (Special.) — Daniel F. McMahon, brother of James F. McMahon, who was murdered in New York today, is at the Arlington hotel with his bride. When he was this afternoon shown a dispatch from New York containing a brief account of the finding of his brother's body with his skull crushed in, he said he did not believe it, that none of his friends in New York had notified him, as they naturally would, and that until he was sure the news was correct he would not let it interfere with his honeymoon.

TWENTY MORE MINISTERS.

Senior Class of Western Theological Seminary to Graduate.

The coming week will be celebrated by the students of the Western Theological seminary as graduating week. The exercises will begin tomorrow with senior communion at the Seminary chapel at 3 o'clock. The oral examinations will be held May 4, 5 and 6 by the examining committee of the board of directors of the seminary, of which Judge W. P. Potter of the supreme court is chairman. D., will be presented to the seminary by the class after this address. Dr. Hill was president of the institution for many years and a member of the board of directors from 1847 to 1895.

The graduating exercises will be held in the North Presbyterian church, Lincoln and Grant avenues, Allegheny, Thursday, May 7, at 8 p. m. The annual address will be made by the Rev. W. O. Thompson, president of Ohio State University. Frank Fidgley won the $400 prize and G. C. Fischer won the $120 prize, which are offered by the board of directors and paid in three annual installments.

A Hospital Case

There was a hurry call for the ambulance of the City Hospital. In the course of a few moments a very sick woman was brought in on a stretcher—she was pale as death and evidently suffering keen agony. There was a hasty examination and consultation, and in less than a quarter of an hour the poor creature was on the operating table to undergo an operation for ovaritis.

The above is an accurate account of an incident which occured in New York recently; the young woman in question had warnings enough of her dangerous condition in the terrible pains and burning sensation low down in her left side. She had no one to advise her, and she suffered torture until it was too late for anything to save her life.

Women should remember that if they do not care to tell a doctor their troubles, they should be willing to tell them to a woman, who stands ever ready to advise and help them. Again we state that Mrs. Pinkham's advice is freely and confidentially given to every one who asks for it. Address, Lynn, Mass.

The following letters prove beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the power to cure, and does cure thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries, womb, and all other derangements of the female organism.

MRS. OTTOSON SAVED FROM A SURGICAL OPERATION.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot thank you enough for what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. If it had not been for your medicine, I think I would have died.

"I will tell you how I suffered. I could hardly walk, was unable to sleep or eat. Menstruation was irregular. At last I had to stay in my bed, and flowed so badly that they sent for a doctor, who said I had inflammation of the ovaries, and must go through an operation, as no medicine could help me, but I could not do that.

"I received a little book of yours, and after reading it I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am now a well woman. I shall praise your medicine as long as I live, and also recommend the same to any one suffering as I was."—MRS. MINNIE OTTOSON, Otho, Iowa. (June 9, 1901.)

Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that these thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the great Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills.

Those women who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred thousand times, for they get what they want—a cure. Moral—Stick to the medicine that you know is Best. Write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice.

INFLAMMATION OF THE OVARIES CURED WITHOUT THE KNIFE.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to express my gratitude for the restored health and happiness Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought into my life.

"I had suffered for three years with terrible pains at the time of menstruation, and did not know what the trouble was until the doctor pronounced it inflammation of the ovaries, and proposed an operation.

"I felt so weak and sick that I felt sure I could not survive the ordeal, and so I told him that I would not undergo it. The following week I read an advertisement in the paper of your Vegetable Compound in such an emergency, and so I decided to try it. Great was my joy to find that I actually improved after taking two bottles, so I kept taking it for ten weeks, and at the end of that time I was cured. I had gained eighteen pounds and was in excellent health, and am now.

"You surely deserve great success, and you have my very best wishes."—MISS ALICE BAILEY, 50 North Boulevard, Atlanta, Ga., Treasurer St. Francis Benevolent Association.

First National Bank at Sheradenville Becomes New State Depository.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, May 1.—State Treasurer Harris' statement for April shows a balance of $10,095,204 65 in the general fund. This will enable the treasurer to pay the school districts their share of the $5,800,000 fund promptly. The appropriation becomes due the first Monday of June and Harris expects to pay all the districts during the summer. The money keeps pouring into the treasurer so rapidly that he is constantly increasing the number of state depositories, which now number 107 banks and trust companies. The latest institution to receive a state deposit is the First National bank of Sheridansville, in which there has been placed $100,000 of public funds.

Harris may have to withdraw the funds from some of the depositories after June 1, when the appropriations carried by the general appropriation bill in Gov. Pennypacker's hands fall due. He will also have to pay out during the summer $1,000,000 to the contractors for the new state capitol and several hundred thousand dollars for the new bridges being built by the state.

The meeting was presided over by Fred Kiefer, and addressed by Attorney Andrew S. Miller on "Flowers of the Bermudas," and by the Rev. N. H. Holmes, on "Beautifying the Town." YALE MEN ENRICHED.

$32,000,000 Will Be Divided Among Three Students of Great University.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., May 1.—(Special.)—Yale men will receive the bulk of the $32,000,000 estate left by the will of Warren B. Smith, the Yonkers carpet manufacturer, to his sister, Mrs. W. F. Cochrane. Gifford A. Cochrane, the youngest son of Mrs. Cochrane, is a senior. He was slapped for Wolf's Head at the last tap day.

His uncle's will makes him the wealthiest undergraduate in the university. Few Yale alumni are richer. His two brothers, who will receive part of the Cochrane millions, are Alexander Smith Cochrane, 1896, and William F. Cochrane, 1898. On the day after his graduation Alexander Cochrane went in his father's factory at the bottom of the ladder and has learned the business throughout. Mrs. W. F. Cochrane, mother of the three Yale men, is one of the most liberal donors to the Yale Y. M. C. A.

SCHILLING BROS.' STATEMENT

To the Editor of The Gazette:

The unusual statements in the advertisements we have published for Mi-o-na have led some people to ask if we really meant all that we said in regard to this preparation. The best reply we can make is to publish over our signature a statement of what Mi-o-na will do and the unusual terms under which we are selling it.

1. Nine-tenths of all sickness is caused by some kind of indigestion. As Mi-o-na cures indigestion in any form and restores healthful action to the whole digestive tract, it will cure nearly every case of poor health.

2. The dyspeptic is ordinarily thin and emaciated, with sallow complexion, sunken cheeks and flabby flesh. Mi-o-na will cure dyspepsia and those who use it will find every part of the body filling out with firm, solid flesh, so that all the outlines become plump and pleasing.

3. The benefit from Mi-o-na is not merely temporary. This remedy aids digestion and restores natural and healthy action to the digestive organs so that a permanent cure results.

4. The strongest evidence we can give of our faith in Mi-o-na is our personal agreement to return the money if it does not give satisfaction. Although we have sold hundreds of packages under this guarantee, we only one out of every hundred has asked to have the money returned. We are always ready to refund the price of Mi-o-na to anyone who is not satisfied with it.

Respectfully yours,

SCHILLING BROS. CO.,

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Will Spend $1,000,000 for Rolling Stock

Col. James M. Schoonmaker, vice president and general manager of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, returned home yesterday afternoon from a several days' trip to New York. While there he conferred with President W. H. Newman and other officials on matters pertaining to the local railroad improvements. As has been published in The Gazette, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie stockholders will be asked to vote an increase of $2,000,000. This is to be used in making the road as good as can be made.

Col. Schoonmaker said yesterday:

"Statistics show that the principal economical method of operating a railroad is reducing train mileage. Stronger engines and cars with increased capacity are important factors in reducing operating expenses and handling an increased traffic. Realizing this, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad has decided to spend $1,000,000 for new equipment and $1,000,000 to be put in 'plant,' which means increasing trackage, building and rebuilding stations, water tanks, coaling stations and similar facilities necessary in the operation of a railroad.

"The $4,000,000 voted for by the stockholders last year has about all been spent. Twenty-five new engines are about to be delivered, and cars of all kinds are being turned over to the company. The freight originating along the lines of the company is still on the increase, and it is absolutely necessary that more facilities be provided in order to take care of it. The $2,000,000 will be spent as required to keep the railroad in a position to handle all the traffic offered.

"In 1893 the average tonnage per train mile was 465, while last year it was 791. This proves that heavier equipment is more profitable, and shows that money expended for improved equipment is a good investment."

Since the company was granted the additional $4,000,000 it has purchased several hundred cars, nearly 100 locomotives, has equipped the road with an automatic switch and signal system, has built automatic coaling stations, is erecting water filtering stations, has built repair shops at several places along its line, added several miles of third and fourth track, built yards at McKees Rocks and at Haselton, extended its Monongahela division from Fayette City to Brownsville, jointly with the Pennsylvania is building a line to the Klondike regions, built the South Side terminal station and several others along the road, and made many other improvements that have been a factor in making the railroad the best paying one in the country.

RAILROADS LOSE CASE.

Supreme Court of Michigan Overrules Action of State Board of Assessors.

LANSING, MICH., May 1.—The supreme court has knocked out the action of the state board of assessors in fixing the average rate of taxation of the state in assessing railroad property. The court holds that the power of the state assessor in this connection is purely ministerial. The board is ordered to reconvene and determine the average rate from the assessment of the local assessors. This will materially increase the average rate and will increase by about $600,000 the aggregate taxes levied against railroad companies.

Fight Over a Franchise.

Attorney-General Carson has granted the petition of the Pennsylvania, Monongahela & Southern railroad company for a writ of quo warranto against the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railway company, and selected Allegheny county as the place in which the writ shall be prosecuted. This matter has been pending for some time. There are involved nine miles of franchise along the west bank of the Monongahela river in Washington county, from West Brownsville to Millsboro, which it is said the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railway company has forfeited by disuse, having so far back as 1871 made a location of route, but never used it. The Pennsylvania, Monongahela & Southern, recently chartered, has in part made the same location and claims the route.

Rolling Stock Burned.

The narrow gauge railroad of the Pittsburgh & Western suffered great loss from the forest fires. This line runs through a timber country and reports received at the general office of the Baltimore & Ohio at Water street, yesterday afternoon, gave details of the fire along that line. The report stated that several cars had been burned and considerable track damaged.

Elevated Tracks Ready.

Tomorrow is the day set for placing into operation the elevated road of the Ft. Wayne through Allegheny. The following statement was given out yesterday: "After the passage of trains 2,s10, 171 and 191 on Sunday, May 3, over the main line between the west end of bridge No. 1 and Marion avenue, all surface track will be abandoned and traffic will be handled over tracks Nos. 1 and 2 on the elevated structure. Simultaneous with this change a connection will be made between the elevated Ft. Wayne tracks and the low-grade West Penn tracks by the erection of a trestle, eliminating the grade crossings at Anderson and Madison avenues."

RAILROAD NOTES.

J. W. Patterson, president of the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western, returned yesterday from a business trip to New York.

The Baltimore & Ohio had a train of immigrants yesterday. Of the 800 passengers brought to this city only 350 went West.

P. A. Auer, traveling passenger agent for the Rock Island in Pittsburgh, has been made general agent for the company in Pittsburg, succeeding H. S. Hay, who has been made general agent at St. Louis. I. F. Powers will succeed Mr. Auer as traveling passenger agent in Pittsburgh.

CONVICT'S HOPE GONE, HE COMMITS SUICIDE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, May 1.—Penning a letter of hate to a supposed enemy and one of love and warning to Mollie Mott, his wife, James Kennedy shot and killed himself at his mother's home, 2360 Lowe avenue, today. Only through the rough note which Mollie Mott clutched in her hand today did it become known that she was Kennedy's wife. While she had been surrounded by criminals, leading a life of fear, the husband in his cell at the Joliet penitentiary was true to her, hoping they might be together again after his release. He was freed yesterday after a three-year term and hurried to Chicago, only to learn that Mollie was in the county jail held for shooting Fred Hart in front of a saloon in March. Today she tossed on a cot in her cell, ill and weeping—her tiger-like instinct gone. The loss of her husband has made ill the heroine of many a battle with the police. The note reproached her and advised her to lead a better life.

Mollie Mott is the most notorious woman criminal Chicago ever produced. A great part of her life has been passed in prison. She has been the companion of the most desperate men and aided them in their daring feats of evil. On one occasion she loaded the revolvers in a barricaded room while a criminal kept the police at bay two hours.

MAYOR WYMAN WAS BUSY.

Alleghenian Had Long Talk With Recorder O'Neil—Northside Appointments.

The signing of the Greater Pittsburgh bill and the talk of harmony in Allegheny county have caused Mayor Wyman to become busy. While a horde of officehunters yesterday waited in his reception room he had a long conference with County Recorder J. Denny O'Neil of McKeesport. As both Wyman and O'Neil were at the harmony conference Thursday the meeting of the two is significant of Wyman's interest in the plan either to oppose or promote harmony in the county.

After the conference neither would say what had been talked about. The talk is said by some of Wyman's friends to have been relative to the possibility of early annexation to Pittsburgh of both Allegheny and McKeesport. Wyman is opposed to the annexation of Allegheny while he holds office, and it was hinted yesterday that O'Neil is acting as the emissary of Thomas S. Bigelow, and that Wyman is to be offered the nomination either for sheriff or prothonotary next fall if he does not oppose the Greater Pittsburgh scheme.

William Cunningham, Second ward, watchman on Monument hill; G. F. Stoeher, Third ward, inspector of engineering and surveys; Edward Fisher, Third ward, fireman in the water department; Julius Kraus, Third ward, laborer.

Controller Brown yesterday paid Marshall N. White for services as message clerk to select council. George Schad, the man elected by select council to this position, called at the controller's office, but was told by Brown that, acting on advice of the city solicitor, he had paid White, who had been doing the work. John Calhoun, employed in the bureau of engineers, was discharged yesterday. He will go to Butte, Mont., where he will play ball this sason.

THE THREE RIVERS.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, May 1.—River 23.1 feet and falling. All packets in and out on time, with good business. E. P. Wilson, secretary and general manager of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, tendered his resignation today to President John L. Vance at a meeting of the executive finance committee. It was accepted. The F. M. Phell passed up for Pittsburgh. Capt. Christian, commander of the snagboat E. A. Woodruff, sends out the following: "The United States snagboat E. A. Woodruff will on next Wednesday go into commission for the removal of obstructions from the Ohio river. All persons interested in navigation on the Ohio river, having knowledge of the location of river obstructions are kindly requested to communicate the same either to Col. G. J. Lydecker, corps of engineer, U. S. A., or to Capt. W. H. Christian, master of the snagboat E. A. Woodruff, room 405 custom house, Cincinnati."

LOUISVILLE—River is at a stand, with 6 feet 11 inches on the falls, 9 feet in the canal and 21 feet 5 inches at the foot of the locks. The Iron Age and tow passed up from Memphis. There was an exciting half hour on the falls this afternoon when the barge boat Fulton and the ferryboat Sunshine were in collision. The Fulton, with six empty barges, was backing up stream in the harbor and crashed into the ferry. The life-saving crew and several boats in the harbor went to the rescue. Both boats were disabled and the Fulton lost her tow, which went over the falls, now barely navigable. The Transit was sent after them. The disabled boats were towed to Jeffersonville.

LOW WATER DELAYS BOATS.

Packets and Towboats Have Trouble in the Present Stage.

The water in the harbor has fallen below three feet, and unless rain comes soon navigation on the Ohio will be stopped. The Greenwood arrived yesterday and had considerable trouble to get over the shallow places coming up. The R. L. Aubrey went aground below Sewickley yesterday, and the combined efforts of the steamers H. W. Thomas and Robert Taylor were unable to get her off. Several steamers are still tied up at Sewickley unable to get in.

ARRIVAL.
Greenwood, Greene, Charleston.
DEPARTURE.
Greenwood, Greene, Charleston.

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 5 feet, and the river was falling.

NEWS OF THE RIVERS.

The big steamer Sprague passed Memphis yesterday coming up with a large tow of empties.

Capt. John Phillips, formerly captain of the City of Pittsburgh, arrived from California yesterday.

The W. W. O'Neil left Louisville yesterday for New Orleans with a tow of 21 boats, 32 barges and three flats.

The Lorena arrived several hours late last night. She was delayed for 12 hours by the mud at the mouth of the Muskingum river.

The Marine Engineers' Benevolent association will meet this afternoon in their rooms in Water street at 2 o'clock. Important business will be discussed.

A hearing was held yesterday before Local Inspectors Williams and Atkinson on the collision of the Bertha and W. C. Jutte, which occurred on the Monongahela River April 19.

Capt. John C. Silvey of New York, grand captain of the American Association of Masters and Pilots, and the grand captain's clerk, Capt. E. F. Perkins of Camden, N. J., will visit the local harbor in the near future.

Harbor No. 26 will hold a regular meeting this morning at 9:30 o'clock at their rooms, No. 8 Wood street. The matter of having the government snagboat Woodruff laid up during the winter at Pittsburgh instead of Cincinnati will be discussed.

Capt. J. M. Hammitt of Marietta, builder of the S. E. Goucher, is in town. He has purchased a home at Marietta and will remove his family here. Capt. Hammitt says he is building another boat, an exact duplicate of the new Goucher. It has not been sold yet.

PITTSBURGH CONSOLIDATED MINING, MILLING & TUNNEL COMPANY.

In addition to the "Dover" and "Brighton" mines of the Consolidated Company, at Idaho Springs, Clear Creek county, Colorado, and which the Company have been developing on an extensive scale for the past year, they have recently acquired under a long time royalty working lease the famous "GOLD DIRT" property, which is known throughout all Colorado as one of the richest mines in Gilpin county. It is located near Rollinsville on the line of the Denver, Northwestern & Pacific Railroad, about 40 miles from Denver. These mines were first worked in 1860, and from Frank Fossett's history of Colorado we find that the "GOLD DIRT" produced during 1863 and 1864 $930,000, most of this production being from the surface workings. A smelter at this time built by the owners adjoining the mines at a cost of $125,000 did not properly treat the ore so as to save the values. The smelter was then torn down and moved away, which got the owners into litigation, thereby tying up the property for all these years, until recently, when by foreclosure of a mortgage it came into the hands of Central City (Colorado) bankers. During the many years in which it was tied up by litigation it was worked more or less by individual tributers, increasing the total production to date to about $2,000,000. The Company have already commenced to vigorously push the further development of these mines. The shaft is now sunk to a depth of 500 feet, and they will at once sink it an additional 200 feet, which will open up enormous bodies of ore that have already been proven as being continuous at the fourth and fifth levels. The CONSOLIDATED COMPANY now proposes to make these wonderfully rich mines produce for their stockholders the millions of dollars which the original owners might have had had they not gotten into litigation and tied up the property. During the month of February the tributers who were then working in the "GOLD DIRT" made a shipment from the fourth level to the Denver smelting works, which returned values of $92.60 per ton after paying all hauling and smelting charges. The stock of the Company has advanced 100 per cent during the past six months, and is now selling freely at 50 cents per share and without doubt will sell for double this price during the next few months. They will be pleased to mail their new booklet to any one asking for it, and in this way you can learn all about this home Company, which is controlled and managed by Pittsburgh Bankers and Business Men. Their office is 1103 in the Bank for Savings Building, corner of Fourth Avenue and Smithfield Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

STOCK TRADING DROPS TO MINIMUM

Dullest Day of the Year on the New York Stock Exchange—Strong Rally in Electric the Local Feature.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

Yesterday was the dullest day of the year on the New York stock exchange, the total transactions reaching only 220,800 shares. Of this total 136,800 shares were handled during the morning session, and the stagnation of the afternoon may be inferred. There was no London market and Wall street therefore took the initiative in establishing prices. The opening was firm, and traders seemed to have entirely recovered from the effects of the absurd rumor of the day before that the Pennsylvania dividend might be reduced. The directors of the company met as soon and declared the usual 3 per cent semi-annual, and the stock recovered to 97¼, the high price of Thursday. Then the rumor mongers on the bull side tried their hands at manufacturing sentiment, and were moderately successful. A wager of $500 was offered on the stock exchange that the next dividend on Missouri Pacific would be at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, and there were confident predictions as to the early future of the Erie and Readings. The tone of the market was generally firm, but after the recovery in prices trading became stagnant. The activity and strength in wheat was regarded as reflecting the position of shorts on the May option, and not the effect that might possibly follow the unseasonably low temperatures in the winter wheat belt. The entire railway list averaged an advance of about 1 per cent, and closed steady with a substantial part of the gain retained. There was a little activity in Metropolitan, and a revival of a rumor that the Interurban Company was negotiating for control of Brooklyn Rapid Transit helped to sustain that stock, but later in the day interest in this group also died out. Amalgamated Copper sold off on the further decline in the metal in the London market, but it subsequently recovered the loss. The steel stocks were dull but steady. The market did not take note of the labor news, probably for the reason that the May day strikes were less numerous and important than feared.

The continued ease in the money market was one of the most gratifying features from the bull standpoint. At no time did the rate get above 3 per cent for call loans, and offerings of time money at 4@4½ per cent were reported as liberal. That these rates should prevail on the first day of the month, when interest and dividend disbursements must be provided for, is cited as evidence that the ease in the money market is real and not manipulated. The banks had a credit at the clearing house of $1,255,788, which more than wiped out the gain of the subtreasury during the earlier part of the week. It is estimated that the total gain for the banks this week has approximated $4,500,000, which justifies the expectations of a favorable bank statement today. At the corresponding time a week ago there was an increase of $10,768,900 in loans, and a decrease of about $2,000,000 in surplus reserve, the latter standing at $7,500,000. Estimates yesterday placed the probable gain in surplus in today's statement at $1,000,000, and if this should be realized the banks would have a total surplus of about $12,000,000 a very comfortable sum. It cannot be pointed out too frequently, however, that the general money market is in no position to sustain active speculation. While the total loans of the associated banks of New York do not vary much from the totals for the corresponding period in 1902 and 1901, the loans of the national banks of the entire country are $230,000,000 larger than they were a year ago and $422,000,000 larger than they were two years ago. During May and June our exports of breadstuffs should naturally fall off, owing to the fact that consumers in the United Kingdom will be disposed to buy only for immediate requirements until the duty comes off grain and flour July 1. If the eastern money market remains easy, gold exports during May would not be unlikely. Perhaps it is a recognition of the situation that is responsible for the extreme dullness in the stock market.

The strongest and most active stock in the local market yesterday was Westinghouse Electric. The extreme recovery amounted to 5 points, the stock advancing to 102¾, the final sale being at 102½. The extent and rapidity of the rally led to the conclusion that there must have been a considerable short interest in the stock, and at no time during the day were the offerings large. Another factor was the action taken by the employees in one of the departments of the big plant in deferring a strike. Westinghouse Air-brake sympathized with the strength of the leader and advanced to 165, closing firm at 163½ bid. The dealings in this stock are almost wholly of an investment character, and the execution of orders on either side of the market causes wider fluctuations than formerly, when most of the active commission houses were carrying considerable lines of the stock on margin and the trading was larger. The only other active stock was Pittsburgh Coal common, which sold to the extent of 1,460 shares at 29@29¼, closing nominally unchanged. The preferred stock was also unchanged at 88. Ohio Fuel Supply was listed on the exchange yesterday and for the first time was granted official quotations, the sales amounting to 200 shares at 45@45¼. The company this week increased its capital stock, and in its report to the stock exchange states that it has no bonds of any kind and that its surplus exceeds all indebtedness by $216,179. The object of the increased capital is the purchase of the Federal Gas Company of Columbus and the construction of a new pipe line to its gas field. There were no dealings in Philadelphia Company or the old stock of the Manufacturers Light and Heat, but the new issue of the latter sold at 42¾@43, equivalent to 129 for the old stock, which on Thursday sold at 125. Trading in the steel stocks was lighter than at any previous time this week, and prices fluctuated only the smallest fraction.

Bank and trust stocks were quiet. The only important change was a decline of 5 points in American Exchange and Trust, which sold at 169, and an advance of 5 points in Duquesne National bank, a small lot of which sold at 290. Equitable Trust sold at 180 and 182, closing at 182 bid. Real Estate Trust sold at 316 and advanced to 317 bid at the close. Iron City Trust sold at 162@162½, closing at a net decline of 8 per cent. Small lots of Federal National bank sold at 178½@179. There were no transactions in either American or Colonial Trust. The former closed at 321@330 and the latter at 640@645. In the bond list Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Connellsville 5s sold at 98, a decline of ½ per cent.

PITTSBURGH STOCKS.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The advance in Westinghouse Electric second preferred yesterday to 102¾, was equivalent to a rally of 89 a share since Wednesday, when the stock sold at 85½, dividend on. Among traders the impression prevailed that the quick recovery, although it was ostensibly based upon the action of employes in the department deciding not to strike, it would not be unnatural if a short interest had accumulated in the stock. Owing to the depression that has prevailed for so long a time in industrials generally, and to the fact that nearly all of the preferred stocks of the more speculative companies are quoted at a more or less heavy discount, the speculative trader has applied the test of comparison to Electric, and has logically come to the conclusion that, based upon yield and prospects, the stock is above the parity of all others of its class in the local market.

There were no sales of Crucible Steel common yesterday and only 810 shares of the preferred changed hands at unchanged prices. United States Steel was also very dull on the local board, 50 shares of the common and 100 shares of the preferred constituting the day's business.

An initial sale of Braddock National Bank was made at 250 on the local exchange yesterday.

The activity in Equitable Trust subsided yesterday and the stock ranged between 180 and 182. According to street gossip, inside interests are trying to obtain options on a control at $190 a share, but definite information on the subject is lacking.

In reference to the brief authorized statement in this column yesterday that J. A. Langfitt was not in any way connected with the Guardian Trust Company, W. E. Hildebrand of the company informs The Gazette that the minutes of the company show that Mr. Langfitt attended the meeting for organization and was elected vice president and general counsel.

The Iron City National Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent.

The stock of the Ohio Fuel Supply Company was listed on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday. The company was incorporated in May, 1902, under Ohio laws. It has a paid up capital of $2,485,475, and 214,525 stock remains in the treasury. The par value of the shares of the stock is $25 a share. At a special meeting of the stockholders held in Zanesville on April 29 the capital was increased to $4,000,000 for the purpose of acquiring the property of the Federal Gas and Fuel Company of Columbus, for the building of a 12-inch line from Columbus to the gas fields at Utica, and for other field and city developments. The company has no bonds, and of the $121,315 73 debt, $100,000 represents money borrowed on March 29, 1903, to make preliminary payment on account of the purchase of the Federal company, and the surplus over all indebtedness is reported at $216,179 98. The company supplies gas to consumers in 15 towns and villages in Ohio. The officers are: E. W. Clark, president; F. W. Crawford, first vice president; J. M. Garrard, second vice president and general manager; H. C. Reeser, secretary and treasurer. These gentlemen and M. Jacobs, E. H. Crawford, David Iseman and E. M. Trent constitute the board of directors. The company is paying quarterly dividends of 2 per cent.

Reliance Life Insurance was quoted at 300 bid, 350 asked.

South Side Trust was quoted at 113 bid. Colonial Trust closed at 640 bid, 645 asked.

Directors of the St. Louis & San Francisco declared the regular dividend of 1 per cent on second preferred, payable June 1.

The net earnings of Louisville & Nashville for March increased $229,792.

The Pennsylvania railroad dividend is payable May 29 to stock of record May 5.

There was a sale on the local board yesterday of 100 shares of Gulfey Oil at 29.

Delaware & Hudson was the feature of the market, advancing 5% a share, justified by the earnings and concentration of the stock and a prospective deal.

EXCHANGE TO DEAL IN OIL AND MINING STOCKS

It Will Handle Several Classes of Securities Not Listed by the Present Institution. Seats Are All Sold.

A new stock exchange has been organized and application made for a charter for the Pittsburgh Industrial exchange. It will differ materially from the Pittsburgh Stock exchange and will not in any sense be a competitor, in that only oil, mining and industrial stocks not at present listed on the old exchange will be handled. No securities listed on the stock exchange will be dealt in without the latter's express permission.

Since the oil exchange was discontinued some years ago there has been no center for the large amount of business transacted daily in Fourth avenue, and of late years mining stocks have been unusually active.

The new exchange will be on the third floor of the Magee building, Fourth avenue, and will be open for the transaction of business as soon as some necessary alterations have been made. By July 1 it is expected everything will be running smoothly.

The membership is limited to 80 seats, par value $100 each, and it is reported that these have already been subscribed for.

The officers are: Eli Edmundson, Jr., furniture dealer, president; F. P. Gabler, broker; Robert H. Marshall, cashier of the Mortgage Banking Company, treasurer; F. F. Wakefield, who organized the oil exchanges in Cleveland and Buffalo, secretary, and E. M. Whipps, counsel. The board of directors is composed of the foregoing officers, S. W. Emmens, a local oil operator, and P. H. Jordan, a capitalist of Cleveland.

APRIL BROKE ALL RECORDS IN REALTY

Nearly $9,000,000 Worth of Property Changed Hands.

$4,124,450 FOR 35 DEALS

Seventh Street Lots Bought for $43,000—Three Penn Avenue Sales—Greater Pittsburgh Real Estate Company Started.

The realty record for April is well calculated to make Pittsburgh's realty market even more of a surprise to other cities than it has been for the past two years. In the face of the periodical lull that always follows the close of the renting season, the absence of many large investors and the "spring fever" which has been a drawback to active operations, the month rolled up a total of 822 transactions, amounting to $8,587,100, as shown in the office of the registrar of deeds—nearly twice the amount of business recorded in any other April of the city's history. The table given below shows the comparison for the past four Aprils:

1902, 665 transactions..... 4,110,500
1903, 822 transactions..... 8,587,100

March of this year was regarded as a phenomenal month, her record being 921 transactions, aggregating $7,020,200. But the conditions for realty deals are considered much more favorable in March than in April, so that the record of the last month is still more a cause for comment. As the total of last year's transactions was only about $5,000,000, or an average of $4,583,333 a month, it is evident that if the present pace is maintained this year will go far ahead of any year in Pittsburgh's history.

BIG DEALS CAUSE SURPRISE.

The most remarkable thing about the April record is the bulk of the large transactions. During the month 35 sales were made, each of over $50,000, the total of which was $4,124,450, or $117,840 each. The general impression, borne out by the statements of brokers themselves, has been that the market has been an unusually dull one, and the total of the month is striking proof that there is "nothing the matter with Pittsburgh real estate." The report is still more remarkable when compared with the activity, or rather, lack of activity, in real estate in other cities of Pittsburgh's class. Judging from the published reports of real estate deals in these cities, they have experienced a quiet April, as did Pittsburgh the month, with the exception of suburban property. The number of large deals is the more to be wondered at, too, from the fact that in no month for years has the stock market commanded a greater share of the capitalists' attention. The realty situation here is ably summed up by the remark of an eastern broker of prominence who visited the city last week and had this to say: "The investments now being made in real estate in your city are the wonder of the country. When men of national reputation as financiers turn their buying to large blocks of city real estate, as they have done in Pittsburgh, it is convincing proof that such property is a good investment for any solid business man. When large plots of property in the very heart of your city are being taken out of the market by railroads and business interests, there is no possibility of prices receding, although in case of a panic there may be a season of slow sales. In Pittsburgh everything turns to the advantage of the investor. Your brokers are aggressive, your properties safe and your business interests of such magnitude as to preclude the possibility of a dull town."

Through the agency of Charles Crosby two more properties in Seventh street have been sold for $43,000, the buyers being Wilbur Shenk and F. F. Nicola. The properties are both situated on the east side of the street a short distance below Penn avenue. The Aul lot, 24x60 feet, was sold for $25,000 and the Mercer property, 16x65 feet, brought $18,000. Both lots are improved with brick buildings occupied as stores. These purchases, with the Moffitt property, which the same parties bought last week for $18,000, give Messrs. Shenk and Nicola 100 feet of frontage on the east side of the street extending from the Logan-Gregg building to the alley. With the exception of a small notch the block has a depth of about 100 feet, making a very desirable plot for warehouse or business purposes.

The properties at Nos. 2839-2843 Penn avenue have been sold through C. J. Pedder & Co. for $26,000. They comprise a lot 48x100 feet extending back to Mulberry alley, and are occupied by a three-story brick building known as the Hotel Grant. They formerly belonged to Lawrence M. Heil, the wholesale tobacconist, and the purchaser is Gottlieb Schwarzwoelder, proprietor of the hotel.

Another Penn avenue deal announced yesterday was the sale of the property at No. 1207, by certain heirs of the estate of Mary A. Hamilton to C. C. Hamilton through Estep & Co. The lot measures 16.8x100 feet and is improved with a two-story brick building. Mr. Hamilton had hardly got title to the property until he sold it to Sachs & Co., through the Thompson Vowinckel Company, for $16,886.

NEW COMPANY LAUNCHED.

The Greater Pittsburgh Real Estate Company received its charter yesterday and will open for business at once on the sixth floor of the Arrott building. The nucleus of the new company is the real estate firm of W. J. Stewart & Co., which is known chiefly through its successful handling of the Crafton Heights allotment. The company has a paid up capital of $25,000, and the following officers: President, William L. Beatty; treasurer, J. D. Riley; secretary and general manager, W. J. Stewart. Besides these men the board of directors includes W. J. Stewart, Casper Peppel, J. D. Sealor, August Flock, Homer Castle, Albert Sherman and Jere Wright. The company will do a general real estate, mortgage and insurance business and pay special attention to the marketing of suburban properties. Considerable amount of building will be done later on.

Application has also been made for a charter for the Fifth Avenue Realty Company, the members of which have been operating extensively in outer Fifth avenue for some time. The incorporators are Peter Lazear, Isador Goldstein, Julius Stein, Louis Gratz and Charles F. Sachs. The company, whose offices have not yet been announced, will not act a general real estate business and is said to be interested in a deal involving over $100,000 of Fifth avenue realty.

MORE SQUIRREL HILL LAND SOLD.

Through the Union Realty Company the Pittsburgh Land Company has sold to Calvin King a choice plot of Squirrel Hill frontage for $10,875. The property is situated at the southeast corner of Murray avenue and the boulevard, having a frontage of 167 feet in Murray avenue, 50 feet in Hobart street, 138 feet in Beacon street and an exatreme depth of 200 feet.

George E. Shaw of Beaver Falls has sold to William Glew of this city seven lots, 175x100 feet, on the south side of Finance street, near Braddock avenue, Twenty-first ward, for $14,000.

Charles H. Mitchell is putting on the market a desirable plan of 100 lots situated to the left of the Carnegie street car line and just beyond Crafton. The property is known as the Queen land and has a frontage of 100 feet. The lots are 50x100 feet each and are selling at from $350 to $1,000 each. The usual improvements are to be made soon.

Bids are asked by Architects Neal & Rowland on a brick and timber residence for Hannan Nevin in Sewickley to cost $8,000, and for remodeling the house of W. S. Miller in Bayard street at a cost of $7,000.

FIRMER WHEAT TONES UP THE FLOUR MARKET

Oats Weaker—String Beans Advance—Reduced Supplies Send Bran Prices Higher.

Stronger wheat markets have caused a toning up of the flour situation and local jobbers held quotations yesterday without change. There was some uneasiness two or three days ago lest there might be a decline in wheat, which would weaken the market, but cold weather throughout winter wheat sections has not been so favorable to growing crops as the conditions which heretofore prevailed, and, while there is no real injury reported, there is a probability of a curtailment of production which will bring it down some little below expectations held a short time ago. The Northwestern Miller summarizes the situation as very favorable to prices of flour, on account of extremely small demand and a comparatively small quantity was milled, total production being 21,000 barrels less than that of last week.

There is nothing new in the coffee market, while the visible supply shows a decrease, there is much uncertainty as to the outcome of the next crop, with prospects favoring heavy production. The advance to 6c in bulk market disquieted and a waiting policy prevails among those largely interested. Sugar remains as last reported and quotations hold as at 4.90c for cwt. New York reports occasional reports of cutting in prices, but not many, and the situation is comparatively satisfactory to jobbers.

Limited demand for bran has strengthened the market and local quotations are slightly advanced. Prices yesterday went forward 50 cents a ton. Hay is firm at unchanged figures for No. 1 timothy, with No. 2 slightly lower. Corn continues steady and quotations rule firm. Oats were weak on account of very liberal arrivals, which caused the market to decline sharply, although there was no decline in nominal quotations.

The only change made in produce quotations was a strengthening in string beans, which are scarcer and in active demand. Receiveries just about held their own, with receipts normal and demand fair. Egg plant is virtually out of the market temporarily and buyers are seeking for new peas are in fairly good supply and demand is about equal to supply. Home vegetables received another check with the change in the weather, the warmth of Thursday causing a springing forward of vegetation, which was followed by the decided fall in temperature which followed. However, asparagus and lettuce are coming into market and new spring onions are coming in, plentiful supply, while spinach is in limited supply.

Eggs are unchanged in price, ruling at 16@17 cents, with receipts moderate. Butter is steady and all arrivals move out quickly. Cheese is unchanged.

HAY, GRAIN AND FEED.

FANATICAL FILIPINO LEADER CAPTURED BY GOV. CAILLES

Claimed to Be "Pope of Luzon" and Asserted He Was a Prophet.

IS GUILTY OF CRIMES

It Is Probable That He Will Be Tried for Murder—Moro Is Killed After Wounding Three Soldiers.

MANILA, May 1.—Gov. Cailles of Laguna province and a party of volunteers yesterday captured Rios, the fanatical Filipino leader, in that part of the island of Luzon.

Rios was formerly a blacksmith of Tayabas and claimed to be of divine origin. He attracted many followers and started an insurrection which the constabulary suppressed. He fled to the mountains and later claimed the title of "pope of Luzon," and also asserted he was a prophet.

Gov. Cailles captured Rios in the disguise the latter had worn when appearing as a prophet. He is said to be guilty of many crimes, and probably will be tried for murder.

Son of a Wealthy Russian Finds His Way to Honolulu From Saghalin Island.

HONOLULU, May 1.—The Japanese liner Nippon Maru, which arrived from the orient today, had among her passengers a Russian exile, Ivan Von Boninski, recently escaped from Saghalin island. He boarded the vessel at Yokohama as a stowaway. When discovered he said he was the son of a wealthy resident of St. Petersburg. While a student at a military college he was convicted of rioting and with a number was sent to Saghalin island. Here two of them had died before Von Boninski with another student, made his escape. On hearing his story the passengers on the Nippon Maru purchased a first-class passage for him to this port. He will join the Russian colony near Hilo.

PROSECUTION OF MANY ENGINEERS

Twenty-Four New Cases Have Been Made Out by Rivermen's Association.

LOCAL MEN DISPLACED

Trouble Is Said to Have Been Caused Partly by Outsiders, Attracted by High Wages, Freezing Out Some People.

The Marine Engineers' Benevolent association has placed 24 more cases in the hands of its attorney, and information of alleged violations of the marine laws will be made before United States Inspectors of Steam Vessels George H. Atkinson and Isaac B. Williams in a short time. The governing board of the national association has voted $1,000 to push these cases, and there will be no let-up as in the previous cases. A national officer of the association will arrive in a few days to have charge of the proceedings.

The following is the list of boats against whose engineers information of alleged violation of marine laws has been filed with the local inspectors: The Cyclone, Little Dick, Carbon, Tornado and Jim Wood, owned by the Monongahela Consolidated Coal and Coke Company; the Hazel Watson, owned by Capt. John O. Watson; the Pittsburgh, owned by the Iron City Sand Company, and the Catherine.

This trouble has been brewing for some time. It is the outcome of the strike of two years ago, and its results cannot be estimated. The engineers are paid $100 per month above Louisville and $125 below. This is more than is paid other places, and good engineers have been attracted by the high wages paid by local companies. The quality of the engineers who have come from other places was such that many local engineers have been replaced, and this is alleged to be the cause of the trouble.

No discrimination has been made in making charges by the local association, however, as several of the alleged violators of the marine laws are in good standing in the association. It is against the marine laws for an engineer to be intoxicated whether on duty or not, and the combine and association are attempting to enforce these regulations.

The case of the Carbon will be considered first, some time next week. The outcome will have a bearing on the other cases, and it is awaited with a great deal of interest by the rivermen.

The Marine Engineers' Benevolent association will hold a meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock and the developments will doubtless startle those directly interested.

DOG NOT LICENSED, MASTER SENT TO JAIL

John Duretza of Munhal was yesterday sentenced to serve 10 days in jail because he refused to pay license for his dog. The authorities of Munhall borough have started a crusade against all unlicensed dogs in the borough, and owners of dogs who refuse to secure license for them are to be prosecuted. In Homestead, the adjoining borough, not a single dog license has been taken out this year.

Carried Off the Stove.

Burgess W. S. Ross of Homestead yesterday captured a junk man in the act of taking a stove from a small building in the rear of the burgess' home and promptly arrested and took him to the office of Justice G. W. Giles, where a charge of larceny was entered. A settlement was effected and Burgess Ross withdrew the charge.

Dedication Tomorrow by the Methodists of West Pittsburgh

New $6,000 Methodist Episcopal Church at West Pittsburgh.

The Methodists of West Pittsburgh are justly proud of their new $6,000 church, which will be dedicated tomorrow. It is the first church to be erected in the growing town of West Pittsburgh. The Rev. C. T. Murlock, pastor of the church, has been at the head of the congregation for a year, their first worshiping having been in a tent. Of the cost of the new structure $2,000 was given by the Church union, the rest being raised by the members of the congregation. The Rev. C. V. Wilson, D. D., pastor of the Hazelwood Methodist Episcopal church, will preach the dedicatory sermon and in the evening the Rev. Arthur Staples, president of Beaver college, will deliver an address.

AFTER TRESPASSERS.

B. & O. Railroad Wants Vagrants to Work on Stone Piles.

The attorneys in the legal department of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad are working on an investigation of the trespass act in the state of Pennsylvania. In a number of counties the commissioners have refused to imprison railroad trespassers on the ground that the act is unconstitutional, and the detention of the vagrant prisoners is too expensive for the taxpayers.

Wherever it is possible the railroad officials will make arrangements to have trespassers punished by manual labor on the streets and on stone piles. This was done successfully in Connellsville a number of years ago, but the custom has fallen into disuse.

Forest Fire Destroys Village.

MONTREAL, QUE., May 1.—Extensive forest fires are raging about 50 miles north of here between the towns of St. Jovite and LaBelle. The flames have reached the Canadian Pacific railroad line and the more inhabited portion of the Laurentian district. Today the village of Morrison, containing a mill and about a dozen farm houses, was entirely destroyed.

OIL COMPANY CAN SELL LAND

Injunction Restraining Sale of Real Estate Is Dissolved.

HISTORY OF C. V. CULVER

Test Case in Sheraden Disaster Goes to Jury on Monday—Railroad Has Cook Stove Theory. Criminal Court.

Judge Joseph Buffington of the United States district court yesterday dissolved the injunction restraining the sale of the real estate of the Reno Oil Company. The case has aroused a good deal of interest on account of the personality of the original petitioners in the case and of C. V. Culver, the president of the company.

The real estate of the company was mortgaged a year ago and was advertised for sale last Monday to satisfy the holder of the mortgage bonds, J. D. Geary. Before the sale ex-State Senator J. W. Lee, ex-Judge S. S. Mehard and Miss Susan Beatty, a stenographer, applied for an injunction to enjoin the sale, alleging they were creditors of the company, and that the debt due them was contracted prior to the giving of the mortgage, and that if the property was sold the amount over the mortgage would go to the stockholders. The court adjourned the sale until today, and yesterday Judge Buffington heard arguments on the question. The debt of Judge Mehard and Mr. Lee was for legal services.

When the arguments came up yesterday the three original petitioners practically dropped out of the case, their claims having been satisfied, but in the meantime other creditors and C. V. Culver, president of the company, had intervened and through their attorneys asked to have the injunction continued. Judge Buffington made an order dissolving the injunction, allowing the sale to go on today, but requiring the deposit of a bond for $25,000 to secure all lawful claims of creditors.

OLDEST OIL COMPANY.

The Reno Oil Company is the oldest oil company in existence, having been founded in 1864 by Mr. Culver, who, although 72 years old, is still vigorous, and who followed the argument of the lawyers yesterday with the keenest interest.

Mr. Culver was one of the first men to appreciate the importance of the discovery of petroleum, and his transactions were so large that in 1865 he failed for $4,000,000, an enormous sum in those days. He was considered one of the few great financiers of the country, having a wonderful insight into the future. As indicating his astuteness, he once secured an option on nearly all of the water front in New York city. It is worth millions of dollars today, and Mr. Culver's option was at so low a price that if he could have bought the property outright he would today be one of the richest men in the country. But the capitalists whom he tried to interest in the project had not his judgment of future values, and refused to join with him in buying the water front, so that the option was lost. Attorneys A. Y. Smith and W. G. Negley represented Mr. Culver, Weil & Thorp appeared for D. J. Geary and Eugene Mackey represented the original petitioners.

DEFENSE OF THE RAILROAD.

The defense of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Company to the $25,000 damage suit of Edward Gudfelder was demonstrated yesterday, when witnesses were called in behalf of the company. The action was brought to recover for injuries received as a result of the naphtha explosion at Sheraden on May 12 last.

Gudfelder was hurt at the explosion at the mouth of the sewer at Corkes run. The defense proceeded on the principle that when the naphtha entered the sewer minor explosions occurred at the manholes and thus caused the gas to be forced out of the mouth of the sewer, where, coming in contact with the air, it became combustible and was ignited from the cook stove at the Seymour dwelling, which was shattered.

A brakeman testified that while the cars containing the naphtha were being shifted he gave a signal to back up, and not one to cut the cars, a number of which had separated from the train and telescoped, which resulted in the leakage. He declared he had set the brakes on two of the runaway cars, and if he had known that they were to have been cut off he could have stopped them, but the break was unexpected.

EXAMINED THE SEWER.

An engineer said that after the explosion he entered the sewer for a considerable distance and saw no evidence of fire. He said, to demonstrate the length of time it took the naphtha to run to the mouth of the sewer, he had made an experiment, and the result was 16 minutes and 30 seconds.

John S. Meister, a mason employed by the company, testified he had entered the sewer from its mouth to a great distance and found no trace of fire or any effect that the explosion had on the sewer.

At the conclusion of the day's session the defense offered several points at law. These were taken under consideration by Judge S. A. McClung. The case will be continued Monday.

The absence of a copy of the new juvenile court act yesterday caused Judges J. A. Evans and J. F. Taylor, sitting in criminal court, to abandon their purpose of trying three boys under the act.

Law Librarian Percy Digby was called upon, but he stated he had not yet received a copy of the act, notwithstanding he usually receives copies of acts shortly after they are signed by the governor. After a discussion with Assistant District Attorney W. B. Grimes the juvenile court business was tried in the court of quarter sessions.

In the latter court August Brown was found guilty of illegal liquor selling for the sale of "rikk."

Charles Bickel, the defendant in the suit of John D. Armstrong as administrator and surviving partner of Lathrop R. Bacon & Co., brokers, testified he had been advised to sell the Northern Pacific short by the plaintiff, and that the broker owed him in the neighborhood of $24,000 instead of him owing the broker $26,000.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

It is charged the defendants have sold the lots as absolute owners; that they have received $30,000 and have made no accounting.

Mary A. Phillips entered suit against the Dugbeach Construction Company for alleged damage to property in lower St. Clair township as the result of blasting done by the defendants. It is claimed the sides of the plaintiff's house were broken, windows were shattered and destroyed and that the ceilings were thrown down by the force of the explosions.

The testimony in the divorce case of Elizabeth Larkin against Cornelius Larkin was filed. A witness said that "Larkin worked very little and drank very heavy."

Mrs. Mary Norman entered suit against the Pennsylvania Company for $20,000, damages for the death of her son said to have been killed in a wreck at Cochran station on January of last. The boy was a passenger.

A bill in equity was filed by Thomas and A. McMahan against Burns & Martin, asking for an accounting, and that the defendants be restrained from selling more lots from a tract of land in Rostraver township, Westmoreland county. It is claimed an agreement was entered into whereby the defendants were to sell the lots and pay plaintiffs $800 an acre for all lots sold.

The will of Mrs. Christina Cronemiller was filed. John, a son, is cut off with a bequest of $1. Mary, a daughter, is left $500, and Dalton Phillips, a grandson, is bequeathed $100. The residue of an estate worth $11,274, is bequeathed in equal shares to Carrie, Mary, Edward C. and Jennie F. Cronemiller and Emma Neuheim, Rose Estep and Kate Phillips. Attorneys Patterson, Sterrett & Acheson represent the estate.

M'KEESPORT POLICE ARE AFRAID OF NO. 13

Shield Worn by Officer Who Was Killed, Is Declined by the New Men.

Badge No. 13, formerly worn by William McSweeny, of the McKeesport police force, who several months ago shot and killed Henry A. Weber in mistake for a burglar, has been placed in the museum of curios at the Central police station because nobody will consent to wear it. The shield bearing the fatal number has been idle ever since it was given up by McSweeny.

Yesterday, when Mayor Falkenstein's new force went on duty for the first time, an effort was made to have one of the men accept the badge. Every one of the 36 officers turned it down, and some said they would resign their positions rather than wear the hoodoo.

As it is now constituted the McKeesport force has no No. "13" and the officers are congratulating themselves that no bad omen threatens the success of their administration.

SNOW HELPS CHECK ADIRONDACK FIRES

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., May 1.—A heavy snowstorm set in over the Adirondacks today, partially checking the fierce forest fires that have spread rapidly in the last week. The temperature has dropped about 50 degrees. The hotel St. Armand at Saranac Lake village has been destroyed and the fence and buildings of the driving park were on fire at last accounts. The snowfall that extinguished the flames in the most places was not so heavy at Saranac lake and did not entirely check the forest fires in that vicinity.

Battleships Reach New York.

NEW YORK, May 1.—(Special)—From the southern drill grounds the battleship Kearsarge, flying the new broad pennant of Rear Admiral Barker, with the Alabama and the Iowa, arrived here today and anchored off man-o'-war landing at Tompkinsville. The three battleships were sighted off the Highlands of Navesink at 10:30 a. m. They left Admiral Dewey and his flagship Mayflower off Cape Henry yesterday.
